SIMON O'DONNELL IN BAD WITH FORMER FOLLOWERS

Simon O'Donnell may be fought from the floor of the Building Trades Council tonight.

Dissension in the ranks of his former followers has almost reached the exploding point. The latest strike of the painters has only served to aggravate the trouble.

O'Donnell lost the support of many men supposed to be ardent O'Donnellites at the time he affiliated with Hearst. Their influence will be used against him.

O'Donnell's own organization of painters and glaziers, to which were given the work controlled by the Building Construction Employers' Ass'n, may be ousted and the delegates from the Painters' District Council may be seated.

Three thousand painters are now out on strike.

O'Donnell is also accused of having agreed to supply the building bosses with men regardless of whether they were union men or not.

PREDICT WALKER'S ELECTION

Delegates to the Illinois Federation of Labor convention at Decatur did not begin balloting for president until 2 o'clock this afternoon.

Friends of John H. Walker, representing the miners, are confident that he will be elected president to succeed Edwin R. Wright, who is running for re-election.

A hot race is predicted. Many are of the opinion that there will be only about 20 votes difference between the candidates.
