

HENNESSY SUBPOENED TO APPEAR BEFORE WHITMAN

New York, Oct. 28.—John A. Hennessy, investigator for William Sulzer, who has been pouring hot shot into Tammany, and Edward E. McCall, the Tammany mayoralty candidate, has been subpoenaed to appear before District Attorney Whitman.

Hennessy accepted the gauntlet thrown down by McCall to put his charges into writing, and addressed a letter to McCall making five specific charges, one of which being that McCall acted as Murphy's errand boy to carry threats to Sulzer at Albany.

McCall threatened to start libel suit if the charges were put in "black and white."

Former Gov. Sulzer has declared that all that prevents a complete expose of legislative corruption in this state by ex-Senator Stephen J. Stillwell, now in Sing Sing convicted of soliciting a bribe, is threats of murder if he "peached" on Tammany members and on Chief Murphy.

Sulzer gave out an autograph letter from Stillwell asking him for pardon, in which Stillwell wrote that he had been promised his early release by the agents of the dominant power and that word had been sent him that the governor would be impeached and his prompt release would follow. Sulzer says Stillwell offered a confession implicating many members of the legislature if he were pardoned, but he was afraid to confess in Sing Sing for fear of assassination.

THE KNEE SLIT WAS TOO MUCH FOR PASSAIC—"30 DAYS"

Passaic, N. J., Oct. 28.—Because she wore a black silk dress, slit on both sides to the knees, revealing silk stocking of a parrot green that flashed in the sunlight and drew a crowd, Miss Mary Adamson was arrested by a shocked rural policeman and dragged to court.

"Just take a slant at that slit, judge," the outraged minion of the law demanded.

The judge "slanted" one side, then he commanded that Mary reverse so that he might "slant" the other side, after which he said severely:

"Thirty days; and while you are in jail your friends better make you some petticoats and other things."

Passaic has resumed the even tenor of its ways and is chewing straws again.

—o—o—o— THAT TRADES UNION EDITION

The special trades union edition, formerly advertised as a product of the alliance between Hearst and Simon O'Donnell, will make its appearance within a few days stripped of nearly all visible signs of its relationship to Hearst.

It will bear the union label, thus getting around the boycott placed on it by union labor. It was necessary to get it out in order to fulfill the advertising contracts. It, however, bears the Hearst trade mark, the eagle. And an eagle is a bird of prey.

It is filled with advertisements of big contractors. It has been considerably tamed.
