

anybody who wants the gift of a rooster?"

"I guess old Moses might take him," answered the other, chewing his straw.

---

BUSTLES ARE COMING BACK

By Maybellie Mortimer.

Are you going to wear a bustle this spring?

While you can't say that "Everybody's doing it" now, I think they will be before the fall of 1914.

You will see by comparing the bustle of 1914 with that of 1882 it is a vastly different thing from that our grandmothers wore.

Personally I think the new bustle rather graceful, particularly when carried out in thin material.

With the bustle will also come elbow sleeves with the frills on the bottoms of them and elaborate hair dressing.

We will again look as though we were stuffed pincushions on dressing tables.

The straight silhouette is "on its way."

Enter the buxom beauty in a taffeta gown made with plenty of goods to support the bustle.

---

IT'S A FINE PROPOSITION FOR DANVILLE—BUT THE WOMEN?

Danville, Ill., Jan. 22.—This city is quite proud of its method of dealing with the inmates of disorderly houses, which closely approaches that of the clergyman who said "such women should be driven into the lake."

Danville forces them to leave town or spend six months in jail, and as an additional persuader in the "exit line" the women are kept in jail ten days just to give them a taste of prison treatment and released after that, if they promise to leave and not to return.

They are arrested on a charge of vagrancy and it is only necessary to show they have no visible means of support and spend their time in the houses known to come under the classification "disorderly."

Since it will be necessary for these women to go somewhere Chicago will probably receive a large portion of them.

---

Reginald (anxiously)—If we had never met would you have loved me as much dear? Myrtle (fervently)—More, darling!