

TOO BEAUTIFUL TO REMAIN IN CITY, SO JUDGE MAKES HER GO HOME

Reatha Watson.

Beautiful Reatha Watson, 20, who, a Los Angeles judge declared, was "too pretty to remain in the city unattended." The court gave her the choice of going back to her family or having a guardianship appointed. She returned to her people.

Miss Watson complained that she was constantly being annoyed by "mashers," and it was when she baled one of the more persistent admirers into police court that the judge took official cognizance of her attractiveness.

Beachy again fooled a lot of people when he looped the loop twelve times, accidentally—and landed right side up, cussing.

A woman who will run to catch a street car generally has a husband who wouldn't run unless a fire were built under him.