

YOUNG PLAYER MAKES PARTS—SAD AND GLAD

There is no age limit when it comes to talent!

Edna May Hamel, actress, is standing proof of this, for she is just a few summers in age. Yet she has won a great following of devoted "movie" fans who know and appreciate her ability to create and to interpret characters on the screen.

Edna May has so many "movie" studies to her credit that she can hardly name them all, unless she puts on her thinking cap and borrows pencil and paper.

She has been with the Edison players long enough to become one of the steady regulars upon whom the directors may call at any time and find her ready.

Sometimes she plays fairy tale leads and sometimes she plays pathetic parts. Sometimes she is almost angelically good and sometimes she has a "real ornery" temperament.

But whatever she plays she plays it well!

FAVOR PROSECUTING SIEGEL

New York, April 17.—Banks which lost money in the crash of the enterprises of Henry Siegel and Frank E. Vogel are not endeavoring to effect settlements and strongly favor prosecuting merchant-bankers to the limit. The heads of three big banks whose losses amounted to $600,000 called on Dis't Att'y Whitman and explained their views.
