Johnny Kilbane, featherweight champion, is one fighter who doesn't mind risking his title. Frequent jabs have been taken at the Clevelander by experts, and he has been called a joke champion. But that was some time ago.

By fighting anyone who offered, and winning every time, Kilbane managed to hush the criticism. Tonight in Cincinnati he takes on Knockout Mars in a ten-round battle. This is the second time the two little men have met.

In their other battle Mars was put away in seven rounds. That doesn't sound like he was much to fear. But before Kilbane put over the finishing punch he was a much worried young man, for Mars gave him the battle of his life, the champion being floored once and almost out.

He showed his willingness to mix by giving the challenger another chance so soon. Kilbane should win, but a fighter of the Mars type is liable to spring a surprise any time.

Joe Jeannette won a ten-round decision from Jim Johnson in ten rounds at New York. It was a punk fight.

Herzog 50 Per Cent of Red Strength —Cubs Still Climbing.

No longer is there any mystery about the great bid the Cincinnati Reds made at the start of the pennant race and sustained until two weeks ago.

The answer is Charles Herzog, manager and shortstop.

Herzog has been out of the game for two battles and a half in the present series with the Cubs because of a run in with Umpire Eason, and will still be on a vacation this afternoon, the final day of his suspension.

To all the let down in the work of
