BIG POLITICS IN VICE CRUSADE— HEARST'S HAND SEEN IN THE GAME

Kenna Strength to Be Broken in First Ward—Democracy Split Into Warring Factions—Then Hearst Back of the Bull Moose—Where Does Harrison Come In?

One of the stories going the round concerning the political end of the administration's vice crusade is that Andy Lawrence is the real general who laid out the campaign, and that he has been after Kenna ever since the Civil Service Commission, headed by Harmon Campbell, business manager of the Examiner, fired Capt. Wheeler.

It was pointed out that when the fight was directed against Wheeler and Hunt, investigators were sent into the First Ward to find out what places were open. Then the officers who were "wanted" were called before the commission and asked if the law was being enforced in their district. When they said it was, the investigators were put on the stand and said it wasn't. Then official heads were chopped off.

It is said that Lawrence's special pet in the police department is Capt.
