

SOCIETY GETS MORE GOSSIP FROM ADAMS-M'CORMICK

Chicago and Lake Forest sassiety leaders are finding food for gossip in the announcement that Robert R. McCormick, publisher of the Chicago Tribune, will give a dinner to Mrs. Amie I. Adams, divorced wife of McCormick's cousin, Edward S. Adams, board of trade operator, at the Blackstone hotel tomorrow night.

The Adams-McCormick affair has furnished Chicago's social world with gossip for many months. First came the Adams' divorce. Then came Adams' bill against McCormick charging him with stealing Mrs. Adams' affections while living at the Adams home as the latter's guest and closest friend.

Next came McCormick's petition of bankruptcy against Adams, in which he claimed that Adams owed him $40,000. This is now pending before Judge Landis.

The indictments are said to be a

The indictments are based on information given against police by Isadore Wexler and Nathan Steinberg, convicted burglars, and two other men accused of being "fences."

The indictments will probably hit the Maxwell street station.

WOMAN DIES; HOLD DOCTOR

Dr. Arthur L. Blunt, 9 W. Harrison, was held to the grand jury on a murder charge yesterday. Mrs. Beulah Rehm, former moving picture actress and wife of a Blue Island brewer, told a story of an illegal operation before she died at the Wesley hospital.

Recently the woman became ill and her husband sent her to the Wesley hospital. Here the physicians became suspicious and, after she named Blunt, detectives were put upon the case.

Blunt was brought to her bedside just before her death and was pointed out as the guilty one.

He denies even knowing the woman.
