What the New York Yanks were to the American league the Kansas City franchise is to the Federal P. T. Powers, veteran minor league magnate and sport promoters, gave it out officially in New York yesterday that he had purchased the Kaw team. Officials of the club in Kansas City declared the purchase was news to them, but admitted President Gilmore had power to dispose of the club if he saw fit.

Transfer of the club to the east is again being agitated, and Powers intimated the new venture would be located either in New York or Newark. Invasion of New York proper has been threatened for some time by leaders of the third league.

Excellent locations can be had for the team and President Gilmore and Robert Ward of the Brooklyn Tip Tops are said to favor a site in the Bronx. Removing the team from Kansas City would be a good business stroke for the Federal league. The geography of the circuit is too lopsided at present and the jaunt out to Kansas City absorbs too much coin for railroad fare.

President Thomas and Manager Bresnahan of the Cubs are in New York today to attend the schedule meeting of the National league, which will be held tomorrow. The schedule business is a side issue with the two Cub officials. Their prime interest is in any loose athletes, and Bresnahan has several trades in mind which will be engineered if he can catch the other managers in a proper frame of mind.

The local leaders are willing to use both players and coin to fill some of the positions which need strengthening, and they will not balk at the expenditure of a few dollars. One man often means the difference between a winning and losing team, and no one realizes this fact better than Bresnahan.

California, because of the exposition and the coin visitors will have to spend, is to be popular with ball teams for spring training. The magnates see a chance to make a share of their expenses on a venture that is usually a dead loss.

Indianapolis of the American association is the latest team to plan an invasion of the coast, following the lead of the White Sox. Jimmy McGill, president of the club, attempted to schedule some contests with the Sox during the trip but was frowned down by Secretary Grabner, who, according to the Indianapolis men, seemed to think the Hoosiers had no business in the Golden state.

Games are slated with Venica, however, and an effort will be made to arrange a series with the New York Giants, who will be working down in Texas. The St. Louis Browns and the Cards will also be in Texas and games may be carded with those squads.

Manager Rowland of the Sox was expected today to make final arrangements for the White Sox conditioning junket. He will be a guest tomorrow night at a banquet on the South Side given by the White Sox Rowland club, an organization formed to root for the new leader.

In the wrestling finals of the International Gymnastic union yesterday at Hoerber's hall, Chicago Hebrew Institute led the senior division with 19 points. Fifteen points placed the Chicago Swedish A. C. second, and Sleipner A. C. was third with 11 points. Seven new champions were enthroned and four retained their titles.

The winners were: H. Torps, 115 pounds; P. Torps, 125 pounds; A. Forst, 135 pounds; K. Anderson, 145 pounds; B. Reuben, 158 pounds; M. Nygard, 175 pounds; F. Larson, heavyweight.
