

OUTBURSTS OF EVERETT TRUE

Speaking of the power of the press: A Chicago poet wrote a poem called, "Hail, Straw Hat Day," and it did.

Some one charges there is a trust in fountain pens. Imagine any one having trust in fountain pens,