

THEY CALL HER "THE UNAFRAID"—SHE'LL
ALWAYS TAKE A CHANCE

BY GERTRUDE M. PRICE

Earth, sea or sky have no terrors for Kathlyn Williams, the beautiful star of the Selig photo players, whose pet ambition is to be the first successful woman hydro-aeroplane operator in the world.

One look at her fearless face is a good omen of the fulfillment of her plan. "Billie" or "Unafraid," as her friends call her, has run the gamut of moving picture sensations all the way from flying machines to acting in a cage where there was untamed lions.

She has never refused to risk her own safety for the sake of a good picture.
