MAY GET OFFICER WALSH ON CONTEMPT CHARGE

Refusal to pay attention to stop order issued by Judge Harry N. Fisher of court of domestic relations and arresting of James Crocker after he had been released on bail may result in Officer John T. Walsh being found guilty of contempt of court.

Warrant was issued for Crocker on July 9, charging wife abandonment. When Crocker learned of it he appeared in court with his attorney and gave bail to appear July 16.
Judge Fisher thereupon entered stop order against the warrant that had not yet been served, instructing any police officer that Crocker was not to be taken into custody.

In a petition to file contempt proceedings, H. R. Porter, attorney for Crocker, declares that Walsh appeared at 1731 Plymouth pl., where Crocker works, on the afternoon of the 14th and was informed stop order had been issued. He said he would be back the next morning and take Crocker anyway. On July 15 at 8:30 he went again to the shop and, though the stop order was read to him, he forced Crocker to go to the Harrison police station with him and is alleged to have said he didn't care a d— for the stop order. Crocker was kept in jail until afternoon and released by order of Judge Robinson.
