WORRY

By Jim Manes

Worry, they say, and we feel that it's right,

Will bring lots of trouble to people, It leads all of reasoning away out of sight.

You go up in the air like a steeple. When you get so darn used to being confused,

And for petty-tongued folks you will fall,

Your old senses lose track, by gosh, it's a fact,

That you never should worry at all.

P. S.—As the wise man would say: "One worry cast off is worth a million in the brain."

CHICAGO GRAIN.—Grain down. Provisions down. Sept. wheat close, $1.04½.

NEW YORK STOCKS.—War stocks strong and active.

WEATHER FORECAST

Partly cloudy tonight and Tuesday. Gentle to moderate. Shifting winds, becoming northerly.
