

that means that we are looking for it. You may leave it to the capitalists. They will find some patriotic reasons for it, to salute the flag, a battleship Maine, or something.—N. Lean, 2123 Potomac Av.

ADVICE TO JANEY.—My advice to the poor, unfortunate woman who has to live with a man who is addicted to the use of intoxicants would be to obtain a divorce immediately and procure an injunction against him that he must refrain from molesting her. Then go and live somewhere he will not find her, if she wants to save her life, for such a brute would not stop at anything to murder her at the impulse of the moment. Such a man ought to be placed in an institution for defectives. Furthermore, drunks should be prohibited from ever marrying, for the children born from such men only create more drunks. — Mrs. Mrs. Louise Cuthbert, 248 W. Goethe.

EATING ALCOHOL.—When your system is poisoned from eating beefsteak and you have auto-intoxication from its use as a food, there are few things that can be eaten.

Take a good brandy of high alcoholic proof and mix with equal parts of milk. Watch your own case and make the dose in accordance with it. About a pint every 24 hours, the alcohol will act as a perfect food, leaving no poisonous residue if the proper amount is taken. An examination for a tapeworm should also be taken, as beefsteak in most cases is the cause of tapeworm.

Dr. "Dry" Kellogg says that beefsteak is unfit to eat. Besides, it seems so inhuman to kill a defenseless animal that eats what we cannot eat and transforms part of its food into milk and a fertilizer that is of great benefit to mankind.—Robert Doner.

IT'S RATHER UNUSUAL—

for three little girls in one family to have their birthdays on the same day each year, but that's the fun the youngsters in the above picture have. They're the daughters of Mr. and Mrs. Hugh McGowan of Birmingham, Ala., and all were born on Nov. 9 of different years. They are 8, 6 and 2.
