"WOMAN'S WORK IS NEVER DONE, ETC."

Sir—My wife belongs to a ladies' guild. Recently they held a bazaar. Only things made by women were on display—"women's work." f. w. put it. In the midst of this affair the husband of a certain member staggered in with a bun on. He had a black eye and a swollen jaw. "Get out," chorused the ladies, "this is only for women and women's work only!" "I'm a sample of woman's work," said the souse. "My wife gave me this black eye this morning."—Art.

MUSIC AT THE MOVIES

Just when the hero is bravely
Saving the "goll" from her fate,
Just when the boys
Stop all their noise
Hoping to watch and to wait,
Then there comes a diversion,
A bump, and a roll, and a hum—
It is old Hi Bland, who plays in the band
Beating his tenor drum!
Just when the "goll" is dying,
Just when her hands grow cold;
Just when the tears,
Just when the fears
Of the audience are bold!
Then there comes a diversion—
A roar and a rattle, a moan,
It is the brand new pipe organ
Which starts with a wheeze and groan!
