

the money and securities you just gave to that scoundrel in a room in that building back yonder. Take them," and I thrust the packet into his trembling hands. "Out of justice to me, I think you should assure me that I have helped a real cause by restoring your property to you."

And then I told him how I came to be of service to him. He insisted upon my going to his home. There I met my fate.

Leon! Bowen, then—Leonie Armittage, my wife, now! How natural it all seems to me now that the gratitude of her father should communicate itself to her, that interest should lead to sympathy, that this in turn should end in love—love, the vision splendid of this sober, serious old world of ours!

(Copyright, 1916, W. G. Chapman.)

MOVIE GOSSIP

Edna May, once reigning stage beauty, will shortly be seen on the screen in Vitagraph's "Salvation Joan."

E. H. Sothern refuses to play Shakespeare except with Julia Marlowe. He will make his screen debut as a "modern lover" supported by Anita Stewart, Lillian Walker and Edith Storey.

Vivian Martin, who starred in Fox's "Merely Mary Ann," spends all her spare time now on skates. Ice skating is her chief diversion in winter, while in summer she divides her time between basketball and her auto.

Harold Lockwood and May Allison, American Film stars, have quit the Santa Barbara studios. Miss Allison has signed with Metro, but the future plans of Lockwood have not been divulged.

IT'S SIMPLE! YES, VERY SIMPLE.

Simple little thing is this bathing costume, worn recently at Coronado Beach, Cal., by Miss Dorcas Surth. The simplicity attracted a great deal of comment, for as the daughter of a New York millionaire Miss Surth could afford the most elaborate of frills. As a good sportswoman, however, she prefers simple garb for the beach.

