

ONE CENT—LAST EDITION—ONE CENT

'SCHOOL BOARD MANAGEMENT RANK'
WASHINGTON DOUBTS VILLA'S DEATH

THE DAY BOOK

An Adless Newspaper, Daily Except Sunday

VOL. 5, NO. 171

Chicago, Monday, April 17, 1916

398

ART MEEKER'S PALACE TURNING TO CHEESE

A Great North Side Mystery—What Is Oozing From the Imported Brick of the Elegant Home of the Stockyards Plute?—Is It Limburger Cheese?

Has every plute a secret sorrow
boring holes in his mental insides?

Well, mebbe he has and mebbe he hasn't. But, annyhow, there is one Chicago plute who has a secret sorrow and all his friends are talking about it.

The route to the sacred circles of Chicago's swellest and most exclusive sassiety leads through the piggy precincts of our justly celebrated and sweet-smelling stockyards.

Intimate association with cattle, hogs and sheep—the familiar handling of lard, pigs' knuckles, hogs' shanks, spareribs, sausage and other delicatessen from the far-famed anatomy of the great American hog

—all this seems to be a necessary preliminary step toward putting on the thin layer of culture that opens the golden doors of Chicago's select 400.

And one of the shining examples of Chicago stockyards art, a butcher plute who has gone the route from the stock yards to palatial preserves on Sheridan road and Lake Shore