M. C. Walsh will speak at Pullman shops Mon. and Tues., Northwestern R. R. shops wed. and Thurs., Crane Co., Fri. and Sat. Subject: "Charles 'Evasion' Hughes' Veto and Labor Record."

R. R. BOSSES WON'T ARBITRATE

Railroad presidents and managers in Chicago refuse to arbitrate with building trades' unions, according to Simon O'Donnell, president Building Trades Council, before railway terminals committee city council today. When E. P. Ripley, Hale Holden and the rest of the railroad high men are ready to arbitrate, the union station construction work will make headway, O'Donnell claimed.

URNS LIGHT ON PULLMAN CO.

Seymour Stedman, Socialist candidate for governor, played a searchlight on the Pullman Co. last night at Avondale school. He cited report to Kansas industrial commission. While 19,296 workers of Pullman Co. got $13,949,000 wages last year, the stockholders divided $13,924,000.

Pittsburgh. — Milk was advanced 1 cent a quart in Pittsburgh and suburbs, following capitulation by Pittsburgh distributors to demands of Northern Ohio producers' organization.

Calumet, Mich. — Three inches of snow fell here and in surrounding copper region during night and early today.

Detroit.—Detroit experienced first "dry" Sunday in years yesterday. Police Com'r Cotzens order for closing of Sabbath saloon enforced to letter.

TOOTHLESS ANNIE

By Jim Mines

She's a cute little kid with her smiling face,

And a hair ribbon, maybe, all out of place.

Who ever taught her what tidiness was?

Nobody did. She should worry, because

She's happy and free to play and grow fat.

She's a plump little thing in her sun-bonnet hat.

She amuses the people who pass by her place,

'Cause there's two teeth out of the front of her face.

P. S.—"I'll tell you how to get it out, Annie. Jes' tie a string to your tooth and the other end to the door. Then slam the door." "Yes, but if I slam the door I'll get a lickin' and that'll hurt worse than if I go to the dentist and have the tooth pulled out by him."

("Teacher's Pet" Tuesday.)

WANT PAISLEYS INDICTED

Six joint indictments against W. H. Paisley and his sons, Oliver F. and James T., for accepting deposits while their North Shore saving bank and its branches were insolvent asked today of the grand jury.

NEW YORK STOCKS. — Gains general. Trading active.

WEATHER FORECAST

Increasing cloudiness followed by rain tonight; Tuesday partly cloudy and colder; fresh southwest winds, shifting to northwest tonight and becoming strong. Temperature Sunday: High, 60; low, 45.
