

IS PIG TO TAKE PLACE OF THE LAP DOG?

Mrs. Fabyan, Society Leader, With One of Her Prize Pigs; Edna Mayo and Her Lap Dog.

Will society abandon the lap dog?

Will it turn poor "Tootsum Tinkums" out in the cold, cold world?

Well, anyway, Mrs. Nellie Fabyan, leader of smart society in Chicago and Newport, has a new pet and it's not a dog.

Her hobby is pigs.

She has a herd of them at her country home, "Riverbank Villa," in suburban Chicago.

The ferocious looking beast in the picture is her pet and the winner of many prizes at stock shows.

NOTES ON LATEST FASHIONS

By Betty Brown

Serge will loom up again when spring suits appear, a few weeks hence.

Gray in its various shades and tones will be the color of colors in spring. The milliners like it, the modistes like it and, if it becomes fashionable, the rest of us will be sure to like it, too.

Sports stockings of noisiest plaid

—yellow, tan and blue; green, brown and red, and so on, are visible in the shops. Be prepared to see them on the streets shortly.

Suede gloves are the gloves of the hour. They come in such cheerful colors at pale yellow, tan and very light brown.

Aeroplanes, ready for delivery, are on a sale in a Broadway, New York city, store.
