LANE TECH LATEST TO START OPEN FORUM—BEGINS SAT.

Chicago, which is rapidly growing important as a center of real democratic thinking and debating, is to have a new open forum which should interest all thinkers and workers.

Beginning next Saturday, Jan. 13, the Lane Technical night school will have a civic forum, known as the North Side People's Forum. From then on speaking and open questions from the floor will be the program every Saturday evening.

A prominent list of speakers will occupy the platform during the winter. For the initial program Andre Tridon will speak on "Social Preparedness."

Fred Fritz, who has been instrumental in accomplishing the forum, graciously makes it known to The Day Book Public Forum writers that they and their friends are "especially invited."

The Lane Community Center is also booming along. Numberless enjoyments are offered. Dances are held Thursday, Friday and Saturday evenings. Here's a chance for Day Book readers, particularly those on the North Side, to have real pleasure and take part in instructive debating.
