PLAN TWO IMPROVEMENTS FOR THE STOCKYARDS

Chicago's pride and horror, the stockyards, will be touched twice by the hands of progress if the suggestions of M. J. Faherty, president of the board of local improvements, are taken by the council.

Suggestion number one provides for a street through the yards to allow people to cross it, from east and west. The other proposal eliminates stinking Bubbly Creek, the odoriferous wonder of the world, and substitutes a regular sanitary sewer to carry off stockyards filth.
