

ONE OF THE NEW EMBROIDERED PARASOLS.

Council asked her to prepare a paper on Greek art. The research involved in the work awoke a spirit of investigation that has since embraced all ages and schools, ancient and modern. Many notable writers today owe much to early literary club experience.

FEMINE FLOTSAM.

His Ideal Woman. "Man has a number of fixed, old-fashioned notions about the ideal woman which are quite apart from questions of complexion and dress," writes Carrie E. Garrett in the Woman's Home Companion.

The sober truth is that while men may seek diversion with the more showy, flippant type of girl, and are often caught by mere glitter, they have an ideal far above this cheap type which is imperishable. A man does not picture a completely limp and characterless creature as his soul's ideal, however 'sweet.' Yet the woman as she appears in his dreams is not too clever. It is a pleasure to him to be a little superior to his mate—to be looked up to—and as the true woman desires arrangements in these matters to be without design. The most charming woman of all is she who has the comely summative wit to look up when really she stands on a level with the man who loves her, or perhaps a little above him.

One thing imperatively demanded in the make-up of the ideal woman is sympathy—that all-divining, all-for-giving quality which makes the whole world akin. Sympathy is one of the prime factors of charm. So is humor. A man is fearful of a woman whose wife cannot see the joke. She would hardly offer him a more hearty laugh than to laugh in the wrong 'deadly' affront of his pet stories. The ideal woman is religious—has the wise, sweet, old-fashioned notions about right and wrong. A man is quite capable of making merry over his wife's sermons of conscience, but I think he would rather be disappointed if she had no scruples in his worldly ways. He would be guided chiefly by expediency. He may not say many prayers himself, but he likes to know that his children pray at their mother's knee. Perhaps he sometimes regrets that the nightly petition from innocent lips "God bless father," may not be quite empty in meaning.

THE WOMAN'S VEHICLE.

It Gives New Freedom and Advantages to Women.

Women have taken possession of the automobile as something distinctively within their province. There are at present in the city of Chicago twelve ladies who are entitled to classification as full-fledged motorists, unattended or accompanied only by lady friends. In New York City there are twice as many. The city of Philadelphia has two, and upward of a score of other ladies are found in the smaller communities throughout the country. Several women physicians in various sections of the country are already using automobiles regularly in making their professional calls, and the new mode of travel has so many advantages that it is certainly a very general adoption. Two classes of women to whom the automobile will mean much—strange though it may appear at first thought—are the professional nurses in the hospitals and kindergarten teachers in the large cities. The automobile ambulance, with its greatest speed and reduced jarring and jolting of patients, will indirectly prove helpful in many ways to the white-aproned workers in wards of suffering. To the kindergarten instructors the horseless vehicle will prove a great convenience in returning the little pupils to their respective homes. One benefit it will confer, which will doubtless be appreciated to a greater or less extent by pretty nearly every woman in the land, is the improvement of the postal service. Especially will this be true in the rural districts, where the automobile will do much to hasten the day of universal delivery, and will be best appreciated by farmers' wives and daughters who have experienced the disadvantages of life in isolated districts.

Sixteen young women received diplomas from the Housekeepers' alliance of Philadelphia, March 22, after testing their thorough acquaintance with plain cooking. This is the alliance's first graduating class. An effort is being made under the combined auspices of the alliance and some members of the New Century club, interested in the subject, to have a demonstration of electric cooking held in Philadelphia this spring.

Mrs. Jennie June Croly is not going abroad to remain permanently. In reply to the rumor she says that she is simply going to Paris for the summer, but that America is her home, and that her interests and life long friends are here and she could not stay away from them.

Mrs. Ruth McHenry Stuart found her first impulse toward literary work in the modest duties assigned her when she was a member of a little club in Washington, Ark.

Mrs. Mary H. Ford's first abiding interest in art came to her when the president of Kansas City Friends in

A CHARMING NEGLIGE.

A dainty room-gown is made of white dotted Swiss, trimmed with insertions of narrow embroidery and a wide edge. A deep sailor collar with a border of the wide embroidery falls over the shoulder, and in a jabot in front. The gown is slightly confined at the waist with a white satin ribbon.

IN THE WORLD OF WOMEN.

The season, Christensen's orchestra has been engaged as has also the Eighteenth ward hall for next Friday evening, April 13. The committee is made up of the following young men and ladies of the ward: Misses Josie Howard, Kate Staryer, Annie Hansen and May Tovey. Messrs. Clarence Nealen, Geo. NOTABLE UTAH WOMEN.

MRS. ELLEN C. JAKEMAN.

Mrs. Ellen Jakeman was born in Utah in the year 1859, when everything was in a very primitive stage. She had adventures with Indians in her very early youth and also experienced the severities of the weather in this then rigorous climate in one of the log huts which were at that time the prevailing style of architecture. She attended the crude and inadequate public schools, and so gained a faint idea of what education might be, rather than an education. She thrived, however, on the rugged fare and discipline of pioneer life, and from her earliest years was considered original and rather headstrong.

Her bent for literature was early developed, and some of her work is of high grade, even though she had been somewhat handicapped by lack of early advantages. She has been also a student, taking up one at a time of the English branches, until she has accomplished much in the way of sharpening her literary tools.

She seems almost to have been born a disciple of the doctrine of Woman's Rights, and has been from the earliest movement in that direction, an untiring worker in woman's cause. She was president of the first Woman's Suffrage association of Sanpete county, which she held until her removal to Utah county, where she now resides.

She is a staunch Democrat, and has done much active service for her party. She has always been outspoken for her political principles unhindered by praise or blame, and has never been afraid to stand alone, nor to be unpopular. She is a forcible public speaker and makes a strong impression upon an audience.

She was elected treasurer of Utah county in 1894, which position she occupied with dignity and ability, and it is conceded even by opponents that she finished a term with an entirely clear record.

For the past two years she has been touring in California and Mexico, gaining experience and gathering material for use in her chosen work; sending traveler's letters to several Salt Lake publications during her stay.

She is the mother of five living children whom she is endeavoring to equip for the battle of life in the best possible manner.

She is in the prime of life, possesses magnificent health, indefatigable energy, and unflinching cheerfulness; in short, she may be called a typical Western Woman.

with a banquet and social, the event occurring at the residence of L. E. Sprague.

The repeat was most elaborate and the evening delightfully spent with music and social pastime. Those who contributed to the evening's enjoyment were Mr. Carrington of the Grand, William Crawford, James Graham, George Barton and the Cunningham Mandolin and Guitar club.

On Wednesday Miss Edith Berry and Mr. John Reynolds, of Springville, were married, the event taking place in the Temple. A reception was held at the home of the groom at Springville, in the evening, a large number of friends and relatives being present.

Both have a host of friends who extend good wishes for their future welfare.

Mr. and Mrs. Fred Hale entertained at dinner on Wednesday in honor of Mr. and Mrs. Charles E. Angle of Rochester, New York. The table was prettily decorated with carnations and ferns and a delicious menu served.

Miss Florence M. Anderson, of 217 West Fifth South street, who has been visiting with Mr. and Mrs. Joseph A. Buttle at Provo for the past three months, returns home this evening.

Miss Burke entertained at dinner on Thursday.

Mrs. Root and Miss Mather entertained at a pleasant social function on Monday. The guests were tastefully dec-

A delightful informal musicale was given at the residence of Mrs. Fordyce on Tuesday evening. Those who took part in the program were Miss Edith Hill, Miss Emma Fordyce, Miss Lottie Dousman and Miss Houghton.

Mr. Ed Kimball, who has been attending school in Provo spent the conference season in Salt Lake.

Mr. George Bradley of Spokane, Wash., is in the city, and will reopen an office here. Mr. Charles Broff will return from Spokane to take charge of it.

The University club will entertain in a social way at their club rooms in the Jennings block on Saturday April 14th.

An event to which society people are looking forward with interest is the Vaudeville and Gibson picture entertainment to be given by St. Mark's guild at the Theater April 15th.

Miss Sadie Smith has for her guests Misses Bessie and Emma Cross.

Mr. and Mrs. P. S. Mathias who have been spending the winter at Phoenix, Arizona, will return shortly to Salt Lake.

Mr. George T. Odell left on Monday for Butte, where he expects to locate permanently.

Misses Florence Lamb of Reno and Ida Smithson of American Fork are spending a few days with friends in the city.

Miss Clara Houck of Blackfoot, Idaho, arrived yesterday and will visit with relatives until after Easter.

CLUB CHAT.

The Business Woman's club met on Tuesday in an informally social way, questions relative to the future policy of the club being discussed during the evening. Amongst the pleasant features of the evening were a number of vocal selections beautifully rendered by Miss Jessup. The affair is one of a series which are planned to be a feature of the club.

The non-arrival of casts for the art exhibit planned for this week by the Ladies' Literary club occasioned a postponement of the affair for an indefinite time.

The Reviewers will meet Monday, April 9, with Mrs. W. A. Neiden. The program will be in charge of Mrs. Vincent; the subject "P. Krapotkin and Things Russian."

The Cleopatra met on Tuesday at the home of Mrs. Eldredge. Mrs. Wells, assisted by Mrs. Eldredge, gave a lecture on Ancient Sculpture, touching upon Egyptian Assyrian and Persian sculpture. Mrs. Wells handled her subject in a very able manner. Next week's program is a continuation of this same subject and Miss Culmer and Miss Calder have the afternoon.

The Round Table club holds its next meeting at the residence of Mrs. J. L.

Embroidery appears on the new parasols as well as on the waists and sleeves with which they are to be carried. This one is a dream of delicate beauty. It is made of white crepe de chine and has ruffles of white chiffon. A wreath of violets, with their green leaves, is embroidered near the edge.

Rawlins. Mrs. J. D. Spencer is chairman of the day, and the subject is Robert Browning.

Women engaged in philanthropic work among young children have been disheartened summer after summer at their inability to provide a place in the country or at the seaside for sick infants. Through the generosity of two women, who wish their names withheld from publication, an infants' hospital and a beach pavilion will be built at Coney Island this summer. The new buildings will be an extension to those owned there by the Children's Aid society of Brooklyn, to whom the gift of $10,000 for the purpose was made. The hospital will be reserved for cases of critical illness. The main floor will be divided into a number of rooms, so as to permit mothers to be with their sick children. The buildings are to be finished in time for the summer season.

The Woman's Christian Temperance Union of New York is directing attention to preventive and correctional work among children. It has proposed to the sheriff of Kings county a plan of appointing special deputy sheriffs whose duty it shall be to discover and, if necessary, arrest juvenile offenders in a crusade to suppress juvenile crime and reclaim offenders. In their letter to the sheriff the committee call attention to street-gambling, the assembling at improper times and places of the youth of both sexes, the illegal use of tobacco and intoxicants, and other petty offenses. They suggest that if from two to four representative men from each of the churches were vested with authority as special officers, there would be a prompt and growing decrease in this wrong-doing. "It would be brought about," they say, "not by making arrest, primarily, but by the establishment of a strong public sentiment in favor of the right."

The sheriff has approved the plan, and has appointed a committee, consisting of five clergymen, a teacher in the place of the woman's club, Melrose, Mass. It has three branches of work, the decoration of grammar schools with pictures and works of art applicable to the course of study; the admission of two members of the graduating class of the high school each year to the club as honorary members, leaving the selection to the teachers. The last branch of the work is the formation of Mothers' clubs which will give assistance to primary grades.

Three leading principles are presented by the Massachusetts State federation in its "Home Talent Day" programs: 1.—To avoid mental confusion and to leave a clear-cut, definite impression of the subject. Usually a subject has only one subject should be presented at a session, unless the subjects are very closely allied. 2.—Make sure that the topic selected is rich in interest, vital in its import, and worthy of serious study. As Russell wrote to a post-friend, "Work your material all you please, only be sure it is gold and worth working." 3.—Take up the subject from different points of view. Usually a subject has several sides—historical, ethical, social, and economic—which should be developed in the papers and discussion.

The adoption of these rules wouldn't be a detriment, of course, meetings outside of the one specified by the federation. Mrs. Anna Maxwell Jones, secretary of the general federation Paris exposition committee, writes: "The Paris meeting of the general federation has been given up, also the tour. I still receive letters regarding the tour, so I am advising State chairmen to send a notice to their most widely read State newspapers, so that no club woman may be disappointed. Miss Helen M. Winslow advises club women to take warning from the mental status of the following would-be student: John Swift, the rapid reader, sat him down to read: Sermon, essay, poem, leader—what an awful spree! Such omnivorous absorption no good end attains: John Swift, the rapid reader, ignorant remains."

Even the cherished treasures of the china closet are not exempt from one woman's little hatchet. It all happened at a meeting of the Denver Woman's club, and Miss Emily Miles was the brave warrior who broke up your Sevres ware into a thousand atoms and then said the scattered bits never had been artistic, and that Sevres china should have conventionalized decorative effects, not pictures that changed their colors in firing and were consequently unnatural. As if that shattering of your ideal were not sufficient, Miss Miles went on to say that Gobelins tapestry is not the exquisite creation that tradition has taught us to respect and admire; that weavers cannot weave

The social tulle of the past four or five weeks seemingly reached its lowest ebb during the past one. Conference has been a chief element in this result—the many religious meetings and other functions keeping the many from attending in any great degree to social affairs. Amongst other circles Lent has operated as an effective agent in the prevailing quiet of the social realm, the fact that it has been the last days of the season of sacrifice conducive to the added quiet. A few private affairs have enlivened the septenary and these have been of a most delightful nature.

One of the most elaborate functions of the season was the luncheon given by Mr. Samuel Newhouse at the Alta club yesterday.

The decorations, furnished by Florist Evans, were most beautiful, the table having a huge centerpiece consisting of maidenhair fern and plume. Large corsage bouquets of violets and lilies of the valley flanked the centerpiece with long streamers of violet ribbon fastened to them and stretching to the places of the guests by whom the bouquets were drawn from the center. An elaborate menu was served the service was perfect and the event in all details delightful. Covers were laid for fifteen, the guests being: Mrs. Hempstead, Miss Sherman, Miss Laura Sherman, Miss Park, Miss Katz, Miss Freed, Miss Zane, Miss Murray, Miss Giddes, Miss Hunt, Miss Noble, Miss Torne, Miss Burke, Miss Florence Kurke.

On Wednesday Miss Carol Croxall Cannon, the adopted daughter, and Mr. Willard Telle Cannon, a son, of George Q. Cannon, were united in marriage, the ceremony being solemnized at noon in the Temple, President Geo. Q. Cannon officiating.

A dinner was served at 6 o'clock at the residence of Geo. Q. Cannon on Eighth West street and a reception followed, about a hundred guests consisting of the relatives of the bride and groom and the Kensington club, of which the bride is a member, being present.

The parlors were prettily decorated with cut flowers and smilax, and the dining room with palms and potted plants.

The bride wore a beautiful gown of white duchesse satin with trimmings of mousseline de soie, and carried a bouquet of orange blossoms, sent by friends in California for the occasion.

Mrs. Hal Brown was the hostess at a thimble party on Wednesday, about thirty-five guests being present. The color scheme was violet and the idea was carried out in dainty flowers.

Mrs. Brown was assisted by Mrs. T. R. Black, Mrs. F. G. Patrick, Mrs. G. S. Peyton, Mrs. H. B. Cole. A prize for the best button hole was awarded Mrs. Hickford, and Miss J. L. Franklin took the consolation. The guests besides these were:

Mrs. Geo. Dern, Mrs. Andrew Hoppage, Mrs. Arthur Bratton, Mrs. H. Joy Johnson, Mrs. Dr. Mack, Mrs. Dr. Dobby, Mrs. Terry, Mrs. J. L. Franklin, Mrs. Edgar Duncan, Mrs. Walter Drecht, Miss Ethel Paul, Miss Gertrude McGrath, Miss Winnie McGrath, Miss Lute McMillan, Miss Thorne, Miss Maud Thorne, Mrs. S. L. Buggs, Miss Catherine Page, Mrs. Eugene Peyton, Miss Florence Terhune, Miss Alice Miller, Miss Sherman, Miss Laura Sherman, Miss Howatt, Miss Margaret Howatt, Miss Savage, Miss Louise Savage, Miss Katherine Lowe, Mrs. Hickford, Miss Conley, Miss Jessie Earles.

Mrs. E. G. Tuttle entertained at a progressive tea on Thursday. The rooms and tables were beautifully decorated in pink and white roses and carnations, pale pink chrysanthemums and white hyacinths with pink and white crepe paper artistically entwining the chandeliers carrying out the idea. The affair was most elaborate and delightful in all details.

Mrs. J. M. Howman entertained at a progressive tea on Wednesday, about twenty-five guests being present. The decorations were chrysanthemums, carnations and smilax artistically arranged. The guests were: Dr. and Mrs. Hosmer, Dr. and Mrs. Griswold, Mr. and Mrs. Jolly, Mr. and Mrs. Evans, Mr. and Mrs. Stevens, Mr. and Mrs. Carpenter, Mr. and Mrs. Root, Mr. and Mrs. Bogue, Mr. and Mrs. Shep, Mr. and Mrs. Hoge, Mr. and Mrs. Tracey, and Miss Stewart.

Mrs. H. E. Carey entertained at a pleasant dinner party on Tuesday, covers being laid for nine.

The table was prettily decorated with a centerpiece of pink roses and sprays of plume. The guests were: Mr. and Mrs. Tuttle, Mr. and Mrs. Ed Carey, Mr. and Mrs. Ferguson, Miss Munday.

On Thursday night the Veteran Artillery of the Navajo Legion gave an enjoyable entertainment in the Thirtieth ward hall, nearly 200 people being present. These included veterans of the early Indian wars in this Territory together with their families. A pleasant musical program was given, followed by an address by Joseph F. Smith, after which the evening was given up to social recreation and dancing by the younger guests, refreshments being served during the evening.

On Tuesday night the Salt Lake Legion No. 1, Select Knights of Kansas, gave an enjoyable card party at the O. U. W. hall, the game being high five.

The ladies' first prize was won by Miss Petrovsky, the second by Mrs. Harvey; first gentlemen's by Mr. J. Kirkonah and second by George A. Knudson. It was resolved that a prize of a handsome gold-framed mirror will be presented to the lady who was most regular in attendance from this time till the first of the year.

An enjoyable time was passed by all.

On Tuesday, May 1st, the second annual banquet of the Pan-Hellenic society will be given, a committee having been already appointed to prepare for the event. The committee consists of Dana Smith, A. T. Schroeder, A. P. Sawyer, Jr., and A. K. Therman. There are already 150 members and the society desire all those who are eligible to communicate with the officers in case they may wish to join with the association.

The young people of the Twentieth ward have decided to give another dancing party which will be the last of
