MONUMENT FOR NEWEL KNIGHT. The special from Niobrara, Nebraska, to a Salt Lake morning paper, which states that Isaac Riddle, of Utah, and his brother J. H. Riddle, of Crete, Nebraska, are at Niobrara trying to locate the burial ground of Jesse Knight, a Mormon people who were buried there in 1846, is of some interest to those who lost relatives at that place.

In the fall of 1846 the Knight family and their belongings were driven from Nauvoo, located at a point on the Missouri river, where the town of Niobrara now stands. They called the place Little Ponko, on account of it being on the banks of the Ponko river. There they remained till the spring of 1847, when some of them started for the valleys. Some of the pilgrims died and were buried at Little Ponko, among them Newel Knight, father of Jesse Knight, of this city. The widow was left with seven little children and went to Winter Quarters where she remained two years before coming to Utah with the family.

It is the intention of Jesse Knight to erect a suitable monument to mark the resting place of his father (who he does not remember) and the other Saints who were buried at Little Ponko, in the vicinity of the town of Crete, Nebraska, in view of the fact that he is now in view he induced Mr. Riddle to go to Niobrara. Mr. Riddle was one of those who stopped at Little Ponko during the winter of 1847; he was older than Mr. Knight, and believed he could locate the burial ground. When he died, that purpose, Mr. Knight has not yet had any report from Mr. Riddle.

FOURTH DISTRICT COURT.

The case of the State vs Albin K. Paris York was given to the jury this afternoon.

The evidence introduced by the defense tended to support its theory of the case. That the shooting which caused the death of Young Johnson was done by the defendant in self-defense. That he feared Johnson would injure some of his (York's) friends, as Johnson advanced towards them with a rock in his hand. York called to him to stop to prevent him from hurting them, and that when Johnson started towards York the latter shot, believing he was in danger.

SCIENTIFIC MISCELLANY.

The slowness of the old process of tanning leather due to a difficulty with tannin penetrates the hide. By pressing an electric current through the constantly-circulated bath, heavy leather is now tanned as effectively in six to eight weeks as it would be in twelve months by the old method.

When arsenic is being regularly taken—either medicinally or accidentally—by drink of food it appears that enough is absorbed by the hair to aid in the diagnosis of poisoning. A simple test is to treat the hair with an ammonia copper solution, and then examine it under a microscope. The hair, which contains a small quantity of arsenic, being unchanged under a half-inch objective but showing small green granules of copper arsenite under a sixth-inch objective. One authority believes that this test will become of importance in criminal trials. The amount of arsenic is often too small to be determined, but in the case of a patient who had been using arsenical hair the hair showed as much as 1 part of arsenic in 10,000.

Elder Crawford of Boxelder were the only visitors. A good spirit prevailed. The Maiaid Stake has about 2,500 souls and they are scattered all the way from Riverdale, Utah, to miles north and southwest of Maiaid. In the dividing of stakes, Riverside and Fielding were left about 40 miles from headquarters, and the people seldom go to conference unless the conference comes to them.

Northwest Boxelder is in about the same condition. Maiaid has many neat homes and Jack Frost kindly passed them by, as a result the gardens are very fine. It has been any year correspondent has seen this spring. Mrs. Fred Jones' is a gem. She has had new potatoes on her table for two weeks. Provo is Desert News agent and merchant and good at both of them, but his wife is the best gardener.

Fielding is situated about four miles northwest from Collinston and is lovely for a small place. The people have beautiful homes, and some day they hope it will be the center of a new stake of Zion. The people are very busy with their hay. The dry farms look sickly and in many cases are burning up.

Celebration of the Fourth—Crop Conditions—Range Cattle Dying.

Special Correspondence. Kanosh, Alameda Co., June 24.—Kanosh is making elaborate preparations to celebrate the birthday of our nation's independence.

The hay crop is not as heavy as usual, but probably to last year's drought. Grain prospects are very good, though the chinch bug has become numerous in places. The fruit prospects are excellent and the fruiting of the trees is in its usual activity, the trees looking unusually healthy.

Several of our young men who have been off south punching cattle have returned with a trotter from their home town. A few cattle have died upon the range; opinions are divided as to cause. Some say lack of salt, while others think it is some poison which is used in the cattle. Our irrigating water has suddenly dropped to the normal for the season, consequently great economy is necessary in use.

Mr. James Brown of Putnam, Ya. over 90 years of age, suffered for years with a bad sore on his face. Physicians could not help him. Dr. King's New Discovery cured him. Write for particulars. F. C. Schramm, Prescription Druggist, McCornick Bldg., Cor. Main and First South St.

LAST OF L'ALIGON'S MEN.

An Old Soldier Who Fought for the Young Duke's Restoration.

While Mme. Sarah Bernhardt and M. Constant Coquelin are applauded nightly at Geneva in "L'Aligon," news comes from Warsaw of the death of Varabowski, an old soldier of the Napoleonic campaigns, and said to be the last of the partisans and adherents of the young duke of Reichstadt. Varabowski, who attained the rank of lieutenant in the Russian army, and who fought at Waterloo, remained the age of 105 years. A Pole by birth, he threw in his lot with the French, and joined a secret society of Bonapartists formed in the reign of Louis XVIII by Berton and two other superior officers who had served under Napoleon. The conspirators called themselves the Knights of Liberty, and in 1822 they went about boldly proclaiming their intention to restore the emperor of the Empire, the duke of Reichstadt at his head. The knights were joined by many of the old guard, as well as by numerous recruits, so that they formed a respectable army.

The production of coconut butter at the factory in Mannheim, which dates from 1856, has now reached about ten tons per day. This material which is used as a substitute for butter and lard in the manufacture of margarine, is made of vegetable fat with only a trace of water, while ordinary butter consists of 85 per cent of fat and nearly 15 per cent of water. The price in Germany is about half that of butter. The coconut butter keeps for three or four months in a cool place and its wholesomeness and digestibility are giving it a steady gain in favor of cooking and baking, especially for hospitals and army camps. The process by which the fat of the coconut kernel is freed from free acids and other
