JUDGE TIMMONY'S COURT.

The principal case before his honor this afternoon was that of P. Kelsey, charged with assault and battery upon the person of Geo. E. Hill. Hill testified that he called at Mr. Kelsey's office to deliver an abstract and collect for the same. He said that Kelsey would not pay for the document and he walked out of the office...

Mr. Kelsey said that he was walking down the street he said that Kelsey came up behind him, seized him by the neck of his coat and said, "Damn you, I will have the abstract anyhow." Then Kelsey seized the abstract and walked up the street. Two other witnesses, Mr. Jennings and Mr. Rogers, were next in but both said they saw no assault and battery at all. Mr. Kelsey testified in his own behalf that he did not mistreat Hill in anyway, but admitted that he took the abstract from Hill's pocket.

The court was of the opinion that Mr. Hill was more outraged in his feelings than anything else and it was not a case where the defendant should be convicted of assault and battery, and Kelsey was discharged.

Justice Nielsen this afternoon held Albert Scott to the district court on a $200 bond on the charge of having assaulted Louis J. Krueger. About a dozen witnesses were examined and it appears that the accused was provoked in a measure by the assault. ROMANCING BY YOUNG RUNAWAYS

Police Look for the Mother of Two Little Truants From St. Ann's Orphanage—Tell a Thrilling Tale to Officers.

Howard and Clyde Wills, aged 8 and 3 years respectively, created a great deal of excitement around police headquarters last night and this morning by telling in a straightforward manner, a thrilling tale of desertion by their mother. The youngsters were found trudging along east Fifth South street last night and this morning they were carrying the younger, and both of them crying.

A couple of gentlemen saw them and asked where they were going. They replied that their mother had left them in a vacant house and instructed them to remain there over night and then go down town to the Meyers' costume house and stay there until she called for them, which would be in about three weeks. The gentlemen put the children on the car and they made their way down to Meyers. They told Mrs. Meyers the same story and added that their mother had gone to Eureka, and had taken all their clothing except what they had on their backs. The police telephoned to Eureka to keep a lookout for the missing mother, and instructed Mrs. Meyers to keep the boys at her house until something definite was learned.

About 2 o'clock word came to the police station from Kearns' St. Ann's orphanage two weeks ago. It seems that from their last evening. Further information was obtained to the effect that Mrs. Wills, who is a good hard-working woman, left her children at the orphanage two weeks ago. It seems that she had some trouble with her husband and they separated. As soon as the truth became known, the runaway youngsters were taken back to the orphanage.

HE GOT A FITTING REBUKE. There was a trifling fire in a West side street the other day which caused a good deal of excitement and incidentally gave a fat man a lesson in courtesy. The fire started in the apartments where the man and his mother lived. The man started about the time the fire did, and got down four flights of stairs to the street before his mother knew what was up. When she discovered the fire she promptly fainted.

Meanwhile, the fat man stood in the street yelling, "Save my mother! Save my mother!" A messenger boy, who was passing, stopped, saw the smoke, and brought her out in safety. The neighbors cheered and the fat man looked uncomfortable.

"Here boy," he whispered, "Here's a quarter for you." The boy's face expressed his disgust. "Aw, save it," he said, "and buy yourself some nerve food." The crowd laughing, and the boy went whistling down the street. He didn't know that he had been a hero, and the fat man felt himself a coward.—New York Mail and Express.

HOW WALES IS DIVIDED. Of Wales it may be said, as Caesar said of Gaul, that it is divided into three parts—English Wales, Welsh Wales and Little England beyond Wales, or Pembrokeshire. In the first the language spoken is chiefly English or a curious mixture of English and Welsh, such as may be heard in all its varied beauty in the Rhonda valley. In Welsh Wales the language chiefly spoken is Welsh—it is the people who sing and preach and pray and make love and curse. In Little England beyond Wales much of the language spoken is neither English nor Welsh, but a gibberish which it requires a knowledge of Dutch and ancient Welsh to understand.—Cardiff Western Mail.

SPANISH FORK. DISASTROUS FLOOD. Wedding of Miss Dellaiah Gardner and Mr. Joseph Hughes. Special Correspondence. Spanish Fork, Utah, Aug. 8.—We have had considerable rain recently. Some very heavy downpours occurred in Spanish Fork Canyon. It came so fast and so heavy up one of the forks, that some fifteen to twenty head of cattle were drowned. We are having plenty of litigation over the water, and it appears more litigation is coming. In fact Spanish Fork is not in a condition to have any more water, but it is. We have however, plenty of water just now, or what is called water, in fact it looks like red paint rolling down the ditches, and is hardly fit for anything. GARDNER-HUGHES NUPTIALS. Cards are out announcing the coming nuptials of two of the best of our young people, Mr. Joseph Hughes and Miss Dellaiah Gardner. The ceremony is announced to be performed at the Salt Lake Temple on the 14th inst, and the wedding reception at the residence of Brother Niel Gardner, father of the bride on the 15th.
