

SALT LAKERS IN GOTHAM.

Start for a Latter-day Saint Meeting House—Lisle Leigh Coming Forward—"Utah Tavern" Thriving.

Special Correspondence.

New York Oct. 14, 1901.—Miss Lisle Leigh, with her aunt, Miss Sara Alexander, both former Utah people, is now in Philadelphia. Miss Leigh is leading woman in Forepaugh's stock company, and will remain with them for the season. All last summer she played principal parts in Albee's stock company in Providence, R. I. Her repertoire is very extensive and her newspaper notices certainly most flattering. Especial mention is made of her Fedra both in Providence and Philadelphia, also her Camille and Ann Cruger in "The Charly Ball." The latter a part so many times interpreted by Georgia Cayvan. She is also a great favorite with the people of Portland, Maine, having played there every summer for the last five years in a great variety of roles. Her magnetism and charm of manner make her a most desirable leading woman, and what is dear to her many lady friends, are the elaborate costumes she wears, which the papers never fail to mention. It is not unlikely she will play in New York next season.

Miss Jennie Smith, of Salt Lake, who has been in New York for four years, returned home this week. The first year she spent in a photographic studio, since then she has been taking a course in hospital work, giving particular attention to the care and diet of infants, in the Babies' hospital on Lexington avenue.

Miss Susie DeCratt, of Ogden, arrived here a few days ago. She has been visiting relatives and laboring among them in a missionary way. She will now take up the work more extensively in the Brooklyn and New York conference.

Dan Calder, handsome and lighthearted as of old, with his wife, walked into the Latter-day Saints chapel last Sunday. His home for the present is in Brattleboro, Vt., where he has charge of an asylum for the insane. He seemed very happy to meet old friends.

Mrs. Arthur Brown and Mrs. McLaughlin are stopping at the Waldorf Astoria.

Frank Thatcher, a grandson of President Brigham Young, and his charming young bride, who was Miss Mamie McAllister of Logan, are here on their way to Germany. No prettier girl is to be seen even on Broadway than dainty Mrs. Thatcher. It is a missionary wedding trip, and both are well qualified to make the most of their opportunities in the missionary field and in an educational way, may success and prosperity be with them always.

How many people remember the Howson family of so long ago? They came to Salt Lake from Australia, and were the first to give us a taste of opera. Emma Howson, the soprano, and star of the talented little company, is teaching in New York, her studies being over the Needham Piano Co., on Fifteenth street and Fifth avenue, the Lamport system being her specialty. Who having seen her in those days, will ever forget her grand Duchess? Her brother John, who became so well known in the East, in comic opera work, died a few years ago; he just missed being another Francis Wilson, and is sometimes referred to in comparison with that very funny artist. Another brother, Charles, is at present leader of the Lyceum Theater orchestra. Her only sister, Clelia, (the contralto) married Mr. Parsons of Wells, Fargo & Co. They have a home in Brooklyn and Miss Emma Howson lives with them. Miss Parsons has a daughter who is an accomplished musician.

The "Utah Tavern" is certainly getting to share of Salt Laker. Along E. Hyde, wife and daughter Beatrice, are here visiting all the places of interest. They go to Washington for a few days and then return to stay until Mr. Hyde completes his business. W. P. Reed and son, from home, will accompany Mr. Hyde and family to the capitol. Mr. Reed is attending the street railway convention and will remain until the twenty-first. Mrs. Melissa Sears, with her niece, Miss Ruth Wilson, arrived a few days ago, and are now locating themselves for the winter. Miss Wilson will enter the New York Conservatory of Music, and two more will be added to our winter colony. Mrs. Heber Lee is taking lessons in China painting in a private school near Twenty-fourth street, or rather, one should say, she is getting some instruction in that department, as she is already an artist of merit.

Mrs. Sylvia Seymour and her daughter Ada, two of the recent converts to the Latter-day Saints, gave an entertainment in Wendell's Assembly rooms on West Fourth street for the benefit of the Church building fund. They are fine musicians and both energetic workers in whatever they undertake. The concert was under the patronage of our Women's Relief Society. It was well attended, and will prove a powerful aid to our little fund. It is the wish of all here to secure a piece of land, and build our own church. The coming winter may swell our bank account so that we may see the realization of our hopes. The first $5 given towards this little enterprise was donated by one of our generous neighbors, and a true Scot, Rob Campbell. He will deny it, when he sees it in print, but it's true.

The death of President Snow has come as a terrible shock to every one here. He was so dearly loved by the people that we are mourning with you all today. The papers express themselves fairly toward him and all grant he was a broad-minded and noble man.

The tendency of this great city is northward. Capitalists who are putting up the finest residences took the hint some time ago and declared in favor of Yorkville and Harlem. New stores that are being built are creeping toward Forty-second street. "Macy," who has held the corner of Fourteenth street and Sixth avenue for so many years, is excavating for a great department store just above Thirty-fourth street on Broadway. It is even said the theaters are getting the fever and want their locations changed. Just now the streets are in a fearful condition, being torn up for the underground railway and no end of repairs. It is acknowledged by everyone that when New York is finished it will be an ideal place to live in, but the "finis" seems a long way off. JANET.

A YOUNG KING'S PRIVATE CARS.

Two special cars for the use of young King Alfonso of Spain have just been completed at Wilmington, Del. One of the cars is a drawing room coach, somewhat similar to the Pullman drawing room car, except that it is much smaller, being only 30 feet long. That is a good length, however, for cars in Spain. The drawing room car is not unlike Pullman cars in appearance. It is painted royal blue with gold trimmings and lettering and contains Alfonso's coat-of-arms on each side, which adds to the richness of the effect. Inside the car is finished in mahogany, which is tastefully carved. The main compartment, which is more than one-half the length of the car, is a drawing room, and low and wide French plate glass windows. It is elaborately furnished with cushioned chairs, sofas, revolving seats, etc. The red cushions harmonize with the finish of the interior. Each of the windows has a heavy curtain inside of which is rich green drapery. The floor is covered with heavy green Brussels carpet. At one end of the drawing room compartment is a washroom, saloon heater, etc., and at the other end is an observation parlor, similar to those on Pullman observation cars.

The other side is a dining car. It is the same size as the drawing room car, and is somewhat similar in appearance, except that the exterior is painted red, instead of blue. It is also finished inside in mahogany. In one end is the dining compartment, which contains six tables, three of which accommodate four persons each, and three two each. Next comes an elaborate sideboard, and the adjoining compartment is the

BISHOPS WHO JEST.

The late bishop of Oxford was generally recognized as a very serious man. Only his intimate friends know that he had a fine sense of humor, though some stories have been told of him which went to indicate the fact. Many will recollect, for example, how he once brought down the house at an Oxford High school prize-giving by an astonishing anti-climax. He spoke with solemnity of a book which it was necessary that every bishop should have sitting at a diocesan board: "To the Tetat c'est mot' of Louis le roi." A parallel case I afford: "Something like it, you see, may be said about me." "Am I not the diocesan bored?" The bishop's remark when he was translated from Chester to Oxford has been more than once reported, but not always correctly. What he actually said was, "Like Homer, I lose so much by translation," and the point of the saying lay, of course, in the fact that as his predecessor, Dr. Mackarness, had a retiring pension, Stubbs only enjoyed a portion of the revenue of the see—London Globe.

Gray?

Perhaps you like the idea of looking 25 or 30 years older than you are! If not use Ayer's Hair Vigor. I completely restores the color to gray hair, all the dark, rich color it used to have. No use in looking old before your time.

"I am over sixty years of age and my hair is very handsome. People tell me I don't look nearly that old, because my hair is so dark and thick. You know I use Ayer's Hair Vigor."

Mrs. H. F. Borgel, Phoenix, N. Y. St. All druggists. J. C. AYER CO., Lowell, Mass.
