

AT ALL THE PLEASURE RESORTS.

Thirty Thousand People Went to Salt Lake's Public Places of Amusement—Splendid Day for the Opening—Warm Water at Saltair.

A SALT AIR BATHING GIRL.

Thirty thousand people visited Salt Lake's summer resorts yesterday. Saltair could not have had a more delightful day than yesterday for its opening day. A gentle breeze from the west came up early in the day, furnishing some to those who were fortunate enough to be within the shade of the great pavilion, and stimulating the appetite to enormous powers. Every-thing was in readiness for the patrons. Fresh coats of paint were in evidence, and through every department every-thing was spotlessly clean.

Among the improvements noticeable this year is the increased capacity of the lighting the immense structure. The power now comes from the Inland Crystal Salt company's plant doubling the voltage, and making a stronger and steadier current. All former lamps have been displaced with new ones capable of maintaining the increased current.

Another change is made at the entrance. Four stiles take the place of former ingress, and those with two small gates and the large main one, increases the facilities for admitting large crowds. The engine room has also been enlarged, and makes a much better appearance. Water for flushing purposes and for showers in both rooms now comes through a pipe, direct from a spring on the shore.

As soon as the exigencies demand, 16 bath rooms will be added in the north wing, which will make approximately 70 all told. According to Capt. Merrill, who has kept close observations for several years the water in the lake has receded about a foot more than the depth at the time last year. This fact alone will necessitate more bath rooms, as bathers, instead of frequenting greater depths, spend the time in the sand sunning themselves, and thus using the bath rooms a greater length of time.

As is well known, nothing but mild beverages may be had this year. The room formerly used as a bar room is arranged with tables for light and delicate refreshments, and is cosy and inviting. The sand bar that has existed near the south pier has lengthened, and ex-

STANDING OF TEAMS.

Table with 2 columns: Team Name and Score. Includes teams like W. L. P.C., Ogen, Logan, Legan, Salt Lake.

A glance at the above table will give some idea of what happened to the Infants and the White Wings in yesterday's contests. Great, indeed, was their fall.

In the contest here in the morning between Logans and the locals, the former finally carried off the honors despite the willingness of Eubanks. The White Wings proceeded to shoot the shocker himself, proving thereby that Buck Hester was a thing or two about snub work.

In the afternoon, the White Wings were clipped again by a score of 5 to 5. It has placed them on the anxious list. The "exhibition" they put up yesterday was something to be proud of. The burning up of a good deal of electricity last night between Zion and San Francisco has been known to Harry Joseph personally sent a request to one of the White Wings, requesting his immediate presence here. It is said that the shortstop is anxious to return to this neck of the woods, and it is only a matter of time that has been keeping him away. He will probably come and bring with him an outfielder from Los Angeles, Adams, a catcher, and a pitcher.

The team will be in good shape when the season closes and Ogen again clinches the pennant.

Logan yesterday the Lobsters won. The Infants in right rivalry with Logan was carried by a score of 9 to 4, and in the afternoon

A Healthy and Sound Body will Enable Us to Battle Against the Wrongs and Injuries of Our Enemies. Paine's Celery Compound Banishes Disease, Establishes Health, and Gives Us Physical Strength to Maintain Our Place in Life's Conflict.

Paine's Celery Compound

Many of us find life hard and full of pain. While we cannot well avoid the sufferings that result from wrongs and injuries, we can keep ourselves from the pains and ravages of bodily ailments and diseases, and maintain that full measure of health that will enable us to meet the wrongs that assail us on every side.

If you are run down, fretful, despondent, irritable, sleepless, be assured you are becoming physically impaired and weakened. If the relaxed and sluggish action of the secretory organs has loaded the blood and body with poison, producing headache, rheumatism, neuralgia, kidney and liver troubles, then Paine's Celery Compound is your friend. Prompt use of Paine's Celery Compound will save the weakened parts of the body from yielding to disease. The great medicine saves weak and enfeebled nerves from prostration, and restores every feeling of exhaustion and despondency. It cures and saves those who are bound by disease and suffering and gives them a new lease of life.

Ex-Alderman Fred W. Brenner, of Troy, N. Y., a popular and esteemed citizen who thanks Paine's Celery Compound for his present rugged good health, writes for the benefit of weak, nervous, and dyspeptic sufferers, he says: "For several years I suffered from nervous troubles; I could not sleep well; nerves seemed to be weak; I had a succeeding train carried an increased number, the close of the day finding a large, select and orderly crowd. The personnel at the beach this year is: Superintendent, J. C. Jack; foreman, M. Miller; ticket agent, G. W. Perry; bath department, E. J. Bench; refreshment parlor, A. A. Herz; valet, M. A. Miller; bath tickets, E. M. Weight. The Salt Lake theater orchestra was in attendance.

Immense Crowd at Calder's to See Fleet Footed Equines.

The race horses at Calder's park yesterday performed before the largest crowd that ever assembled at that resort to witness a contest between the fleet-footed equines. It was a big crowd and they were big races that were pulled off, in fact a more satisfactory meet has seldom witnessed in this city, and the result will be that the game will receive added popularity.

There were five events, all one mile harness races, some of which were so close and exciting in the finish that the immense throng of spectators went wild with enthusiasm. The star performer of the day was Vesta C. May, or Thompson's black mare, who pranced off her remarkable heat without a flaw, winning from Frank Wilson's San Green in two heats and going the third mile in 2:17 1/4 and in the last heat she made an exhibition race against time, she stepped off the last quarter in .32 and the last half in 1:05, a 2:10 clip.

The other events were very interesting and the summary is as follows: First race, for trotters, $25 a corner—Saltair (Smith) first, Freddie C. (Carlson) second, Buck (Brown) third, Time, 2:48, 2:48 1/2, 2:38.

Second race, for trotters, $50 a corner and $50 added—Kangaroo (McCoy) first, Time, 2:48, 2:48 1/2, 2:38.

JOURNEY THROUGH MEXICAN COLONIES

Numerous Settlements in Land of Diaz Visited by Utahn.

DROUGHTS THE DRAWBACK.

Prosperous—Building Churches and School Houses.

Special Correspondence.

Colonia Dublin, Mexico.—On March 24th the writer started to do "Mormon" colonies in Mexico on horseback. Colonia Dublin is at the terminus of the Rio Grande, Sierra Madre and Pacific railroad and is pleasantly located. Striking improvements have been made there in the past year, large brick houses having been erected that would grace pretentious cities. The foundation is completed and the brick burned for a commodious meeting house that is much needed, as the present one is inadequate for the people. The largest store in the colonies is conducted here by the Mercantile union.

From Dublin we went on horseback to the other colonies, our first stop being at Guadalupe, where a new colony is being formed. Here we added Ely, St. Louis, James Mortenson, and others, with excellent prospects, for they are in the heart of the irrigation system.

From Guadalupe it is an easy ride of about 14 miles to Colonia Juarez, which is located in a narrow valley and presents a pleasant picture, as one enters from the heights to the south, Juarez is the city and has a good academy, conducted by Guy C. Wilson, President A. W. Evans of Juarez stake lives here, and Jos. C. Bentley is the bishop.

The road from Juarez to Colonia Garcia is a hard one leading up the San Pedro canyon for 35 miles. Colonia Garcia is pleasantly situated in a heavily timbered district. The soil here is being the only place that is not covered by pines. The people of Garcia have been doing a good work and have, at considerable expense, piped the water into the town. A new addition is being made to the meeting house to afford room for the growing community.

A ride through a timbered country of nearly 40 miles brings one to Chichupa, the last of the colonies. Here a new school house is nearing completion, which will be an ornament and a credit to the town. The city was recently located here has recently changed hands and J. W. Header and company are now running it, and turning out lumber and shingles that will make a great change to the town and district.

From Colonia Chichupa we retraced our steps to Garcia and then 12 miles brought us to Colonia Pacheco, which is making substantial improvements in the shape of brick houses. Our course led us through Cave valley, where L. C. Farr is located looking after the interests of Moses Thatcher, past the Williams ranch to that of Fred Pratt, man Pratt's, where we found two of his sons and his wife. The boys are making great improvements, plowing new ground, putting up fences and raising wheat so they can irrigate their crops. They are planting about 15 acres of potatoes, which find a ready market in the places where good potatoes are scarce. The boys are also raising the Pratt ranch where years ago the Thompson family was killed by Apaches, and it was not far from here some of the Indians and some were killed. But no signs of Indians have been seen since this event. This, it is said, was one of the Apache Indian strongholds in years past, and anciently it must have been highly cultivated as the terraces extend up to the top of the mountains, and are built wherever a few feet of soil could be had. The boys are now ready to see the Pratt boys with their guns by them in the field and cartridge belt on while at work.

From the Pratt ranch our trail carried us through the mountains, through grassy valleys, down a precipitous trail 40 miles long, then we reached Dore Cabosis mines, where we were kind, and highly respected by the superintendent. The most of the ore shipped from this place averages over $50 a ton. From Dore Cabosis our trail led us to a steep trail to the Bavispe river that enters the Mexican town of Basarre. The valley here formed by the Bavispe river is about two miles wide and 20 long. There are many fine farms here, and they are primitive places, indeed. Plowing is done with a crooked stick fastened to another stick lashed on the front of the oxen, and the oxen are driven by sticks and threshed by driving animals around on it to tramp it out, and two women sit at the mill as in the days of old. The mill is a large stone, there were unique mills made of two large stones, the lower one set on a foundation of dry mud or clay—the top stone having a hole in the center to receive the grain and a short sweep lashed on to it to turn the stone, most of these being turned by hand. At one place we saw a diminutive burro peculiarly built on his eyes pulling the mill stone round while a comely Mexican maiden watched and urged him on, and renewed the grain. The mill was turned on a stone above. This mill the ground forms the staple of life and is made into tortillas, a very thin cake baked on a large rock in open ovens to form the bread. There it is put into a still. A copper kettle is set down in the furnace and everything is covered but the space where the mash is put in. When this is filled, a great log like a stove is put on top of the hole and a wooden pipe that leads to a metal one in a vat of cold water is attached to the fire put on. As the stuff boils the steam comes into the wooden pipe and metal and is condensed, and the spirits are thus produced. In looks and odor it resembles corn.

From Bavispe a ride of about 40 miles brought us to Colonia Oaxaca, and we were astonished at the difference in the town from the ones above. It is in an excellent agricultural district, and is made up of old settled places. The progress of the Saints here is astonishing in the few years they have been here to farm and to work under great difficulties, drawing their lumber over a hundred and twenty miles.

Twenty-five miles from Oaxaca down the Bavispe river and we reach Colonia Morillos—it is just a year last January since the first Saints located here. This place has pleasing prospects, being built to take the place of the shack and tent of these pioneers. Here we ate ripe strawberries and the gardens are beginning to make quite a showing. This place has pleasing prospects, the great drawback at present is the lumber problem. But Bishop Brown and associates are going to try the experiment of driving the logs down the river in the high water and have them sawed at the colony. Four days of hard riding took us from Morales to Colonia Diaz, where the Saints are in a flourishing condition, with fine churches, schools. From Diaz a long tedious ride brought us back to Dublin and the railroad. Drought is affecting the country, but the Saints in the colonies are hopeful and all seem prosperous.
