SAULT LAKE CITY, - JUNE 14, 1905

DESERET NEWS 'PHONES.

Persons desiring to communicate by telephone with any department of the Deseret News, will save themselves and this establishment a great deal of annoyance if they will take time to notice these numbers:

For the Chief Editor's Office, 3105. For Deseret News Book Store, 74-1. For City Editor and Reporter, 388-2.

FULLY APPRECIATED.

The permanent residents of Salt Lake City ought to have heard the expressions of appreciation and commendation of the Tabernacle choir and organ, from our visiting friends of Los Angeles, as they emerged from the building and grounds on Tuesday evening.

But the masses who attend the Tabernacle services and are accustomed to hear the grand productions of the masters and of eminent home talent, fail to fully appreciate the musical banquet which are so frequently offered gratuitously for their delectation.

The citizens of Salt Lake, however, turned out in great numbers to hear their concert, to welcome by their presence our good friends from southern California, and also to express their admiration for the projector of the Salt Lake Route, which joins the two splendid cities in commercial and fraternal union.

We hope that our visitors will often hear the echoes of the music of Tuesday evening, after they reach their homes and think over their experiences in the City of the Saints; and we trust, too, that our home friends will duly appreciate the efforts put forth, in a public spirit, by the Tabernacle choir in regular Sunday worship, and in the musical treats which they frequently provide for general entertainment.

AS TO 'CHURCH' INSURANCE.

'Where is the 'Church' insurance office?' is a question that has been put repeatedly by several persons to elevator boys and others by visitors during the last few days.

Spaniards have perfect liberty to think as they please, and believe whatever they choose. They are even at liberty to hold all religion in contempt, as many of them do unmoistened, as long as they conform to outward observances.

This is the spirit of medieval persecution. The youthful Spanish king should learn from history that no country in which that spirit predominates, will ever prosper.

Pugilists are almost as capacious as sponges. Russia must remember that to the victor belong the peace terms.

Japan is teaching the white man that God also made the yellow man.

These are the simple facts in the case.

The company has made a good start. It has the cooperation of a large number of active men in different parts of Utah and the regions surrounding, some of whom are Church members and others are not.

The stories that have been circulated, for petty and malicious purposes, are utterly false and are samples of the stock-in-trade which is being put before the public from virulent anti-Mormon sources.

LOOK TO THE HOME.

The so-called juvenile court may be a necessary institution, but if so, it is a most serious reflection upon some homes of the present time.

The tremendous business of juvenile courts should remind parents of their duty to be the judges among their own children, to correct evil tendencies and guide the little ones in the paths of virtue, truth and intelligence.

Parents forget that children are a precious gift, for which they are responsible to God. The insatiable thirst for luxuries, for pleasure and ease in the faithful discharge of the serious duties of life, and life itself becomes, accordingly, more or less of a failure.

PERSECUTION IN SPAIN.

Some time ago the English Protestants at Barcelona proposed to open a church in that city. They thought, perhaps, that the Spanish government would be far enough advanced in civilization to tolerate this violation of antiquated Spanish laws.

'As Catholic king and submissive and believing son of the only true church, I am deeply pained by this new attempt against the faith of our ancestors, and the religion of the state, whose destinies Divine Providence has deemed right to entrust to me in these moments, and I do not hesitate to assure you, Senor Cardinal, that I shall do all in my power, within the attributes of my constitutional sovereignty, that the projects which your eminence proposes may be nullified by my government, and I implore your blessing, reiterating to you all my respectful esteem and affectionate benevolence.'

A distinguished English physician is authority for the statement that many a headache from which a woman suffers upon returning home from a shopping tour, a walk, or a ride, is due to the strain upon the leverage of the roots of the hair, caused by the action of the wind upon large hats.

A GREAT LACK OF LOVE.

There is a pleasant story being told lately of an Irish priest who, taking health from which a woman suffers, reasons for going: 'First, you do not love me, for you have contributed nothing to my support; secondly, you do not love each other, for I have not had a single female marriage since I arrived; thirdly, the good God does not love you, for He has not taken one of you to Himself; I have not had a single funeral.'

RECENT PUBLICATIONS.

A magazine filled with reasonable interest for women is the July Delinquent. In it the summer fashions are pictured, and described by such fashion authorities as Helen Berkeley-Loyd and Edouard La Fontaine, of Paris, who write for the magazine, exclusively. Albert Bigelow Paine's serial, 'The Lucky Piece,' develops an element of mystery that adds to the interest of the story.

there is no divinity that doth hedge a king about.

Will the Chicago strikers take the usual summer vacation? They should at least give the people a rest.

Ex-Banker and Convict Bigelow is in nearly the same state to which he brought his bank—one of collapse.

Governor Douglas' motto seems to be: First the worst, second the same, third and last best of all the same.

Our Los Angeles visitors will please understand that Salt Lake never has any worse weather than this, hardly ever.

The dancing masters want the jig and the clout to become part of fashionable programs. They certainly are above the cakewalk.

In the assault on Baltimore and Washington, no matter whether the navy or the army wins it will be Uncle Sam's victory.

Mrs. Layman of Chicago has been married six times and six times divorced. She seems to be a professional rather than a layman.

Mrs. Goode, wife of the president of the Lewis and Clark exposition, has rebuked Speaker Cannon for lack of manners. Now will he be good?

And now Mayor Weaver has had a select councilman arrested because he was interested in city contracts, a thing forbidden by the law. He goes at his Augean task undismayed and as though he meant to finish it.

Professor Triggs declares that 'Chicago is the saddest city on the face of the earth. There is not a man, woman or child who is naturally joyous.'

Was it compliment or conviction when Justice David J. Brewer said to the Vassar seniors: 'Who shall say that before gray hair shall come to your heads a woman like Queen Victoria shall not sit in the White House to glorify this nation as Victoria glorified England?'

One of the results of the recent victories of Japan is a decree issued by the Chinese emperor, and the empress dowager, to the effect that the Japanese language shall in future be taught in the Nanyang college instead of English.

Japan's naturally reluctant at this stage of the proceedings to lay down specific peace conditions inasmuch as she has not acquired a foot of Russian territory and hence might not be able to hold Russia to any terms to which the latter would consent.

RUSSIA MUST GIVE BOND.

Japan's naturally reluctant at this stage of the proceedings to lay down specific peace conditions inasmuch as she has not acquired a foot of Russian territory and hence might not be able to hold Russia to any terms to which the latter would consent.

The establishment of military-political results Japan has accomplished is essential to her prosperity and she ought not to be expected to yield them.

'We have been supplying the world with art in its most beautiful forms for 300 years,' says the Japanese ambassador to the United States.

HEADACHES FROM BIG HATS.

A distinguished English physician is authority for the statement that many a headache from which a woman suffers upon returning home from a shopping tour, a walk, or a ride, is due to the strain upon the leverage of the roots of the hair, caused by the action of the wind upon large hats.

Headaches hurt, but hats are handsome. Possibly some military genius will invent feminine headgear in which it will be possible to take a double reef when the winds blow high and low and call for undue strain upon the hair roots that make for woman's crowns of glory.

Longfellow's boyhood.

Longfellow's boyhood, by Peter Freese, contains something new about the poet and the friends and home of his early life. T. Cromwell Lawrence describes the curious customs and costumes of Holland in an interesting travel sketch, and W. Jay Mills relates some of the prettiest romances of the old-time summer resorts, Bordenstown, Washburn and Long Branch, in a remarkably illustrated paper.

In the June number of the National Geographic Magazine space is given to an article on 'Forecasting the Weather and Storms,' by Professor Willis L. Moore, chief of the U. S. weather bureau. It tells all about storms, hot and cold waves, landward and seaward, and weather forecasting. It is illustrated with a number of charts and photographs.

Among the contents of the June number of Recreation are the following: 'On the Rim of the Grand Canyon,' 'Joe's Double Catch,' 'Don Cameron on Mr. Peterson of Paris,' 'Alvah D. James: 'Water in Camp,' Calvin Coffey, C. E., 'Casting for Bass by Moonlight,' C. L. Dewey, 'The Camera and the Automobile,' C. H. Claudy; 'The Playground of the East,' Day Allen Willey; 'Butterfly Farming for Profit,' Charles Quincy Turner; and a number of poems—E. West, Twenty-fourth St., New York.
