ORONOMA VOYAGING COLLEGE, LOGAN

President's Report Showing Work Of Most Successful Year Of The School.

Forty-five are graduated.

Manual Training and Practical Work Prominent Features of the Church School.

Following is an epitome of the report of the Brigham Young college, Logan, for the school year 1905-6, read by President James H. Linford at the commencement held June 6.

The faculty as at present constituted consists of 12 professors, 8 assistant professors, 1 principal of normal training school, 22 instructors, 9 assistants—82 in all.

In point of scholarship and general preparation, they are the peers of any faculty in our state. They are devoted in their efforts to maintain the high standard of efficiency attained by the college, and to improve upon the past whenever possible.

The present graduating class is the largest in the history of the institution. There were graduated, with the degree A. B., representing seven years of work above the eighth grade, and 42 from the four-year high school course, classified as follows: Twenty-one from the normal course, 12 from the business course, 4 from the mechanical course, 2 from the science course, 1 from the English course, 1 from the agricultural course, 1 from the mechanical arts course. One student takes a certificate from the short business course.

There have been enrolled 828 students in all departments, an increase of 91 over previous year. Of the total number of students, 71 are in the college department, 66 in the high school, 33 in the normal department, 154 in the missionary and 44 in the preparatory in the training school.

During the past year instruction has been given in the following courses of collegiate grade. One in Arts, leading to the degree A. B., 1 in civil engineering, leading to the degree B. S. in civil engineering, 1 in domestic science leading to the degree B. S. in domestic science, and in the following courses of high school grade, representing four years of instruction above the eighth grade of the public schools: classical, science, normal, kindergarten normal, business, domestic arts, domestic science, agricultural, mechanical arts, in addition to all these, work has been done in the short business course, extending over three years, in the nurses' training course, extending over two years, and in the various preparatory courses, each extending over one year.

Special attention has been given to the home life and to the punctuality of students in their class work, parents being kept informed of the irregularities of their children. One pleasing feature of the school life of the past year has been the organization of the student body to take over the discipline of the college, thus relieving the faculty of the general and those personal habits that would bring reproach upon the student body, and very excellent results have been obtained.

The equipment of the college, while not extended, is such that the most thorough work has been done in the various subjects taught. The domestic departments are well supplied with tools and machinery. Good chemical, physical, and biological laboratories are maintained as aids to thorough class work. The college library is supplied with well chosen works useful in the various departments, and with the best magazines of the country and the leading newspapers of our state.

We feel that the future of the college is very bright. The faculty for next year will be strengthened very materially. Prof. W. H. Chamberlain and Prof. George C. Jensen return to the college, after a leave of absence of one year and while away have taken their master's degrees. Prof. Fred J. Paek, who has just received his Ph. D. in geology at Columbia, Prof. F. A. Hinckley, a former graduate of the college and for two years a student of the University of Chicago, and Frank Daines, a graduate of the present year, have been engaged by the board of trustees.

The new Mechanic Arts building will be ready for occupancy at the opening of college in September, thus affording an excellent home for art, domestic science and art, carpentry, and forging. The removal of the domestic courses from the east building will make it possible to enlarge the library and reading room, give more space to the business department, make it possible to set aside one room for an agricultural laboratory, and a lecture room in biology. These changes will add very materially to our advancement.

The following departments have been introduced in the last five years: Business department, introduced the year previous, telegraphy, banking, commercial law, commerce and transportation; domestic arts, sewing, dressmaking, and art needle work; domestic science, cooking, three courses; science of nutrition, home nursing and hygiene; carpentry, four years of work; forging, four years of work; bricklaying, one course; agriculture, principles of agriculture, horticulture, entomology, bacteriology, field crops, plant breeding; a college civil engineering course, offering a thorough training in the subjects usually taught in such a course in our best institutions; a kindergarten normal school, and an additional department in the normal training school.

The following auxiliary organizations have been instituted: Sabbath normal school, brass band, orchestra, opera company. In addition to the above new departments, two sections have been added to the first year work, one to the second year, and one to the third year's work. In addition to these there have been many more elective subjects in the year just closed than in any year of the past.

To support this increase of work, we receive from the Church $52,000 as against $44,000 five years ago. We appreciate the support given us by all those who have so generously aided in accomplishing these gratifying results. Respectfully submitted, JAS. H. LINFORD, WESTON VERNON, H. BULLEN, JR., Presidency of the B. Y. College.

Pale? Thin? How is it with the children these days? Have they plenty of grit, courage, strength? Or are they thin, pale, delicate? This reminds you of Ayer's Sarsaparilla. It does great things for children. It gives them a good appetite, improves their digestion, builds up their general health. Ask your doctor if he endorses this.
