The case against Emile Agraz, the bicycle rider, and Louis H. Phillips, who were charged with assault with a deadly weapon, has been dismissed by Judge Whitaker of the city court and the defendants were discharged. The defendants have been running a skating rink at the Salt Palace and had extracted quite an indebtedness with the lessees of the grounds and the latter instructed their night watchman, L. B. Wright, to seize the skates belonging to Agraz and Phillips. The watchman attempted to do so but the men secured a gun and stood him off. They were arrested upon the charge stated above and had their preliminary hearing today. The evidence was insufficient to hold them over to the district court, hence they were discharged.

WILLIAMS BARRED FROM THE STAND

to land office affairs which were stricken out at yesterday's session.

U. S. SENATOR INVOLVED. The affidavit alleged that special agent O'Brien at Denver was in close touch with U. S. Senator Warren of Wyoming and the officials of the U. P. Coal company, and when affidavit was given charge of the coal land fraud investigation in Wyoming, O'Brien sought to have charge of this. Parties called on affidavit and told him that such an investigation would injure the election of Senator Clark, as the embezzlement of the Union Pacific was incurred, and corporations were bad things to "buck" against. The document went on to relate a meeting between Myendorf and Senator Warren at the Oxford hotel at Denver, Colo., at Senator Warren's request. Subsequently Myendorf was removed to Los Angeles. Here, affidavit alleged, every obstacle was thrown in his way and attempts were made to injure him officially.

The document then went on to relate another meeting between U. S. Senator Warren and affidavit, where the former produced confidential letters written by affidavit to the land commissioner and proceeded to read extracts from them.

MORE AFFIDAVITS. Several affidavits already outlined were also read, the entire reading occupying the greater part of an hour.

Accompanying the document were a lot of affidavits that made interesting reading for the crowded courtroom. Most of them related to the old time, now well known methods employed by the baron coal companies in acquiring additional territory through the mediation of "straw" men, but the most unique was one statement which was read that had been sworn to by Victor La Forge, an expressman at Denver. This man states that he was standing outside Bartelle's saloon on the corner of 14th and Main streets, when he saw a man enter a wagon when Bartelle came out and asked him whether he cared to make $3. Explanations followed and Bartelle told him that all he had to do was sign a paper and all would be perfectly straight.

SALOON BUMS EMPLOYED. Affidavit agreed to it that assurance when Bartelle said: "Here, you may as well take the rest of the day off." Accordingly the wagon was loaded up with about a dozen saloon bums and they all went down to the Union depot. There they entered a room, signed the necessary papers for location on lands they had never seen, and received $4 a head for their trouble while Bartelle collected $1 from each as commission for steering them down. The men gave fictitious names and addresses. La Forge in his affidavit states that he signed his name to the papers as Victor La Forge.

TOLD TO KEEP STILL. One of the affidavits included in the document was from a man who apparently was struck with remorse over what he had done and feared that he would get into trouble. He received the information from a man in the coal company that "that was all hot air." He was told there would be no trouble if he kept his mouth shut and in answer to questions says that he had walked over the land he had filed for, but he saw nobody's business who he had sold it to.

NOTION OVERRULED. At the conclusion the reading of the affidavits that took the greater part of an hour, Parley L. Williams gravely arose and asked that all this be stricken from the records. At this request a smile flitted over the mobile features of Commissioner Clark while a pronounced ripple of merriment surged around the court room. The evidence was not stricken out, and will be included in the report to Congress.

PROF. M. E. JONES. Prof. Marcus E. Jones was then called. He stated that he resided in Salt Lake and was a geologist. In 1899 he entered the employ of the Rio Grande Western and for two years worked for General Palmer, then president of the road. Since that date he had been "sporadically" employed by the company investigating coal lands in Utah and as far east as Newcastle, Colo. Considerable time was occupied in technical description of the coal strata to be located in Carbon county and Salina arroyo. Witness stated that a man of ordinary intelligence would know that all that district was underlaid with coal.

At this point the commission took a recess until 1 p. m.

Robinson Crusoe's Island. In 1868 H. M. S. Topaze visited Juan Fernandez, which belongs to the Chilean government, and erected a tablet to the memory of Alexander Selkirk. Today there are some 60 persons living on the island, chiefly whalers. Seen from the sea, it has the appearance of a huge barren rock, but inland there are innumerable valleys with smiling fields. Naturally, the great curiosities of the island are the places where Alexander Selkirk spent the greater part of his days while there. There is the cave or grotto which he used as a house. Around the walls are to this day the remains of rusty nails and shelves and cupboards. Then there is Lookout Point, a lofty pinnacle which Selkirk is declared to have climbed every day in the hope of attracting the attention of a passing ship. It was only five years ago that a Chilean surveying party discovered here, imbedded in the earth, the remains of the old flag-staff—the very one, it is believed, that Selkirk so often used.—Westminster Gazette.

MUCH DISCUSSION OVER DISMISSAL

Comment Grows Anent Action of President Concerning Colored Troops.

THE SOUTH IS HYSTERICAL. Praise Mr. Roosevelt for Determination to "Fire" Negro Soldiers Who "Shot Up" a Texas Town.

Special Correspondence. Washington, D. C., Nov. 28.—The president's determination to dismiss with dishonor from the army of the United States, three companies of the Twenty-fifth infantry (colored) because of the "shooting up" of the town of Brownsville, Texas, wherein one man was killed and several persons seriously wounded, has created more discussion than any one act of Theodore Roosevelt since he has been president of the United States.
