SOCIETY OUT IN FORCE

TOMORROW AT THE FAIR.

Friday will be school day at the exposition. All of the public schools of Salt Lake City, the schools of the southern part of Salt Lake county, and all of the schools of Davis county will be closed for the whole day.

Those people who thought that they would not go out to the state fair today on account of the mud, should change their minds.

More than 20,000 people turned out this afternoon to see the grand livestock pageant at the Inland Empire exposition.

Today is Weber county and Miners' day at the fair, and the Ogden train brought in thousands of citizens from that city.

Salt Lake City society turned out in full force, including the officers from Fort Douglas and their wives.

The parade included every prize winning animal in every department of the livestock exhibit.

THOROUGHBREDS FRANCHISE. The livestock pageant was a beautiful sight, thoroughbred trotters, pacers, single-footers and high school horses.

POORER BY $25,000 BECAUSE OF BLUNDER

Reason Why the City Cannot Collect From the Defunct Public Service Company.

Somebody blundered and in consequence $25,000 that otherwise should have gone into the coffers of Salt Lake City is uncollectable.

The trouble is that the franchise of the Public Service company has lapsed and been forfeited and the city cannot collect the indemnity bond because no franchise exists in the city streets.

The council granted a light and heating franchise to Manley & Curtis on Sept. 18, 1906, who gave an indemnity bond for $25,000 to the city.

The council granted a light and heating franchise to Manley & Curtis on Sept. 18, 1906, who gave an indemnity bond for $25,000 to the city.

The Public Service company allowed the franchise to lapse several times and made representations to the city which secured it an extension of time.

The Public Service company was engaged in building its plant, but did not work on the streets with the franchise.

Last February J. J. Chambers asked for another extension of time, saying that the company had secured a loan of $20,000 to complete its plant and lay its pipe lines.

The city council agreed to allow the extension of time, provided that the company would put up a bond of $50,000 that it would comply with the terms of the franchise in laying four miles of pipe lines every year.

The council imposed the condition that if the company failed to comply with the franchise, this bond of $50,000 would be forfeited as liquidated damages.

This bond of $50,000, fell through, however, as the company never filed the $25,000 bond which was never filed.

The $25,000 bond which the company did file was an indemnity bond and not a penalty bond.

The city council, however, thought that the $25,000 was a penalty bond to compel the company to comply with the franchise.

Some of the councilmen, however, thought that the $25,000 was a penalty bond to compel the company to comply with the franchise.
