

abuse of the chain gang prisoner, on Monday, Nov. 22.

Not only did Mrs. Valentine Scroggs, of 324 E street, and Mrs. Ashley Wallace, of 331 E street, telephone to the office of the chief of police on that day, but they described the brutality of the guard toward the boy, demanded that the victim be removed from the telephone pole at the cooking camp, told the police that the boy had been kept there from 9 o'clock in the morning until noon, and stated that they objected to such a spectacle being allowed in an open place where their children could see it on the way home from school.

GUARD USED TELEPHONE. That Chief of Police Barlow and Lieut. Shannon knew about the whole case can be proved by their own men. Mrs. Mabel D. Busk, who lives at 42 C street, just two doors north of the Engberg home, where the boy was captured and beaten, said this morning: "The guard used the telephone and asked me if he could use my telephone, and I told him that he could. He telephoned to police headquarters and told the chief of police that he was at the patrol wagon sent out, because the women in the neighborhood had demanded that a boy prisoner on the chain gang be removed from the telephone pole."

"The day was very cold. The guard did beat the boy in the Engberg home, and the Engberg girls were quite excited over the affair and told the women in the neighborhood were talking about it. I can't understand how Chief Barlow could dare to deny that he knew anything about this case, when he certainly must remember that his guard telephoned to him from my own home. Other women in this neighborhood know that the guard used my telephone, too."

"The guard handcuffed the boy's arms around a post in the rear of a new house at 218 Tenth avenue, in plain view from my home, and the boy was tied up and kept there for a long time."

The statements previously made in The News by Mrs. Valentine Scroggs, of 324 E street; Mrs. Ashley Wallace, of 331 E street; Mrs. H. J. Halton, Jr., of 435 E street; Mrs. James Moncarr, of 459 E street; Mrs. N. Engberg, of 456 C street; Mrs. M. M. Kershaw, of 472 C street; Mrs. Joseph Buzzo, of 464 F street, and many other reputable witnesses, who have testified in the additional corroboration made by Mrs. S. H. Lynch, of 467 D street, who lives next door to Mrs. Halton.

MRS. LYNCH'S STORY. Mrs. Lynch said this morning: "The story in The News about the abuse of the chain gang prisoners is true. I was here in my own home on the day that the boy tried to escape and was tied up to the pole and was kept there for several hours. I heard the guard firing shots. The boy ran into the Engberg home, just in the rear of my house, and begged the girls to hide him. The guard came in and got him, and beat him right in front of the Engberg girls. The whole neighborhood was stirred up about the thing. It was raining that day, and the weather was very cold. I don't see how these things could be denied, because everybody who lives in this vicinity knew about the affair and talked about it. I know that some of the women complained to the police."

It is significant that The Tribune this morning did not attempt to deny the story printed in The News Monday night concerning the mistreatment of Roy De Mar, 17 years of age, by George Harris, the chain gang guard, last Friday. Roy De Mar is in the city prison, and Chief Barlow can order an investigation of the charge that De Mar, while stopping at the fire at the cooking camp to warm his feet, was ridden down by Harris and beaten with a long strap with which Harris ties his pinto pony. De Mar's shoes were broken and soaking wet, and he squeezed the water out and showed Harris what condition his feet were in. The boy should have been under the jurisdiction of the juvenile court, instead of in the chain gang. He has committed no crime, but was arrested while warming himself at a stove in the Volunteers of America hall, opposite the police station, with 11 other unfortunate, last Tuesday night, and sentenced to 30 days, on a charge of vagrancy. The Tribune and Chief Barlow have not attempted to deny The News story about young Tipton, 17 years of age, who is said to be suffering from pneumonia.

Nor has any denial been made concerning the case of Frank Schlesinger, the chain gang prisoner suffering from a double rupture, who was told by Dr. Frank B. Steel, the city physician, to "send out and get a horse." Schlesinger, according to numerous chain gang prisoners who saw the affair, laid in the snow for four hours, last Thursday morning, in bitter cold weather, when the U. S. observatory reported the mercury registered only four degrees above zero. Schlesinger begged to be allowed to stay by the fire, and complained that his ruptures caused him terrible agony, and Harris kicked him time and again as he lay writhing on the ground, the chain gang prisoners allege.

The Tribune and Chief Barlow have not denied the story about John Blaud, the old man in the city prison, whose right leg is rotting from the thigh down, as the result of being allowed no treatment for a kick which he received from a horse. Blaud has suffered two months up to Dec. 12. His crime is poverty and old age. The Tribune and Chief Barlow have not denied the story concerning the boy on the chain gang who was handcuffed by Harris, tied to the latter's horse by a strap, and dragged up and down the hills until he had a hemorrhage. Chief of Police Barlow can call for an immediate official, public investigation of all these charges, and there are plenty of witnesses to testify to the various matters alleged by citizens living in the vicinity of where the chain gang has been working, between Ninth and Tenth avenues, and between C and F streets. Numerous chain gang prisoners can also give evidence as to the abuses which they have suffered and witnessed inflicted by the guards on fellow victims.

Chief Barlow does not think these charges are true, in spite of the fact that Mrs. Scroggs and Mrs. Wallace telephoned complaints to him on Monday, Nov. 22, why does he not demand a public investigation at which witnesses may testify.

The Tribune and Chief Barlow have not yet given out any denial from Mrs. Joseph Buzzo, of 464 F street, whose sympathies were aroused by seeing the freezing weather without coats or gloves. Mrs. Buzzo got one of her husband's coats and gave it to "Red" Brooks, a chain gang prisoner, who, she said, had been working in zero weather not only without a coat, but even without an outer shirt. Brooks had nothing on the upper part of his body but a "linen mesh" summer undershirt.

NO NEED OF WORRY OVER COAL FAMINE

Dealers Say There is a Shortage but All Customers Can be Taken Care Of.

"That a shortage in the supply of coal exists at present no one can deny," said George G. Smith, of the Martin Coal company, this morning, "but that a coal famine will follow is not likely. December is always a bad month in the coal business, partially on account of the holidays, and the inability to move coal freight as rapidly as desirable by the railroads, but the people are not suffering, although deliveries are more difficult from the fact that the dealers can get only the mine run of coal, which they have to screen themselves, at a loss, in order to give their customers coal which they can use. The dealers certainly lose on the game, for the reason that they are not prepared to screen the mine run, which consists of lump, nut and slack coal all dumped in together. There is no danger of a coal famine, in my estimation, and the shortage will ease up early in January."

This opinion was borne out by Mr. Critchlow, manager of the Western Fuel company. "It is true we are short of coal, said Mr. Critchlow, "but this is always the case at this time of year. Nobody has suffered yet, as far as I can ascertain, and the yards are doing everything in their power to avert a famine. There are many cars of coal coming in every day over the railroads, and the shortage will hardly last until after the holidays."

From the Oregon Short Line officials it was given out that coal trains are being moved as rapidly as the business of the road will permit. "Before we will permit a famine in coal in this city," said one operating official, this morning, "we will side track all other business and run in a few trainloads of coal. The people need not worry."

NEW GAME BIRDS FOR UTAH.

J. E. Dooly and Col. N. W. Clayton have imported from Oregon 12 and 6 Chinese pheasants respectively for propagation here. As these birds will be placed under Cochon China laws for incubation, Mr. Dooly has also ordered two dozen quail from Leavenworth, Kan., to be turned loose on Antelope Island.

DIAMOND THIEF NABBED.

R. L. Shannon, lieutenant of police, returned Monday night from San Francisco, bringing with him E. C. Christy, wanted here on the charge of grand larceny. It is alleged that Christy, who was employed at the St. Cecilia hotel, stole a diamond ring valued at $250 from an actress. Lieut. Shannon said he had some difficulty in securing the prisoner as his friends in San Francisco did all in their power to prevent the governor of California from honoring the requisition papers.

SHEEP STARVING ON WINTER RANGE

Heavy Snows Make it Impossible For Flocks to Get Food.

SAVING THEM WITH CORN

Dr. A. C. Young Says Measures Being Taken Will Save Them and Predicts Early Relief.

There are 40,000 sheep in Boxelder county which are in very sore straits because of heavy snows which have fallen of late, and which prevent them from getting their usual winter food. Carload after carload of corn is being rushed in from the east to keep them going until a change in weather conditions makes it possible for them to feed from the range.

At the present time there is over two feet of snow on the winter range, and the hardship to the animals is great. According to reliable reports, there have been no losses as yet of any moment. The great lands of the Lindsay-Bitten Land & Livestock company, the largest holders in that county, are reported in good shape. But they are being fed with corn. It is this staple food which is the most valuable to sheep in stress, providing not only sustenance but great warmth. There has been some trouble in obtaining the corn, as there is none of it raised in the intermountain west, at least, not enough for feeding purposes. And the sheep men have been keeping the wire busy and worrying the railroads in a partially successful attempt to get the much needed grain.

The conditions are not at all bad in Boxelder county or on any of the winter ranges, as far as I have been able to find," said Dr. A. C. Young, state veterinarian, this morning. "I have just come from the Boxelder district, and when I left, there was 18 inches of snow with more falling. That means that the sheep must be fed, as they cannot get their natural winter food. But there have been no losses. There have been no high winds, no heavy drifts, and not extremely cold weather. How should I think that there is any cause for alarm. All of the sheep are in good condition and the range is good."

Inspector Reynolds of the U. S. forest service reports that 100,000 head of sheep at present herding northwest of this city are in danger of starvation because of the presence of so much snow that they cannot get at the winter range feed.

DEATH OF SAM WILLIAMSON.

Well Known Grain Broker and Dealer Passes Away This Morning. Sam Williamson, the well known grain broker and dealer, died at 5 a. m. today at Pasadena, Cal., where he had gone three weeks ago from the city to recuperate after an attack of pneumonia from which he was then convalescent. Mr. Williamson was taken ill in September, from unknown causes, beyond that he was necessary well worn out from over application to business which required a great deal of his attention. He was so much improved before going to the wedding of a daughter, but remained so weak that his physician advised removal to Pasadena for recovery.

Mrs. Williamson accompanied her husband to care for him, but at Redondo beach, the patient caught a bad cold which developed into pneumonia, and which was in him before leaving this city, and he steadily failed, as in his condition he could not offer the resistance necessary to recuperate. Mrs. Williamson and their daughter Margaret, who is attending at the university, were with Mr. Williamson when he died. The eldest daughter, Mrs. Frank Anderson, had left last night for Pasadena, but she will be back by telegraph at 11 in the morning. The body is to leave California Wednesday morning for Salt Lake, where the interment will be made.

Sam Williamson was a native of Kirkcubright, Scotland, aged 60. In early life he removed to Liverpool where he married and came to Utah in 1890. He leaves a wife and five children, viz. Mrs. Frank Anderson, Mrs. James Blakely, Misses Jennie, Margaret, and Jack. All are residents here except Mrs. Blakely who resides at Reno. The deceased was widely known and respected through this section of the country. He was a prominent member of the Westminster Presbyterian church. Arrangements for the funeral will be made later.

The cold weather still exists in the east with snow in the north-west. The general conditions throughout the country have changed little. From indications there seems to be a general rise in temperature in sight within the next 24 hours with no radical changes.

Monday's promised snow was diverted by a high barometric pressure, unforeseen, which slipped down from Canada. But the St. Cecilia has been giving away steadily with the low drilling along at a steady pace. There is no possibility that falling weather can escape Salt Lake and the vicinity.

PHOSPHATE LANDS PURE SEGREGATED

Local Land Office Receives List From the Secretary of the Interior.

SAVING THEM WITH CORN

Thousands Waiting for Chance to File On Homesteads Now Have the Opportunity Offered.

The local land office this morning received important word from the secretary of the interior in regard to the so-called "phosphate lands" in the north-eastern part of the state. The office for months past has been inundated with inquiries in regard to these lands and the communication received this morning clears up a good many atmospheric.

When phosphates were discovered in the northeastern part of the state thousands and thousands of acres were withdrawn from entry awaiting an investigation in regard to their mineral character. The lands affected were in Summit, Uintah, Grand, Emery, Carbon, Wasatch and other counties. Uncle Sam got busy and as a result the phosphate lands have been segregated and others not mineral-bearing have been reopened to entry. The list received from Washington this morning has a very important bearing upon the development of that part of the state, as some very valuable agricultural land has been placed on the homestead market and there are thousands who are waiting to avail themselves of the chance to pick up good ranch land.

TOO DRUNK TO FEEL PAIN.

D. J. Kennedy Shot Through the Leg Finds Shoe Full of Blood.

Jim Kennedy, bartender in a saloon at 29 Commercial street, was roofing with a revolver Monday night and the weapon fell to the floor. The revolver was discharged and there was a stampede for exits on the part of Kennedy and the loungers in the place. All broke for the street and fresh air save one. The one was D. J. Kennedy, a member of the Brotherhood of Railway Trainmen. He remained because he was sound asleep, his system saturated with whiskey. Kennedy insisted that the bullet from the revolver passed through the fleshy part of the calf of his right leg and into the bone. He was kept on the ground and the crowd walked around him looking for marks of the bullet but found none.

CURES ECZEMA QUICKLY.

New Discovery Has Revolutionized the Treatment of Skin Diseases.

Nothing in the history of medicine has ever approached the success of the marvelous skin remedy known as poslam, which is safe so eczema and skin cured more cases of eczema and skin disease than any remedy ever offered for these ailments. The success of poslam is not at all surprising when it is considered that even a very small quantity applied to skin stops itching immediately and cures chronic cases in two weeks. The very worst case of eczema as well as acne, herpes, tetter, piles, salt rheum, crusts, humors, scaly scalp and every form of itch, yield to it readily. Blisters such as in pimples, red noses, muddy and in flamed skin disappear almost immediately when poslam is applied, the complexion being cleared over-night. Every drug that keeps both the 50-cent size for minor troubles and the $2 jar, and either of these may be obtained in Salt Lake City at the F. J. H. Drug Co. as well as other reliable drug stores.

But no one is even asked to purchase poslam without first obtaining a certificate from the doctor which will be sent by mail, free of charge, upon request, by the Emergency Laboratories, 32 West Twenty-fifth street, New York City.

Plain and Fancy Shooting By Salt Lake City's Finest

It was a dark and stormy night, a night when the wind howled about the corners and filled the hearts of the street boys with delight when they contemplated their walks home after work in the bracing air. As aforesaid, it was a dark and stormy night and suddenly, as is usual, the night air was pierced by a bullet and the sound of an explosion was not far off. Officer Cassidy, he of the generous waistline, heard the shot and thought someone had fired a rifle or a pistol in his close proximity—quite a deduction for Cassidy. Thinking the act had taken place in the south end of Main street, Cassidy ran from the Smith Drug store corner in the direction of the Godbe-Pitts corner. How like a policeman! But Cassidy was mistaken. Instead of the shot having been fired where he thought, it was not a shot at all, but the banging of a door at the Nevada rooming house. Cassidy took courage and investigated. He met a man in a dark hallway. How should Cassidy know that this man was a thief. He did not, so he let him escape down a fire escape and get into a dark alley. There the man encountered Sergeant John Roberts and feeling safe when so many policemen were near, the robber fled on, over and then started something. It sounded like the charge of the light brigade on Bunker Hill at the battle of Cold Harbor, or even worse than that. Embraving his revolver, a policeman started shooting at the fleeing robber. Everybody but the robber was in the fire zone. At the first shot, a third window in Commercial street was shattered. At the second shot an insulator was brought down from a pole that dared be in the way. The third shot just missed a dog that was partaking of an early breakfast at the Can't wasger two to get in the morning. The fourth shot nearly knocked the helmet off the policeman doing the Dr. Carver act. The fifth shot put a dent in the ball on top of the flag pole at the Wilson hotel. The sixth shot went wild, but as far as the eye could follow its course, it had done no damage. And the robber ran on and on as invulnerable as Achilles. He darted into a group of policemen standing on a streetcorner talking to a bevy of ladies—the hour was three bells ante meridian. He asked the time of day and the nearest port of safety. As he darted away and into a dark alley a ray of intelligence overpowered the countenance of one of the noble upholders of the law. The first thought might be a robber, he thought, and the trio began shooting. The ladies became alarmed and sought refuge behind a door. The first shot shattered the glass in this door and the ladies ran upstairs. Reaching the third floor they darted into a room and were started to hear the window crash. Hit they began shooting at random. The window of a State street saloon next fell victim to the fusillade, then a garbage can, then a chimney on a three story building, next a flag pole, then an electric sign—and the robber fled on. He was unscathed and untraced as long as he was their target. If they began shooting at random today, meanwhile Billy Young, he of "we don't rob strangers" fame, is mourning the loss of some cash for it was his Main street place that was robbed. And meanwhile he is wondering what policemen are for—why they carry firearms and all sorts of thoughts are passing through his mind. The officials in charge at the war department have been informed of the remarkable marksmanship of the Salt Lake police and are planning an investigation. If three or four policemen can cover a vertical range of 50 yards, a horizontal range of more than that, and not get hurt themselves, the war department believes that a big reduction in the standing army may be made with safety if the Salt Lake method of firing is officially adopted. What use Gatling guns, modern field artillery cannons, rapid fire and automatic rifles can possibly be in the wars of the future, the war department cannot see. Salt Lake has been made famous by many things, but perhaps its greatest fame will come when the powers adopt the new method in vogue here. What matters it if the policemen did not hit the robber, they might have done.
