

THE KILLING OF DISEASED CATTLE

Attorney General Gives State Veterinarian His Opinion Of the Statute.

FEDERAL INSPECTORS TO ACT

Animals Affected With Incurable Maladies Are Declared to Have No Value.

There is a conflict of opinion between the state board of health and the office of the state veterinarian as to the construction of the act creating the office and defining the duties of state veterinarian, with especial reference to the treatment of tuberculous cattle.

Attorney General Barnes replied under date of Jan. 18. "Your question is very broad. I do not know exactly what parts of those sections you refer to. Section 4 provides for a quarantine of infected premises in case of contagious or infectious diseases of all animals mentioned in the act."

Under the provisions of section 5, where the premises have been previously quarantined, the veterinarian is authorized and empowered, when in his judgment it is necessary, to cause a slaughter of the diseased animals upon such quarantine premises as he may designate.

"Under the provisions of section 9 it is made unlawful to dispose of by selling, giving away, or in any manner parting with, to another, any animal infected with a contagious or infectious disease, or any animal which has, or which the owner or his agent, or his employee, or the party in possession thereof, has reason to believe has, within 30 days next preceding such transfer, been exposed to any infectious or contagious disease, without first notifying the proposed purchaser or purchaser of such animal that it is so infected or has been so exposed."

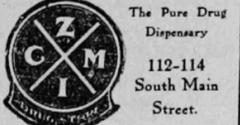

"The governor shall, through the secretary of agriculture, in Washington, ask the co-operation of the United States bureau of animal industry in controlling and eradicating contagious and infectious diseases in animals enumerated in this act, and in this connection, through its duly authorized representatives, agents or employees, shall be thus engaged, they shall possess the same power and authority in this state as the state veterinarian and his assistants under and by virtue of this act."

Anticipations of a Stunning Gown Rudely Shattered at "Fitting Time"

Mrs. George M. Cox, the wife of a wealthy mining man of Pioche, and president of the Pioche Commercial club, who came here last week to have fitted a dress made for a special occasion, is in deep trouble and may have to cancel her social engagement. When she arrived here she discovered that Mrs. Samantha Foley, the dressmaker, had made up the material and the dress had been worn several times. Whether this dress was worn to the Charity ball, a New Year's party or the first night at the theater, Mrs. Cox is unable to say. But the dress has "appeared" and besides, it is worn out and she avers that she can never put it on. As a result she filed suit against Mrs.

PUSHING WORK ON CLUB.

Commercial Club Building Will be Ready for Occupancy in May.

The work on the new Commercial club building on Exchange place is assuming such proportions as to warrant the prediction that the place will be ready for occupancy by some time in May, if there are no labor troubles in the meantime. The steamfitters are completing their work and as soon as the heat is turned on in the building the plasterers will be enabled to go to work. The firm which has the contract for the decorations is preparing to put to work a large force of men as soon as the surface is given time to work upon. This work is of such a character as to consume time but everything has been systematized to such an extent that, according to Secretary Caine, matters will jump as soon as the operations of the brush and stencil.

ROBBERS WRECKED HOME.

China, Furniture and Other Household Effects Broken at Shields Home

Thinking the family was at home, neighbors of H. M. Shields, 90 P street, did not offer any interference when they heard the sounds of smashing crockery and breaking furniture between 10 and 11 o'clock Tuesday night. Mr. Shields and family were at the theater. During their absence robbers broke open a rear window, entered the house and ransacked it from top to bottom. The lights were turned on by the thieves and their selection of valuables consisted of $7 in cash, a cut glass cream set, nine hand-painted china plates and a valuable suit case. The police were notified when the Shields returned, but so far have been unable to apprehend the robbers.

DEVIATION BY FLOOD.

Deputy U. S. Marshal Smyth Tells of Havo in Dixie Land.

The devastation wrought in the southwestern part of the state by the great flood of the past month is described vividly by Lucian H. Smyth, deputy United States marshal, who has just returned from the afflicted country with an Indian, who is charged with murder on the Shetbi reservation. For a number of years Mr. Smyth has been going through the same country on official business and he is very naive with conditions and every fact in connection with it is something terrific. "It is something terrific," said Mr. Smyth this morning. "Why, there are hundreds of acres of corn, the very best sort of agricultural and fruit lands which have either been washed away or covered with boulders, from the hills to such an extent as to render them practically valueless. The monetary loss cannot be estimated. The inhabitants are somewhat relieved by the possibility of obtaining the railroad on their various lands."

"In the Enterprise valley the devastation has been something tremendous. The washouts have been great as to make all of the old timers go back and search their memory and traditions for anything that they can remember. The river has been contained a drop of moisture became raging torrents, carrying everything before them. The great Chabourne is one of the pioneers of that country and owned a fine ranch, which had upon it some of the finest fruit trees which are anywhere produced. He shipped yearly thousands of boxes of fruit all over the world and at this place, 22 miles north of St. George, practically half of the timber has been destroyed. The boulders washed down from the hills and the great floods dug out trees by the thousands."

THE YEAR'S DIVORCE RECORD.

In Utah last year, there were 47 divorces granted, as shown by a report compiled by J. T. Haines, state statistician. Salt Lake county shows most of them, with a total of 31, and Weber county is second with 6. The number of marriage licenses issued in the state has not been determined. In Salt Lake county 2,054 licenses were issued.

BADLY FROZEN AND INSANE.

William James, a former well known bartender of Salt Lake, was brought to Salt Lake Tuesday afternoon by Deputy Sheriff James Williams of Garfield, suffering from frozen feet and laboring under the idea that he possessed fabulous wealth. He was committed to the state mental hospital by Judge T. D. Lewis.

WANTS DUCK HUNTERS TO QUIT.

Thomas E. Jeremy filed suit in the Third district court Tuesday against the Utah State Gun club to enjoin the members from trespassing upon his ground near the Jordan river. He says that the officers of the club broke the lock off of his gate and entered his premises on September 1 and have continued to trespass since that time. He asks for $100 as damages and that the title of the land be quieted.

ALLER PLEADS NOT GUILTY.

The case of C. W. Aller, a colored porter formerly employed in the council saloon, and charged with robbing the place, pleaded not guilty in the criminal division of the city court this morning to burglary in the second de-

TEX STILL HERE WITH HIS DREAMS

Says He Will Put on the Jeffries-Johnson Fight at Salfair.

SPORTS NOW MUCH IN DOUBT

In the Face of Public Sentiment, the Law and the Governor's Firm Stand, Dream Cannot be True.

Notwithstanding the opposition that has been manifested in regard to bringing off the Jeffries-Johnson prize fight in Salt Lake, the promoters from Tex Rickard all the way down the line, even including J. E. Langford, manager of the Salfair route, maintain their stand that the big contest will be presented at the bicycle track at Salfair beach. This morning a high priced photographer journeyed to the place beside the lake for the purpose of obtaining views which are intended to boost the contest.

Tex Rickard preserves his equanimity and his stand in the face of all sorts of antagonism. He sets his jaws, the fire-light comes into his eyes, and he asseverates that the fight belongs to him, no matter what the San Francisco people say, and that he will pull off the event in Salt Lake in spite of anything that may come up. Tex is not talking much these days, but he is doing a lot of working with the wifes and otherwise. To a friend he remarked that if certain matchmakers who think they own the pugilistic world get too obstreperous he will pull off the contest out on some sandhill if there are not 10 people present. And, according to the contract, both Jeffries and Johnson must come through or forfeit $10,000 each.

There has been an influx of the profession to the city within the last few days and tonight, when an exhibition takes place at Murray, there promises to be a bunch of ring notables on hand. Fecular as it may seem, there is a feeling markedly prevalent that Rickard is going to be able to stage his big contest in or about Salt Lake.

THE GOVERNOR SAYS NO.

And in the face of the Nevada gambler's assertions stand the statutes of Utah, statutes which say that a contest of this kind shall not be. Backing them up to the letter stands the governor of the state with the supreme executive authority of the state vested in him. He says the fight will not take place here. Those who know the governor well will not hesitate to say that he probably knows more about the matter than does the Nevada fight promoter. In the face of the governor's assertion, there seems to be little ground for the hopes of the promoters of the fight. It is generally conceded that what the governor says, he means, and that when he says there will be no fight in Utah, there will be no fight in Utah.

Among the sporting fraternity, which is a very small fraction of the city's population, there is a change of opinion noticeable today. After Tex had acquired the agency of big type and red ink for a newspaper broadside to the effect that he and the interests he represents could "pull off" the fight here despite laws and governors and sheriffs, the doubts continued to grow and now they are very well defined and where on Monday there was quite a large number of people who thought the fight might take place at Salfair, in the face of the agreements made, today they have completely changed front and now the sporting fraternity, in common with the greater majority of the people of Utah recognize that when Governor Spry says there will be no fight here, that there will not, and just as surely as when Governor Hughes made the same remark with regard to his ballwick.

John W. Christy, examiner of the United States court, is hearing evidence today in the suit of the Raft River Land Investment company against John Lind and a score of other defendants. The case involves the title to water rights on the Raft river.

KALLAS ARRANGED.

Jim Kallas, the foreigner arrested several days ago through the clever work of Lieut. Shannon, and charged in three complaints with receiving stolen property, was arraigned before Judge J. M. Bowman in the criminal division of the city court this morning. To each charge he pleaded not guilty and the cases were set for Feb. 7. In default of $700 bail he was sent to the county jail. Kallas is the man who is alleged to have induced a number of delivery boys to steal from their employers and sell him butter, eggs, tobacco and fruit for a mere trifle. One of the boys who was arrested and identified Tuesday evening by Lieut. Shannon as a runaway from Cotte, Utah, is Arthur Hottel, agent for the Raft River Land Investment company in December, about the middle of the month. His parents were almost distracted and wrote to the police for information concerning the lad. Tuesday evening Lieut. Shannon recognized the boy as the runaway and at once communicated with his aunt who had bought a ticket and send him home to his parents.

WILLIAMS UP FOR HEARING.

Frank Williams, colored, charged with breaking into the Paris cleaning company's place of business on Dec. 4 and stealing a quantity of clothing, was arraigned in the criminal division of the city court this morning for preliminary hearing on a charge of burglary in the second degree. Williams is a partner of Williams, is now serving a term in the state prison for the same offense, having pleaded guilty. Williams had nothing to do with the robbery. The case will not be concluded before tomorrow morning.

RAILROAD NEWS

J. E. GOSLING PROMOTED.

J. E. Gosling, formerly assistant to Kent O. Keyes in the Salt Lake offices of the New York Central railroad, has been appointed general agent of the Kanawha Dispatch, the new-coming division of the New York Central. Separate offices will be opened Feb. 1 in the Walker Bros. bank building for the Kanawha Dispatch, the completion of the felt building, next to the Newhouse buildings, the offices of the Kanawha Dispatch will locate in the new building permanently. Mr. Gosling will have charge of the office. He is an untiring and intelligent worker, and has been connected with the New York Central for many years. Mr. Keyes, who is now in charge of the office, is a native of Kanawha, and is a member of the Oregon Short Line for the past two years.

EASTERN RATES ADVANCE.

Chicago, Jan. 19.—An increase of 5 cents a hundred pounds on first class freight between New York and Chicago by lake and rail practically has been agreed upon, according to dispatches from the east last night. All lines had agreed to the advance, with the exception of the Grand trunk railway-national dispatch, it was stated. It is said that pressure is being brought to bear on this line to join in the increase. This boost will be worked out by the reduction of the differential of the lake and rail rates. The differential has been 10 cents a hundred pounds on first class freight. The water lines are said to have agreed to cut this differential in half, giving them a rate only 5 cents lower than that by all-rail.

NEW RAILROAD TIE.

Another Utah invention to be Pushed For All It is Worth. Another Utah invention which gives promise of effecting a revolution in the use of railroad ties, is about to be exploited in the east. It is the Universal Metallic railroad tie. The tie consists of a metal rod, entirely of steel, and does away with the old wooden ties heretofore used entirely by the great majority of the railroads of the United States. This tie has been invented by Utah men and has been recently patented. It has stood the test of closest scrutiny by experienced railroad engineers, and has been pronounced a near perfect tie. It is possible to make a tie, from the standpoint of utility and durability. The purpose of arranging for the tie can be practically an exploit its use generally throughout the country, a company has been incorporated under the laws of Utah, and within a few days E. H. Hodson, president of the company, representing the company, will leave for the east. These gentlemen expect to visit Washington, New York, Pittsburg, and other leading centers and arrangements will be made to manufacture the tie, probably at Pittsburg. The invention has been so favored by the railroad men of this state and by prominent engineers and railroad men all over the country that the company is assured that the tie can be practically exploited throughout the United States. The question of insulation has been thoroughly solved and now the tie has been placed in such a position that the signal connections can be worked with perfect success on the new tie.

It has been estimated by competent engineers that the metallic tie will last from five to 10 times longer than the best treated wooden tie now in use; and as its cost is only a trifle more than that of the wooden tie, it is figured that the adoption of the metallic tie by railroads will effect a saving of many times the cost of the tie in use at present.

A number of the leading men of the state are interested in the new invention, and from assurances which have been received from practical railroad men who have seen the tie, the success of the project is fully assured.

ARRAY OF SPEAKERS.

The toastmaster then introduced Prof. Marshall of the university, who authorized Bishop Spalding's episcopate and the work he was accomplishing in Utah. Rev. Paul Jones, a Yale 1902 graduate, gave a good account of his stewardship in St. John's mission at Logan, of which he is in charge, and referred in a complimentary vein to what Bishop Spalding had done for his special field of labor up north. Judge Ritchie, of the district court, formerly colonel of the First Infantry, N. G. U., reviewed the work done in St. Mark's parish which was progressing satisfactorily under the administration of Dean Colladay. The latter in his address eulogized the west, with its atmosphere of freedom, its push, and enterprise, and inspiration of its environment. He expressed his pleasure at being brought into such surroundings in general, and in particular with his new charge of the Commercial block. He said that the best and highest hopes he was glad to meet with the best known members and workers of the Episcopal church in Utah. The occasion gave him inspiration in his labors, and he felt sure that the associations that profitably begun would continue to gratify fruition.

THE CHURCH IN OGDEN.

H. C. Tavey, the local representative of Marshall, Field & Co. gave an interesting narrative of the good accomplished by the Church of the Good Shepherd at Ogden, and the speaking closed with well received remarks from Bishop Spalding on "Retrospect and Prospect." He reviewed the work of the Episcopal church in this missionary district since the death of Bishop Leonard in that city. He said that he was especially sincere thanks for the banquet tendered him. It was a close to the fifth year of his episcopate that

EPISCOPALIANS AT FESTIVAL BOARD

Complimentary Banquet Tendered the Rt. Rev. F. S. Spalding at Cullen Hotel.

WELCOME TO REV. COLLADAY.

Rector C. E. Perkins of St. Paul's Church Presides as Toastmaster—Elaborate Menu and Speeches.

One hundred of the most prominent Episcopalians in this city and state gathered at the festival board in the Cullen hotel Tuesday evening, in honor of the Rt. Rev. F. S. Spalding, D. D., bishop of the Episcopal church in Utah, on the completion of the fifth year of his episcopate, and to welcome the Very Rev. F. S. Spalding, the new dean of St. Mark's cathedral, given by the churchmen of the missionary district of Utah, under the auspices of St. Paul's Men's club of this city. The gathering included the Rt. Rev. Bishop Spalding, Dean Colladay of St. Mark's cathedral, Rev. Charles E. Perkins of St. Paul's church, Rev. Paul Jones and Rev. D. K. Jones of Logan; Rev. T. Denhart of Provo, Rev. W. Fleetwood of Ogden, Rev. M. J. Hearsey of White Rocks, Prof. George M. Marshall of the University of Utah, Maj. Wilkes, M. H. Walker, Judge Ritchie, Rev. M. W. Rice, Rev. W. F. Buckley and many others.

The tables were set in the conventional letter "U" shape, with the base of the letter at the north end of the cafe where Rector C. E. Perkins of St. Paul's church presided as toastmaster. At his right sat the bishop as the special guest of honor, at his left was Dean Colladay, the other guest of honor. Judge Ritchie sat to the left of the dean. Visiting clergymen were ranged to the right and the left, while down the tables sat prominent citizens clad in their happiest attire. The tables were elegantly dressed. There were no decorations, but then, none were really needed; the prevailing good humor and enjoyment of the occasion proving all that was necessary in the line.

THE MENU.

The menu was elaborate, served in courses, giving plenty of time for gradual digestion, and it was "Now good digestion wait on appetite, and health on both." The eating began at 8 p. m., with so keen a zest, that it was 10:30 before the decks were cleared for a general action. The menu included the following:

- Blue Points on half shell. Consomme on Tasse. Olives. Filet of Sole, tartar sauce. Pommes Julienne. Larded tenderloin of beef with mushrooms. Tiny peas. Cardinal punch. Roast young turkey, chestnut dressing. Mashed potatoes. Cranberry jelly. French salad. English plum pudding, hard and brandy sauce. Almond ice cream. Assorted cakes. Roquefort cheese. Rector's water crackers. Cafe noir.

The quality and service left nothing to be desired, except that as a matter of course, it is not catholic diet, but of appetite, "bore the hungry edge of appetite," bore the imagination of a feast. It was an "Increase of appetite given by what it fed on," the viands being of the very best.

SOME OF THE TOASTS.

When the yearnings of the inner man had been given full rein, the following list of toasts was carried out. Toastmaster..... Rev. Charles E. Perkins. St. Paul's Church..... Prof. George M. Marshall. Our Own Field..... Rev. Paul Jones. St. Mark's Cathedral..... Judge M. L. Ritchie. The Old and the New..... Dean F. S. Spalding. Church of the Good Shepherd..... H. C. Tavey. Retrospect and Prospect..... Bishop F. S. Spalding.

President J. W. Gates of the St. Paul's Men's club introduced Rector Perkins as the presiding genius and toastmaster of the evening. Mr. Perkins spoke briefly of the occasion of the dinner, and of the growth of the Episcopal church in Utah under the guidance of Bishop Spalding. He also spoke of the significance of the coming of the new dean of St. Mark's cathedral, succeeding Dean Brewster, while much had been accomplished, much remained to be done, and it would be done under the intelligent and energetic administration of the present bishop.

SENATOR SMOOT SPEAKS FOR WESTERN FORESTS

Washington, Jan. 18.—"The east and the south have a right to ask the same attention by the national government to forests on the waterheds of the Appalachians as has been given to the west," declared former Gov. Curtis Guild, Jr., of Massachusetts, president of the American Forestry association at its annual dinner tonight. "Not one state of the old 13," he said, "that fought the revolution, that helped pay for the Louisiana purchase, that fought the war of 1812 or was taxed to pay for the seeding of Florida by Spain, is benefited directly by the national forest reserves, a colossal investment in regard to this country. Senator Smoot of Utah spoke for the west. Referring to the Balfour-Pitchot controversy, Mr. Guild said: "In view of the pending congressional investigation in regard to the conservation of natural resources, comment, eulogy or censure of the past not only would be in bad taste but useless. It is extremely gratifying to note that all officials connected with forestry in the national administration, in spite of all differences, agree on the urgent need of the immediate passage by Congress of remedial legislation in the cause of forestry and conservation. In his opinion of Prof. Graves, the new forester, he voiced the organization's approval of his appointment by saying: "We are extremely fortunate at having at the head of forestry work in the United States a gentleman who is not merely a naturalist and an ecologist, but an acknowledged expert of international reputation on the subject of forestry."
