PROMISES ABUNDANT YIELD. Fruit Exports Say 1910 Will Be Marked by Bumper Crops.

"From information that has come to me of late, I believe the prospects for a good yield of fruit in this state are decidedly bright," said Dr. E. D. Ball, expert horticulturist of the Agricultural college of Logan. "This is particularly the condition in the northern and central parts of the state. Down near Green River the cold weather had done considerable damage. Some of the orchards were soaked with water late in the fall, resulting in a debilitated condition of the trees when winter set in, and many trees were frozen down to the snow line. Of course that is not the general condition over the fruit growers. The present weather conditions, the long, steady cold, without the usual sudden thaws followed by sharp frosts, are favorable. There will be a large crop, especially of the hardiest varieties, in all sections of the state."

Moroni Mortensen, president of the state Horticultural society, one of the most successful apple growers in the northern Utah, bears out the present prospects of a bumper fruit crop for 1910. Mr. Mortensen says further: "The light crop of last year has left the orchards in a condition to withstand unfavorable weather conditions, and to put forth renewed efforts this season toward heavy yields. The outlook for the coming year is bright. We are putting ourselves in a position to successfully ward off any impending frosts, by our decision to adopt the smudge-pot system that has been employed so successfully in our sister state, Colorado. Not only that, but the Utah fruit growers are rapidly adopting the best approved modern methods of cultivation of the soil, trimming of the trees, thinning of the fruits, spraying, and last and not least the selection of seedling and growing stock of our products. We are fast approaching the front in all these matters by study, observation, experience and the work of our State Horticultural society. I believe Utah has a great future before it as a fruit state."

LAYMEN'S CONVENTION. Speakers of National Reputation Coming to Salt Lake in March.

Preparations are in progress for the Laymen's Missionary convention of the United States which is to be held in this city, March 8-10.

The local committee on general arrangements, consisting of Judge M. L. Ritchie, F. J. Lucas, Rev. C. C. McIntyre, and others has started the work of preparation.

This movement originated three years ago in the Fifth avenue Presbyterian church, New York city, and has for its object the evangelization of the world during this century. The executive committee consists of 21 men, 15 of them residents of New York and vicinity, two from Washington, one from St. Louis, and one from Chicago. This committee meets monthly in the city of New York. J. Campbell White is the general secretary. It is as follows: J. Campbell White, general secretary; E. W. Halford, Harry Wade Hicks, Frank E. Hodgins, J. Edgar Leaycraft, Joshua H. Severance, Joseph N. Shenstone, John R. Mott, Eben E. Olcott, John R. Pepper, N. W. Rowell, Charles A. Rowland, William Jay Schieffelin, L. H. Severance, Joseph N. Shenstone, John B. Slemmer, Jr., Robert E. Speer, E. B. Struges, Moray Williams, S. W. Woodward.

The present season's campaign was started last October in Buffalo, N. Y., to continue until every large center in the country has been visited. The schedule for the remainder of February, March and April takes the workers south and west. It is to be brought to a climax in Chicago, Ill., May 2-6 of this year, when the National Missionary congress convenes. At this congress it is hoped to announce that sufficient funds have been pledged to assure the carrying of the Bible to every nation of the world.

AGED INDIAN FIGHTER. John Matt Clark of Ozen Tells of Early Experiences in Idaho.

John Matt Clark, who for about two score years has lived on his farm in the south end of Ozen, has in Salt Lake this week filing his Indian war records. In the fifties the Indians suddenly dropped down on some of the settlements in southern Idaho and drove off all the cattle and horses. As soon as the word reached President Brigham Young at Salt Lake, a company of 250 volunteers was formed, and off they set to the Salmon country in pursuit of the driving Indians. Pioneer "Matt" Clark was one of this number, at that time an ambitious young man eager for his share of the fight. His hair is white as snow, and although old in years he is as erect as a poplar tree and as spry as any man at 50. "Well, we went after those Indians," said he, "and although we didn't bring back many scalps, we got most of the stolen stock and brought them back, which was our object. Those were stirring times for the pioneers, but that the foundations of a commonwealth were well laid the results of over 50 years today show all over our Utah and Idaho valleys. It makes us old fellows feel good to look around and see what has come of our youthful efforts in that direction. We didn't think much of it at the time, only felt we were doing our duty to our fellow men, and the results look good to us after 50 years or more and we are just being glad to feel that we did some good and our efforts are appreciated."

BEN R. ELDRIDGE FOR PRESIDENT

Elected to Head the Utah Dairy Association for the Ensuing Year.

RESOLUTIONS ARE ADOPTED. Convention Members Decide to Ask Legislature to Provide for Re-compense for Cattle Slaughtered.

Ben R. Eldridge was elected president of the Utah Dairy association at the closing session of the annual convention held at Armory hall Thursday afternoon. As Mr. Eldridge is a producer it is expected that new life will be instilled into the organization and that the membership will be materially increased during the coming year.

The convention adopted the following resolution: "Whereas the State of Utah offers exceptional opportunities in dairying; and whereas, there is not that interest taken in dairy matters that the soil, climate and market conditions justify, therefore, be it resolved, that the chief of the dairy bureau of the department of agriculture be petitioned to send a field agent or field agents into the field to work among our farmers in an effort to create among them a greater interest in dairy matters and to instruct them in modern dairy methods."

The members assembled decided to ask the next legislature to pass a law similar to that in effect in other states, whereby owners of cattle destroyed because of tuberculosis infection shall be compensated for their loss by the state. In whose officers order the destruction of the cattle.

Dr. S. E. Brimhall of the government bureau of animal industry, delivered an interesting address on the care of dairy herds, and he was followed by Prof. T. E. Woodward of the Utah Agricultural college, who spoke on "Feeding."

H. E. Cain, in a talk on dairying, said that the present high price of butter was due to the undeveloped condition of the dairy industry of the state.

TO HANDLE UTAH CROP. The Pioneer Fruit exchange of California will handle the 1910 fruit crop for the nine local fruit growers' associations represented by the Utah Fruit exchange. This California concern disposed of the crop last year. It secured the contract this year on the following conditions: The Utah Fruit exchange to have an office in Utah, to have two or more inspectors during the packing season to see that all fruit is properly packed; to dispose of all carload lots of fruit through the exchange; to have a straight commission basis. By this system, the Utah growers hope to prevent much competition between Utah fruits in outside markets, and to be in a position to market the fruits at the highest going prices, netting the growers profits that would be impossible where so many parts of the state might be thrown into competition against one another. At present, the indications point to a large fruit yield this year, the weather conditions generally having been favorable.

SLADE FOUND NOT GUILTY. Former Inmate of County Infirmary Purged of Charge.

George Slade, formerly an inmate at the county infirmary, was found not guilty of illegal registration by a jury Thursday afternoon under instructions from Judge T. D. Lewis. Slade testified on the stand that Patrolman Jasper Kast had induced him to register and told him that he had a right to register. The executive committee of the jury said that he told the officer he had voted in the Ninety-seventh district the year before when he lived at the county infirmary.

Under Judge Lewis' instructions to the jury, he said that the information against Slade charged him with "knowingly" registering illegally when he did not know the statute. The court said that the fact that a man did not know the law in regard to burglaries and felonies would not stand in the way of conviction.

WOMEN IN COMBAT. As Result Mrs. Mary Rana Is Taken By Sheriff.

On Thursday night Deputy Sheriff Steele and Emery arrested Mrs. Mary Rana, residing at 112 south Thirteenth West street, on the charge of battery. The complaint was sworn to by A. C. Caffall, who alleges that Mrs. Rana attacked him and gave him a severe beating. The condition of Mrs. Caffall is such that her physician will permit no one to see her. Mrs. Rana refused to see the case. It is said that the two women have been unfriendly for a long time and on Sunday last the climax was reached when, it is alleged, Mrs. Rana battered Mrs. Caffall.

SHEARING PLAN ABANDONED. Sheepmen Razing Near Modena Post-office Building Corral.

"The sheepmen who winter range their numerous flocks in the vicinity of Modena intended to construct large shearing yards at Modena this spring, where the shearing could be done rapidly by machinery, but as a result of the washout and the quiet times this project was abandoned, at least for this season," said W. H. Perry, a business man of Modena, Thursday at the New Windsor. "Herdsmen in Modena a few days ago reported that so far the flocks thereabouts were in as good condition as usual this late in the winter, but the range is being denuded of its scant grass and brush growth and every week makes it harder to get the sheep to feed. Some of the flocksmen in order to have a good water supply at hand, up to date there has been no feeding of hay in Modena, a few days ago reported that the first of January the section was visited by a long, drenching rain, which soaked up the sheep, until each one must have carried many pounds of water in his fleece. This was followed by a sharp frost, so severe as to cause ice to freeze on the tips of the fleece. This gave the sheep a hard jolt near the outset of winter, and severe winter conditions have prevailed ever since. Several times we have enjoyed 20 below zero at Modena, and I can judge what the sheep out in the open must have suffered, when I realize how that weather pinches us up in our Modena frame homes. On such occasions our houses afford little protection, and the first good down the frost comes in and we feel little more protection than if we were in tents or out doors. The train service between Salt Lake and Modena since the Meadow Valley washout has been anything but satisfactory. It now takes us about four hours longer to reach Salt Lake than by road. Nobody goes down our way now but those who absolutely have to, and this condition of things makes times unusually quiet, even if all the Ploche business is transacted via Modena."
