

GOOD NEWS FOR OLD SETTLERS

More Liberal Treatment to be Given Bona Fide Squatters On Unsurveyed Lands.

SECRETARY WILSON'S ORDER

Man Who Settled on Forest Reserves Prior to Their Creation Will be Entitled to Holdings.

More liberal treatment is to be given bona fide squatters by the United States government. An order issued by James Wilson, secretary of agriculture, provides that a person who has settled upon and has continuously occupied unsurveyed lands within a national forest before its creation, and is at the present time occupying such lands in good faith and is in all respects complying with the homestead law, has the right to include within the lines of the homestead 160 acres after the land is surveyed. Therefore, if the land is occupied for agricultural purposes and is not more valuable for its timber than for such purposes, there are no circumstances which, in the opinion of the district forester, tend to discredit the good faith of the claimant, he will be allowed to make application for the patenting of such lands under the act of June 11, 1906, and the examination for listing should be made with a view of listing 160 acres of land where possible. The tracts as listed should conform, as far as practicable, to the form of the public land surveys. The listing of lands as above should not govern the determination of the total area or amount of non-cultivable land listed for applicants under the act of June 11, 1906, who were not residing upon the land before the creation of the forest. In cases where less than 160 acres of land has been listed prior to the creation of the forest, an additional area sufficient to complete the homestead entry may be allowed upon proper application.

A person who has settled upon and continuously occupied unsurveyed lands within a national forest before its creation, and is at the present time occupying such lands in good faith and is in all respects complying with the homestead law, has the right to include within the lines of the homestead 160 acres after the land is surveyed. Therefore, if the land is occupied for agricultural purposes and is not more valuable for its timber than for such purposes, there are no circumstances which, in the opinion of the district forester, tend to discredit the good faith of the claimant, he will be allowed to make application for the patenting of such lands under the act of June 11, 1906, and the examination for listing should be made with a view of listing 160 acres of land where possible. In cases where less than 160 acres of land has been listed prior to the creation of the forest, an additional area sufficient to complete the homestead entry may be allowed upon proper application.

A squatter who had, in good faith, taken possession of a parcel of national forest land before the national forests were created is above entitled to his claim by the forest service, and if he lives upon it and cultivates it until the land has been surveyed he is able to get his homestead, but if he had settled on any part of the unsurveyed public domain. But since the passage of the act of June 11, 1906, which permits the secretary of agriculture to let for settlement for agriculture, it has been possible for squatters to apply for the listing of their lands under this act, and thus to obtain title prior to the government survey.

THIN FOLKS MADE FAT

Good, healthy flesh can only be gained by the use of the proper food, together with natural action of the organs of assimilation. Nine people out of ten in order to weigh as much as they ought to and be perfectly healthy, should use Samose, the great flesh-forming food and health restorer. Weigh yourself before commencing to use these little tablets, and see how your weight increases from week to week. Samose does not contain a particle of starch or pepsin, nor is it any nauseating preparation, such as is usually recommended to make people fat, and which does not build up good healthy tissues. Samose has valuable flesh-forming properties, tones up and strengthens the whole system, helps the food that is eaten to be assimilated in a natural manner, and absolutely restores health to all the organs. If you are not perfectly satisfied with the results from Samose, Z. C. M. J. Drug Dept. will return your money without any quibbling.

Daughters of the Pioneers Hear of Early Days in Utah

One of the most interesting meetings yet held by the Daughters of Utah Pioneers was that yesterday at the home of Mrs. M. Y. Dougal when the survivors of the handcart companies of early days were guests of the occasion, and reminiscences of the fateful journey and some of the oc-t-ber pioneers were given, together with the pioneering of other localities by members of the L. D. S. Church. The meeting opened with prayer by Pioneer W. Perry Nohoket, followed by singing "Should Auld Acquaintance be Forgotten," and "Hail Times Come Again to Me," with Mrs. Lena Young Moore leading.

A brief discussion of business followed in which the coming annual convention on April 11 was included and Mrs. Miranda Pratt and Mrs. Elizabeth Hayward announced that they would be at the Lion House next Monday from 2 to 5 o'clock to assist any who might need help in making out applications for membership. Mrs. E. S. Wright chairman of the badge committee reported that badges would be here by this evening. Mrs. Vilate Clayton Young followed with a most interesting talk on the pioneer industries of Utah women, taking into account the necessity of bringing various uniform processes into use. She spoke of the scarcity of materials and told how one pioneer woman kept a fire constantly going in order that she might save matches and how many others of the little colony went to her fire to get lights for their own. She said that she herself once wore a dress made from the lining of a buffalo skin, and told of the makeshifts for candle-moulds and sticks before moulds were brought here. They had to take the wick and dip it repeatedly till the tallow formed sufficient thickness. Put into shells were the candlesticks in vogue at the time. She told of the hand-spinning days when women wove their own linsey, using 500 threads for fine goods and from 200 to 300 for the coarse. She said that cornucopias were used both for bobbins and spools. The women wove their own braids for hats, getting their straw from the common stack and using them whole for men's hats and split straws for the finer or fancy braids. Many interesting incidents were related in regard to other early industries and economies. Mrs. Esther Davis sang "Just a Bit of Heather," accompanied by Miss Beesley, and was followed by Mrs. Lapsiah, who represented the eight members of the handcart party, a receipt, giving interesting incidents of her own trip across the plains, including details of the great financial panic in Philadelphia, where she visited about that time. Some time ago visiting a friend in Montana, Mrs. Lapsiah came across a little book descriptive of Mt. Pisgah, which contained a description of the place, together with notes about people who were buried there. The spot belonged to members of the Dewey family, who would not let the spot be purchased by the government. The little book put a public inscription into the hands of the church, which afterwards bought the place where so many faithful pioneers of the gospel fell by the wayside and where Mrs. Lapsiah introduced Mrs. Betsy Williams Gover, nearly 90 years old, one of the old handcart company, now a resident of the Twenty-third ward. Mrs. S. T. Brimhall Foley gave an interesting description of the pioneering of Mexico, and told how the government gave the Mexicans settlers in a spot which the Mexicans considered hopeless, which had been given to them by the government. The place was converted into vineyards and orchards and the fruit trade for the Mexicans' wheat in time made for the Mexicans. They also erected canneries, and so advanced the Mexicans that they were no drawback, but a help to the country. Mrs. Foley expressed deep feeling for the race as the Daughters of Pioneers, suggested that the handcart survivors organize into a society, and Mrs. Lapsiah requested all interested in this idea to meet with her next week for the purpose of forming an organization. The interesting session closed with benediction by Mrs. Sarah Rich Miller and the song "Somewhere" by Mrs. Lena Young Moore.

FATHER ARRIVES TO COMFORT DAUGHTER

J. L. Vandaveer Comes From Kansas To See His Girl Who Shot Private Shaunty.

Shoulders bowed with age and a life time of hard work, the aged father of Laura Vandaveer Shaunty, who shot and killed her husband at Fort Douglas last week, surprised his daughter at the county jail Thursday night. J. L. Vandaveer had come all the way from Wellington, Kan., to comfort and care for his girl in trouble. The meeting was very affecting and brought tears to the eyes of the officers at the jail, men who are popularly supposed to be immune from influences of this character. Mr. Vandaveer said that his daughter had always been a good girl and could not account for the desperate deed other than that she had been driven to it. He said that at home they had no intimation that the married life of the daughter was not all that it should be, and that the news of the shooting had prostrated the mother. Laura had been away from home for six years, he said, most of the time in Illinois. The sorrowing father was much distressed at the appearance of his daughter upon whom the confinement in the jail had told greatly. He comforted her in many ways and made a journey to the shopping section of the city to purchase little things for her which will make her incarceration somewhat more bearable. He said that he would return home in a few days but would be back in company with the mother, when the daughter is brought to trial in April. He has made arrangements for the defense and expresses a conviction that his daughter will be cleared. Mr. Vandaveer is an old railroad man who has but recently retired because of age. Laura is but one of 12 children, the sons all being in the employ of railroads. Mr. Vandaveer has been connected with the Santa Fe railroad for nearly a quarter of a century.

It was decided to lay a six-inch main on Tenth East street, between Ninth South and Herbert streets. The petition of Kimball & Richards was granted for a six-inch main, beginning at Thirtieth East and Twelfth South streets, running on Thirtieth East to Stratford avenue in Highland Park, set on Stratford to Highland Park drive (county road), and east on Stratford 500 feet east of Thirtieth East street. The committee also decided to lay the six-inch main asked for by Kimball & Richards on Thirtieth East street, from Kensington avenue to Twelfth South street.

FLORISTS KEPT BUSY.

Rush for Easter Flowers Begins in Earnest Today. The rush for Easter flowers for church decoration began today, with every indication of a good trade for the flower people. Easter lilies have the call, as usual, with callas a good second. A less number of lilies are bought in California this year, as it costs a good deal to express them in here, and when arrived they are not fresh. This has stimulated Salt Lake florists to extend their lily growing facilities to such an extent that they are able now to successfully compete with the California and Council Bluffs markets. Each year sees less and less amounts of flowers shipped into Salt Lake from the outside. Fresh cut stocks from right at home are proving too much for outside growers. The churches as usual are buying large quantities which will be displayed in the various auditoriums to every possible advantage on Easter Sunday.
