

GRAZING SHEEP ON PUBLIC LANDS

Chief Forester Graves Explains Recent Decision of Supreme Court of United States.

TO BE NO CHANGE IN POLICY

Violations of Regulations Cannot be Held Criminal Nor Punishable As Such.

Chicago, April 14.—Foreseeing endless litigation unless sheep raisers clearly understood the full import of the recent decision of the federal supreme court in the Grimaud-Garajous case, relative to grazing on public lands, the American Sheep Breeders' association yesterday published an explanatory letter received from Forester H. L. Graves.

Mr. Graves says: "As you may know, the defendants were indicted by the federal grand jury for driving stock on the national forest reserves without permit. They deny the law under which the regulations are made is unconstitutional in that it undertakes to delegate legislative power to administrative officers, and the United States appealed to the supreme court which affirmed the decision of the lower court by an even vote of the justices, there being four for affirmance and four against, a fifth member not sitting.

No written opinion was rendered and it could not be in the nature of the case because of the even division of the justices. Being evenly divided their decision merely amounted to an affirmation of the lower court on these particular cases without any binding force in any subsequent case that may arise for violation of the regulations of the secretary governing grazing on the national forests. It should be perfectly clear that if Judge Wellborn (the trial judge) had refused to sustain the demurrers and the defendants had appealed the case to the supreme court, this decision would have been affirmed with equal force.

"It is the intention of the secretary of agriculture to request the attorney-general to bring another similar case before the supreme court as soon as one arises, in the hope there may be a full bench and that a final and authoritative decision of the court will be rendered. Pending the time the supreme court renders such a decision, the regulations will continue to be enforced to the fullest extent as in the past and no change will be made in the present system of regulating grazing on the national forests unless it is caused by a specific act of Congress."

The national forester states that the courts do not question the right of the government to enforce its regulations by civil actions, but clearly violations of these regulations cannot be held as criminal nor punishable as such.

MAYOR GAYNOR'S ADVICE TO ATHLETIC VISITORS

New York, April 15.—"Walk," was Mayor Gaynor's terse reply to the question by a number of athletes who asked a advice as to the best form of exercise. They called upon him yesterday to invite his attendance at their spring meet.

"Athletics of every sort ought to be encouraged," said the mayor, "but when it comes to that, it is walking I believe in. For busy men who want recreation for the mind and pleasant practice for the muscles of the body, walking is best."

HAVE RUBBER COMPANIES FORMED UNLAWFUL COMBINE?

Chicago, April 15.—United States Dist. Atty. Sims has begun investigation to ascertain whether rubber companies doing an interstate business have formed an unlawful agreement to fix prices and control the business of selling fire hose to the city of Chicago.

BOY'S EXPERIENCE ON HIS FIRST JOY RIDE

Portage Des Sioux, Mo., April 15.—This peaceful village has been treated to many rare sights in the way of joy riders from St. Louis, a few miles away, but it remained for a 16-year-old boy to give the staid citizens some entirely new thrills. Carl Stein took his father's new red traction engine out for a trial spin yesterday afternoon.

Under a full head of steam the machine charged the main street, skipping and jumping sideways under the inexperienced handling of the amateur chauffeur. All went comparatively well, however, until the village blacksmith shop got in the way. The machine pursued its way through the shop, emerging from the wreckage minus a few trimmings, but otherwise undamaged.

TO STUDY YELLOW FEVER.

San Francisco, April 15.—Major Theodore C. Lyster, medical corps U. S. A., yellow fever expert in the Panama zone, arrived here yesterday on his way to the Philippine islands, where he goes to study the conditions which permit the existence of yellow fever in the islands. Maj. Lyster was the chief assistant to Col. W. C. Gorgas at Ancon, Isthmus of Panama, for the past two years. He will sail for Manila on the transport Sheridan, May 5.

PHILIPPINE CREW TO MAN THE BURNSIDE

Seattle, Wash., April 15.—The United States ship Burnside, now manned by a miscellaneous crew of orientals to receive a Filipino crew of 52 when the army transport Dix arrives with the moon May 10. The policy of the government is to give Filipinos preference in manning its vessels.

DR. D. K. PEARSONS.

Nonegarian Philanthropist Very Happy on His Birthday. Chicago, April 13.—Nobody ever was happier with a birthday wagon or a pair of skates than was Dr. D. K. Pearsons, 90 years old philanthropist, with the birthday gifts that a long stream of messengers deposited at his home yesterday.

The aged philanthropist practically had no relatives to remember his birthday celebration—he has outlived them all—but the colleges and institutions that have been the recipients of his charity for 21 years all remembered him. Where he had given millions he received cake, apples and messages of congratulation, but these gifts brought just as much joy to him as had his money to the object of his generosity.

There is a great box of flowers from members of the faculty of Berea college, a cake from the girls of the same institution, a barrel of apples from some congratulatory, but these gifts brought just as much joy to him as had his money to the object of his generosity.

SUFFRAGISTS HISS PRESIDENT TAFT

He Said He Was Not Fully in Sympathy With the Principles They Advanced.

HE WAS UTTERLY UNMOVED.

Rebuked Them by Saying They Must Exercise a Degree of Restraint By Not Hissing.

Washington, April 14.—The president of the United States, the first executive of the nation ever to greet a convention of woman suffragettes, tonight had the courage to confess his opinion and was hissed.

So great was the throng that sought admission to the hall that hundreds were turned away.

President Taft was welcoming to Washington the delegates to the convention of the National Woman Suffrage association. He told them frankly he was not altogether in sympathy with the suffrage movement, and was explaining why he could not subscribe fully to its principles.

He said he thought one of the dangers in granting suffrage to women was that women, as a whole, were not interested in it and, the ballot, as far as women are concerned, would be controlled by the "less desirable class."

When these words fell from the president's lips the walls of the hall echoed a chorus of feminine hisses. It was no feeble demonstration of protest. The combined hisses sounded as if a valve on a steam engine had broken.

President Taft stood unmoved in the demonstration of hostility—for the hissing continued but a moment—and then, smiling, as he spoke, he answered the unfavorable greeting with this retort: "Now, my dear ladies, you must show yourselves capable of restraint which is necessary in the conduct of government affairs by not hissing."

The women who had hissed were rebuked. The president's reply apparently had taken hold. There were no more hisses while the president continued his address, which he characterized as "my confession" on the woman suffrage question. At the conclusion of his talk he was applauded and some of the leaders of the convention expressed to him their sincere regret over the unpleasant incident.

TAFT A LITTLE DUBIOUS

President Taft assured them his feelings were not injured in the least. "I am not entirely certain," said the president after he had been courteously presented to the convention by Rachel Foster Avery, vice-president of the association, "that I ought to have come here tonight, but your committee assured me I should be welcome even if I did not support all the views which are to be advanced in this convention. But I consider this movement represents a sufficient part of the intelligence of the community to justify my coming, and welcoming you to Washington.

"The difficulty I expect to encounter is this—at least the difficulty which occurs to me as judge of my own feelings when my interest in a campaign is aroused, to wit:

CHEROKEE CLAIM.

Warrants for Payment of It Will Make Big Hole in Treasury Balance.

Washington, April 15.—A big hole in the treasury balance will be made when the officials send out warrants in payment of the Cherokee claim with interest which has been passed by the court of claims. Principal and interest will amount to between $4,000,000 and $5,000,000; payments will be made from day to day, as the clerical work incidental to cancellation of the claim is stupendous.

There are more than 33,000 beneficiaries, 23,000 of whom live west of the Mississippi river. All of them have more or less Indian blood in their veins.
