

WHAT BECAME OF GRAND JURY NOTES?

Disappearance of Those That Got Into Hands of Hyde's Counsel Still a Mystery.

JUDGE LATSCH WROUGHT UP

Would Have Ordered Arrests Had He Known as Much Last Wednesday As He Knows Now.

Kansas City, April 26.—If Judge Ralph Latsch had known last week as much about the disappearance of the grand jury notes which fell into the hands of Dr. Hyde's counsel last Wednesday as he does now, three persons would have been ordered arrested by him.

These two statements he made today. But now that events have transpired as they have, and he was left so long in the dark about the disappearance of the grand jury notes which fell into the hands of Dr. Hyde's counsel last Wednesday as he does now, three persons would have been ordered arrested by him.

"I have told all I know about the case to the prosecutor. He can do what he likes," said the judge.

While the meantime Prosecutor Conkling is still investigating. He has asked the local bar association to help solve the mystery and offer to resign if it is shown that he is in any way to blame for the loss of the papers.

Miss Rode Churchill and Miss Elizabeth Gordon were the only two witnesses before the court during the hearing session. Both went to the Swope house on Dec. 4 and remained during the typhoid epidemic. Their evidence was similar to that of other nurses who have testified.

NURSE GORDON. The state resumed its examination of Miss Elizabeth Gordon, a nurse who worked in the Swope home, at the opening of the Hyde trial today.

Miss Gordon was on the stand about an hour at the close of court yesterday. Her statement that she saw Dr. Hyde use dirty water in giving Mrs. Swope a hypodermic injection came as a surprise to both the state and the defense.

Court was convened promptly at 9 o'clock this morning in keeping with the longer sessions yesterday. Hereafter at least seven and one-half hours of court will be held every day.

The smallest crowd since the trial opened was in the court room this morning. Special Prosecutor Reed first took the witness through a long series of uninteresting questions regarding her charts and then took up the illness of Margaret Swope. Until a few minutes before Miss Swope was seized with a convulsion on Dec. 4, the nurse had been bright and cheerful.

The state attempted to get into evidence the orders that were given by Dr. Taylor regarding the administration of medicine at the house during the typhoid epidemic. Strenuous objection by the defense caused the court to send the jury to its room while the point was argued.

The court held that the testimony should be introduced and Miss Gordon said Dr. Taylor ordered that no more of the medicine then in the house be given to the patient. All of the medicine in the house was destroyed on Dec. 13 and new remedies purchased, testified the witness.

Did Dr. Hyde leave the house on Dec. 13? Miss Gordon replied, "He did," Miss Gordon replied, "How did the patients progress after his departure?" "They got well."

CROSS-EXAMINATION. Mr. Brewster began a cross examination of the witness by directing her to the admission that Margaret Swope and Miss Nora Bell Dickson were ill in the same room.

Miss Gordon had insisted that each patient should have had a separate room. Mr. Brewster called attention to the fact that if this had been done there would have been a room for the patient at the same time in one room. Asked why she did not speak to Dr. Hyde when she saw him using dirty water in making a hypodermic, Miss Gordon said:

"There is an ironbound rule that we shall never criticize the attending physician. I merely looked at Dr. Hyde."

TOM TAGGART FAVORS STATE WIDE PRIMARY

Indianapolis, April 26.—The overwhelming victory won by Thomas Taggart and his friends at the primaries in this county for the selection of delegates to the Democratic state convention which will be held at Indianapolis today to the movement proposed by Taggart for a state wide primary to select a candidate for the United States senate.

Some of the candidates for United States senator proposed the primary election plan on the ground that it would cost about $50,000 and this divided among the candidates, would fall heavily upon a few men.

Many of the candidates for places on the state ticket expressed themselves as opposed to the plan, but they were to have the convention endorse a candidate for the senate, fearing it would cause a fight in the convention that the voters, who the ticket was endorsed at the November election.

ROOSEVELT SEES PEACE DEPUTATION

Called to Express Its Gratitude, His Aims and Theirs Being Identical, "Peace With Justice."

Paris, April 26.—This afternoon at the American embassy Mr. Roosevelt received a deputation from the French parliamentary group for international arbitration headed by Premier Leon Bourgeois and Baron d'Estournelles de Constant.

The baron, who shared last year's Nobel peace prize with M. Bernart of Belgium, expressed to the former president regret that parliament was not in session as the group had planned a great demonstration in his honor. Nevertheless, he said, the group desired to again show its gratitude, many times expressed, for Mr. Roosevelt's decisive interventions in favor of conciliation, justice and international peace.

He continued: "To our gratitude for the past is added our confidence in the benevolent influence which will continue to exert itself in the future.

"This confidence is all the greater because your conception of peace conforms with our own. Peace for you, as for us, is not peace at any price, but justice.

"Our propaganda is a continual fight for the right, despite skeptics who are your enemies and our. We will not stop the good fight so glorious for democracy against the abuse or force, which is the negation of all morality, human dignity, liberty and civilization.

Mr. Roosevelt spent the morning at the military aerostatic park at Meudon, just outside the city, where the army is conducting experiments with dirigible balloons and aeroplanes. As the work has progressed the entrance to the park is rigorously forbidden to the public.

Letting the entrance to the park is regarded as a singular mark of confidence which the French government reposes in the friendship of the former president.

Later in the afternoon Mr. Roosevelt will go to Bay-le-Moulineux where as the guest of the academy of sports, he will witness some aeroplanes flights. Tonight a dinner in his honor will be given at the American embassy by Ambassador and Mrs. Bacon.

Mr. Roosevelt passed the morning in visiting the Luxembourg gallery with Ambassadors Jusserand and Bacon. After inspecting the paintings and sculpture, Mr. Roosevelt was in the Luxembourg gallery, the former president showing special interest in the fountain de Medici by de Brosses. Later they went to the Bois de Boulogne where they had luncheon, the others of the party being Premier Briand, M. Barthou, minister of justice, and the committee.

Mr. Roosevelt also received a delegation from the "Franco-American committee," which is devoted to the development of the mutual interests between the two countries. The members of the delegation were presented to the former president by M. Leroy Rouille and Gabriel Hanotaux, the president of the committee.

"This afternoon President Fallieres presented Mr. Roosevelt with a magnificent tapestry, the design of which is a copy of Gerome's famous painting 'The Countess on a Hippogriff.' The tapestry was made at the celebrated government factory at Beauvais and involved several months of work. JEWELERS SWINDLED OUT OF HALF A MILLION

Providence, R. I., April 26.—Developments up to date indicate that through a great swindle manufacturing jewelers in Rhode Island and other states have been robbed of goods valued at half a million dollars.

The scheme was to buy jewelry throughout the country and ship it to Providence. After that, the reports say, dummy packages were sent from Montgomery, Ala., to Providence, where they were credited as the real shipments of valuable goods and so listed.

As the goods were listed, the dummy packages were listed as lost assets by the firm in bankruptcy proceedings.

The other five were all arrested and convicted, but Leonard, one of them, was pardoned by the president at the request of postoffice inspectors, who found him to be a "yegg."

LAUDANUM PROVES FATAL TO WOMAN

Took Drug to Alleviate Neuralgia And Could Not be Revived.

HER LIFE WAS ONE OF MISERY

Separated From Her Husband, Amelia Davis Worked Herself Almost To Her Death.

Suffering from the agonies of neuralgia, and from nervous physical condition following recovery from an attack of pneumonia, Mrs. Amelia Davis, residing at 617 south First West street, died this morning at 6 o'clock, the attending physicians say from taking an overdose of laudanum.

Two physicians were in attendance upon the woman at the time of her death, one of whom, Dr. C. F. Wilcox, was called at 3 o'clock and arrived at the residence a few minutes afterward. Dr. Wilcox found that the woman was under the influence of a powerful drug, and he was unable to revive her and immediately called upon the city physician for assistance. In answer to his call, Assistant City Physician F. B. Steele went to the home of Mrs. Davis, and the two doctors worked for more than an hour over the unconscious woman, but she did not regain consciousness up till the time of her death.

Mrs. Davis had been living at the First West street place since last September. She had two children, one a daughter, Mildred, aged 7 years, and a little boy, Vance, aged 4. She had boarders and roomers at the house for the support of herself and children, and the occupants of the house affirm that she worked herself almost to death. She had been suffering from the neuralgic attacks for some time and the ravages of pneumonia had played havoc with her strength.

NO UNUSUAL APPEARANCES. She appeared to be in good spirits early in the evening, but apparently an attack of neuralgia later set in and it is supposed that she took some of the contents of a bottle of laudanum found in the drawer of a dresser to relieve the pain, and took an overdose. Only a very little of the medicine was gone from the bottle, however, but the physicians were unable to revive her after being called at 3 a. m.

W. McIntosh, a roofer, first learned of the condition of Mrs. Davis by hearing her heavy breathing. He immediately called for Dr. Wilcox for the support of herself and children, and the occupants of the house affirm that she worked herself almost to death. She had been suffering from the neuralgic attacks for some time and the ravages of pneumonia had played havoc with her strength.

RAWLINS ARRESTED BY U. S. MARSHAL

Released on Bail After Arraignment On Charge of Subornation Of Perjury.

James R. Rawlins of Draper, charged with subornation of perjury in a homestead land entry on lands formerly included in the Uintah Indian reservation, was arrested by United States Marshal James H. Anderson in this city this morning. He was taken before United States Commissioner Baldwin at 2 o'clock this afternoon, where he gave bonds in the sum of $2,000, for his appearance for trial before the United States court.

James R. Rawlins was indicted by the grand jury which recently closed its labors, for subornation of perjury in the homestead entry of Marlan Andrus, who made application to homestead a quarter section of land described as the east half of the southeast quarter and lot 4 of section 19, and the northeast quarter of the northwest quarter of section 36, in township 2 south, range 10 west of the Uintah special range. The entry was made before Charles C. Washburn, clerk of the United States district at Helper, Utah, Washoe county, on July 20, 1907. It is charged in the indictment that Rawlins paid the filing fees for the entry, and induced, suborned and instigated Marlan Andrus to enter the quarter section under the homestead laws of the United States, with the purpose of purchasing the land from Andrus after he should have obtained title, and of using the lands so entered upon for grazing purposes. Commissioner Baldwin fixed the amount of Mr. Rawlins' bail at $2,000.

SENATOR CLAPP ATTACKS RAILWAY BILL

Washington, April 26.—Senator Elkins got the railroad bill under way in the senate today more promptly than usual and half an hour after the body convened Senator Clapp was on the floor pouring hot shot into the measure.

Mr. Clapp said they were told the acceptance of the bill without change would be the test of party loyalty and that it must go through without debate. But notwithstanding this edict some important amendments had been made and the supporters of the bill were compelled to meet debate with debate. So long as the Republican party had responded to the popular demand that leadership should represent the will of the party, it had been said, but when it changed to the opposite plan all prospect of harmony was gone.

Mr. Clapp referred to the leadership in the Democratic party and was interrupted with an inquiry from Mr. Stone as to Republican leadership in the last few years.

Mr. Aldrich sought to reply to this inquiry but Mr. Clapp refused to yield to him. That course on the part of the Minnesota senator provoked the Missouri senator, who remarked that Mr. Clapp could make his own reply.

"The Minnesota senator is among those," he said, "who do not call upon the senate from Rhode Island to answer for him."

ONE OF THREE AMERICANS TO SCORE TRIUMPH IN BERLIN—PREMIERE OF NEVIN'S NEW OPERA.

(Special To The News.) New York, April 26.—The Utah colony in New York was surprised and pleased to read in the cable dispatches in the reports to the Sunday papers here that Emma Lucy Gates, the Utah prima donna, now a member of the Berlin Royal opera, had been one of the three Americans chosen to appear in the cast of "Pola," Nevin's American opera, presented there Saturday. The Times account says all three acquitted themselves with distinct success. The other Americans were Griswold, an American tenor, and Florence Easton McClelland, who appeared with the Savage Grand Opera company in Salt Lake several years ago.

Later cables say the presentation of "Pola" has aroused intense feeling against the Kaiser and the management for this reason, because the Americans and fears are expressed that the work will not run long. It has, however, been chosen by the Kaiser for presentation on the occasion of Roosevelt's visit to Berlin.

Washington, Pa., April 26.—While 20 men dragged the river and possess searched the neighboring country, Lemoyne Moore, 6 years old, hid in the brush 100 feet from his home today and was secreted for five hours. He was trying to escape the census enumerators.

The child had been told how the census enumerators took the boys, and as one of the government officials appeared at the front door of the Moore home this morning, Lemoyne fled from the house. The parents missed the boy and neighbors took the search.

Hours afterward, the boy stole from his hiding-place and pleadingly asked his mother if the "bad census man was gone."

TEMPLE OF PEACE, COMMERCE AND FRIENDSHIP FORMALLY DEDICATED IN WASHINGTON.

CEREMONIES ELABORATE

Architecture of Building Combination Of the Classical and the Spanish—Built of White Marble.

Washington, April 26.—The beautiful new home of the international bureau of the American republics, was today formally dedicated in the presence of a most distinguished company. Just two years ago President Roosevelt laid the corner stone of this building, which has been described by Andrew Carnegie, as a "temple of peace, commerce and friendship," and which Secy. Root has called a "Capitol in the capital of the United States of all the American nations."

The ceremonies on that occasion were most impressive and elaborate and those of today were fully in keeping with them.

The international and local appreciation of the significance of the dedication of this diplomatic palace was abundantly proved by the presence at the ceremonies of participants in the program of the president of the United States, the secretary of state, the Mexican ambassador, Cardinal Gibbons, Senator Elihu Root, Andrew Carnegie, Bishop Harding, Director John Barreter, members of the diplomatic corps, the supreme court and the cabinet, as well as senators and representatives of the national Congress, high army and navy officers, and a long list of distinguished men and women.

THE CELEBRATION. The celebration to which the president referred, as the most important international event which Washington had witnessed in many years, was divided into two parts. In the afternoon the formal ceremonies were attended by the formal dedication, which impressive speeches were made by eminent officials and individuals. The ceremony was initiated by an invocation by Cardinal Gibbons, which was followed by Secy. Knox, who delivered the formal opening address, in his capacity of chairman of the governing board of the international bureau of American republics. Director John Barreter made a statement descriptive of the building and the work of the bureau, while Albert Kelsey, of the Philadelphia firm of Kelsey and Gray, who designed the beautiful structure of its architectural features.

Senator Root, who was secretary of state when Mr. Carnegie conceived the project of erecting this building, delivered an address, which was responded to by Senor Don Francisco Leon de Barra, the Mexican ambassador, in behalf of the Latin American diplomatic corps. Mr. Carnegie delivered a characteristic address. There were readings of cable messages from the presidents of the world, and the president congratulating Mr. Carnegie and the bureau of American republics upon the completion of the great work and then a speech of about half an hour in length.

"PEACE TREE" PLANTED. Just preceding the benediction by Bishop Harding, the president concluded the afternoon exercises by reading one of the most unique and interesting features of the program, when President Taft and Mr. Carnegie jointly received a "Peace Tree" in the patio, or court yard.

Toward the governing board of the bureau and the director will give a reception in honor of Mr. Root, Carnegie, which will be attended by the President, the diplomatic corps, and officers of the army and navy in full uniform. Altogether it is expected to be one of the most brilliant functions of the social season. The music will be provided by the marine band.

The new home of the bureau represents the expenditure of $1,000,000, which sum Mr. Carnegie contributed $500,000 and 21 American republics the remainder. It is described by the best critics of architecture and construction as one of the most striking official buildings in the world. Its style of exterior and its arrangement of interior are entirely different from the conventional architecture of Washington, and yet it is adapted to its environment. The architecture of the most commanding sites of the capital overlooking the Potomac park and river, facing the open grounds below the White House, and near the Washington monument, is a combination of the classical and Spanish, and it is built entirely of white marble.

A notable feature of the building is the handsome assembly room known as "The Hall of the Republics," which is regarded as the first large room of its kind in Washington suited by its elegance and dignity for international conferences, diplomatic functions and receptions to distinguished foreigners.

DRINKING RELATIONS OF BANKER MORSE & HEINZE

Figured Prominently in Proceedings At Outset of Trial of Latter on Charges of Misappropiation.

New York, April 26.—The banking relations of Charles W. Morse and F. Augustus Heinze figured in the proceedings at the outset of Heinze's trial here today in the United States circuit court on charges of misappropiation of funds of the Mercantile National bank and over-issuance of checks drawn upon it. Heinze was president of the bank in 1907, when the transactions complained of took place.

Seven counts in the indictments against Heinze were quashed yesterday by Judge Hough, but 25 were left on which to try him and the government attorneys expressed their readiness to proceed.

In the choice of jurymen John H. Stanchfield, counsel for Heinze, had many interesting and suggestive questions to ask. One of these was if the witnesses would be prejudiced against Heinze because Charles W. Morse was chairman of the executive committee of the Mercantile National bank during the period covered by the indictments against Heinze.

Morse is now serving a prison term on conviction of violations of the banking laws.

Those who have opposed his policies have little to say other than to express their gratification at his appointment which will remove him from the field of active politics. All agree, however, that the governor's services in behalf of the Republican party will be greatly missed in the coming campaign.
