JOHNSON TAKES ON ANOTHER MANAGER

Negro's Business Methods Keep the Fight Guessing All The Time.

San Francisco, June 8.—In view of what has happened to George Little and Billy Nolan, the fans are asking if Jack Johnson's latest managerial move will prove to be a case of "on again, off again, Flanagan."

According to last night's announcement of the negro champion, Tom Flanagan, the athlete who has come into prominence as the developer of long distance runners, and who is in charge of Johnson's road work, will be a sort of near-manager for the fighter.

Nolan takes Johnson's announcement regarding Flanagan quite coolly. "I do not wish to make terms for anybody," he remarked, "and I am not so egotistical as to imagine that a fighter like Johnson cannot get along without me."
