

DEFINITE AIMS OF TARIFF COMMISSION

Board Should be Made Permanent and Absolutely Free From Partisan Influence.

HAS APPROVAL OF PRESIDENT

Work of Investigating Industrial Effects of Tariff Divided Into Three Main Parts.

Chicago, Dec. 3.—Henry C. Emery of the tariff commission tonight gave the first official utterance regarding the definite aims of that body, in an address made before members of the Chicago Association of Commerce, following a banquet at the Congress hotel.

He made a strong plea for a permanent tariff board, or commission, free from partisan influence, to conduct an extended investigation into the industrial effects of the tariff, and then to revise the various schedules without partisan interference.

Chairman Emery's address was the first official utterance of the definite aims of the tariff board and the methods it intends to employ. It can be assumed that he spoke for and with the approval of President Taft. He made a clear, strong plea for a permanent tariff board or commission, free from partisan influence, to conduct an extended investigation into the industrial effects of the tariff, and then to revise the various schedules without partisan interference.

WORK OF INVESTIGATION

The main work of investigating the industrial effects of our tariff had been divided into three main parts, he said, requiring three sets of investigators of different types. The first part is the collection of facts regarding each dutiable article, showing the character and localization of its production at home and abroad, statistics of output, imports and exports, rates of duty received to ad valorem terms and the like.

The second part of the work is the collection of data regarding costs of products at the mill.

The third consists of obtaining information from the best experts available regarding home and foreign prices, local variations in each industry, and the general conditions of competition at home and abroad.

The speaker mentioned the different groups of investigators in each field and referred to the fact that experts on cost accounts would in a few weeks have the actual conversion costs at the mill, and the pulp and paper plant in the country, taken directly from the books, and would

MUCH MISUNDERSTANDING. "There has been," said Mr. Emery, "much misunderstanding about hearings before the board, and many manufacturers have wondered how we can be investigating their schedules without consulting them. The answer is that we consider it waste of time for all parties concerned to have them appear before us in formal hearings till we have first made a thorough study of the industry, and know just what we are after. When this has been done, we shall invite the testimony of all interested parties. We shall give our results openly on the table for any one to criticize, amend or disprove."

"You can appreciate the necessity we are under of concentrating our efforts at first on a few main lines," said Mr. Emery. "Naturally every one who has some personal grievance thinks his particular schedule is the one that needs immediate revision, while we have had a vast amount of earnest and public spirited, but utterly conflicting advice as to what we ought to take up first, and exactly when we ought to have the work completed."

"Whether wisely or unwisely, we decide to begin with the schedule on schedule M (pulp and paper), schedule K (wool and woolsens) and schedule G (farm products). Preliminary work has been done on schedule A (chemicals), schedule C (metals and manufacturers of) and schedule I (cotton). And the more detailed work on these first three schedules is possible."

"Furthermore, we are obtaining many special reports from technical experts both at home and abroad, concerning the various schedules, other schedules, which will later form the basis for more detailed investigations. At the moment, besides the members of the board, we have an administrative force, we have four chiefs of investigation, eight trained investigators employed on the first part of the work, and about an equal number of clerks to assist them, about a dozen consulting or technical experts devoting part of their time to the third part of the work, reports on special topics, and twelve men in the field, getting actual cost figures from the books of individual purchasers."

INFLUENCE OF TARIFFS. "The speaker then urged strongly the necessity for maintaining a ratio of proportion regarding the influence, whether for good or evil, of tariffs and of tariff investigations."

"Just as there are some who give practically all the credit for prosperity to the tariff, and others who think the tariff the cause of most misfortune, there are those who think an impartial investigation of the tariff is a menace to all business, and others who think that such an investigation will, by some magic process, at once make every man's income adequate for his expenditure and solve the axelong problem of making both ends meet."

"Many economic theorists have attempted to find the philosopher's stone by means of which prices could be made high for those who wish them, and low to all who wish them low. It would be a fine thing if the farmers could always get $2 a bushel for his wheat, and the manufacturer could pay only $1 a barrel for his flour. Many people are inclined to hold a government responsible which does not accomplish the things which it is supposed to do, and the work of any government agency is greatly hampered by the absence of a sane understanding of what it can, and cannot do."

Mr. Emery showed the difference between European and American methods of tariff making, and pointed out that the reason why such elaborate investigations had not been necessary abroad was because in those countries there were bodies of government officials, of a high character, who have devoted themselves solely to the study of these questions for a quarter of a century."

QUESTION OF BUSINESS.

"The tariff question is one of business and not of mathematics," said Mr. Emery. "The problem of how far an industry needs protection to keep it in sound existence, or what the effect of its decay would be, cannot be settled by a single figure. None the less, such material, when digested by impartial men of common sense, who know the conditions of competition in each industry, and checked by the knowledge of those who have followed an industry for a lifetime, will furnish a body of knowledge on which tariffs can be placed with confidence, and the full confidence of fair-minded men."

Mr. Emery spoke of the great difficulties involved, especially in getting accurate cost figures, and pointed out the fact that in many lines the manufacturer has not himself been able to figure out his own costs accurately, and also in view of the fact that figures of relative cost were not in themselves an adequate basis for tariff judgments. He frankly admitted that in the case of some of the industries, either possible or unnecessary to attempt such calculations.

Discussing the existing powers of the tariff board to secure information, Mr. Emery stated it to be the opinion of the board that for an investigation of this character, coercive powers to call for books and examine them under oath were by no means essential.

TESTIMONY UNDER COERCION.

"Testimony given under coercion," he said, "is the likeliest to be untruthful and half-hearted. In most cases more complete and illuminating information can be secured by different methods. The officials of European governments who have accomplished most in these lines have no such powers, and do not ask them. Up to date, however, the board has no reason to doubt that they can secure the necessary information by present methods. After all, if the principle is once firmly established, that protection, however necessary, is a favor, and that the burden of proof is on the manufacturer to show cause why it is granted, the question of powers becomes relatively unimportant."

On the question as to what use would be made of such findings, Mr. Emery said that, whether the board should report to the president or to Congress, the influence of its investigation into facts would come from the influence of unbiased and unexpressed truth to make itself effective.

"Those who are skeptical of this result," he said, "forget that where certain interests are concerned to suppress the truth, other interests, whether from business or political motives, will be equally eager to give it the widest publicity. The trouble in the past has been that the facts have not been available. Once it is known that they can be secured, they are more likely to have their effect on public opinion, and public policy. This, however, is absolutely dependent on the continuance of such impartial studies year in and year out."

Chairman Emery concluded by summarizing the various different attitudes toward tariff revision, and protested against the stunts taken by those who denounce Congress for revising the tariff in five months and yet demand that a tariff board should be ready to report on revision in the same length of time.

AN UNFAIR DEMAND.

"It is both inconsistent and unfair," he said, "to demand that the tariff be revised on the basis of an hurried and scientific investigation of the facts, and yet be revised with impulsive haste as a political expedient. The two demands are irreconcilable and you must choose between them. So far as we are concerned, it does not matter which of the people prefer. The president has given us our task to find out the facts, and we shall not depart from our resolve to refuse to substitute for such facts half-formed guesses or opinions under orders or pressure from any man, any interest, or any popular clamor."

CARDINAL GIBBONS PRAISES CHURCH UNITY SENTIMENT

Baltimore, Dec. 4.—In his sermon at the cathedral this morning, Cardinal Gibbons praised the sentiment favorable to church unity expressed at the triennial convention of the Protestant Episcopal church held in Cincinnati.

"At that convention the members adopted a resolution making for the unity and redemption of all Christians. My brethren, we praise the members of the church for their action, because they reflect honor on their heads and hearts, and I join with them in praying that the day may be hastened when Christ's words that there shall be one fold and one shepherd shall be fulfilled."

"Unity of faith is a most splendid evidence of the unity of Christ, our Saviour, and we should have unity of faith so that all may be bound together by the one tie of faith and love, however different be the forms of faith, however diverse be the modes of worship."

"There cannot be unity of faith, however diverse be the modes of worship, unless there be more than one church or if there is to be more than one head."

"Our Lord and Saviour, Jesus Christ, never intended that there should be many churches because he said, 'I will always stand in speaking of the church, one shepherd and one God. I will have perfect church unity and harmony, which shall be bound by the same tie of faith, and shall be ruled by one shepherd, should fly from any false prophets as the sheep fly from the wolf's den.'"

"My dear brethren, common sense alone, without divine revelation, ought to impress upon us the absolute necessity of unity of faith. This unity can be found only in the Holy Roman Catholic and Apostolic church, of which the pope of Rome, the representative of Christ, is the head."

Denver, Dec. 4.—Walter Archer, a 17-year-old aviator, fell 700 feet in an aeroplane of his own invention, yesterday, at Salida, Colo., and a report received here today, and was instantly killed. Nearly every bone in his body was broken. Archer's machine was driven by electricity, and was on the Salida Power company's plant. A coil of wire 700 feet long, connected the power plant with the aeroplane and Archer when he made his ascent, intended to maneuver within the radius of the wire. He ventured a glide too high and the wires snapped, leaving him without power to operate his propellers. Archer had constructed his

STORIES OF SUCCESS H. B. CLAFLIN

"My goods, and not my principles, are for sale," was the business motto of the great New York merchant, Horace B. Claflin. All through life, from the day when as a boy he left his father's little store at Milford, Mass., until he was recognized as one of America, this man kept the motto of his convictions. Twenty years after his first venture in mercantile business reached the enormous annual total of thirteen millions, watchword was—"Look out for your future," and the time of his demise the New York Chamber of Commerce paid a glowing tribute to his character. His watchword was—"Look out for your future," and to this day no motto is more significant to the young man who wants to get ahead.

ARCHER'S GRAVE

Salida, Colo., Dec. 5.—Beneath the rocks upon which he fell in the 200-foot plunge in his "home-made" aeroplane Saturday, the body of Walter Archer, the 17-year-old boy inventor, was buried by a party of men yesterday, and on the grave they burned what was left of the wrecked machine.

The burial of the lad at the spot where his fate was met in accordance with his own wishes, expressed to his mother a few days before the accident when hinting of a surprise he had in store for her.

"Just you wait, mother," Mrs. Archer says she told her, "and I'll give you a great surprise. But if anything should happen to me, I don't want you to make haste to bury me. I want you to wait with my own wishes, expressed to his mother a few days before the accident when hinting of a surprise he had in store for her."

PUBLIC PROTECTION FOR DARING PROSPECTORS

Los Angeles, Cal., Dec. 4.—Because more than a score of skeletons, scattered along one of the trails, covered as a grim signpost of danger and warning of the fate of the desert regions of California and Nevada, George W. Parsons, a California prospector, has been agitating the need of public protection for the daring prospectors and travelers who venture in these waste places.

This work has now taken concrete form in an effort on the part of the Los Angeles chamber of commerce to secure enactment of a bill which would be expended under the direction of the secretary of the Interior, to dig up, and fill with developing springs and water holes and for the erection of durable monuments to mark the desert trails.

It is intended to cover the general area of the desert and arid lands of the United States, informing travelers as to the location and character of the various trails, and the state of California already has appropriated $200 for this work and more than 20 iron surveying staffs, with leveling arms, have been erected within its borders. The proposition embodied in a bill which California congressmen will be asked to introduce.

CHINA WILL EXPAND HER ARMY AND NAVY

Peking, Dec. 4.—An important step has just been taken by China to expand and increase the efficiency of the army and navy. The three latest issues of the Chinese military journal, which, up to the present, has consisted merely of a tentative board for the conduct of naval affairs, have been issued.

Prince Tsai Hsun, uncle of the emperor, will preside over an extensive visit to the United States, has been appointed president of the new department of naval affairs, and the reorganization of the navy have been approved.

The general staff of the army will be reorganized along modern lines, as proposed by Gen. Yin Tschang, who formerly was minister to Germany, and now is president of the war department. The new staff will be composed of making the army and navy effective and, with this in mind, dismisses military officers of the old school, with a pension.

The most advanced Chinese, both private and official, have been pointing out that the alliance between the United States and Germany, which the United States could not be attained unless China was able to show her share of the common forces.
