SERMON BY REV. SHORT.

Personality of Christ Subject of Sunday Morning Talk.

In his Sunday morning sermon, at the First Methodist church, Rev. F. B. Short said:

"What manner of man is Christ? He shows an unusual personality. He rises far above the morals of earth. He controls and directs, and to him the multitudes have flocked for help and security. His personality has charmed the ignorant. The manner of his life is more and more becoming the center about which the hearts of the world gather for rest and peace.

"What manner of man is this? This query might be answered in the light of the controversies that have taken place, for let it be remembered that the greatest minds of history have been dominated by the personality of Christ. He was human; he ate, slept, sympathized, wept and died. "He was something more than human. His thoughts were more profound than human thoughts. His actions and manners beyond the limitation of human actions. He was divine. He did what men have not done. He healed, restored and raised the dead."

REV. GOSHEN'S SERMON.

Says He Knew Personally of Suffering When Coal Was High.

In his Christmas sermon Rev. E. I. Goshen of the First Congregational church stated that he knew personally of a number of poor families who were forced to huddle together with only a few smoldering coals to warm them during the time that the price of coal was put up 50 cents per ton. In the course of further remarks, the speaker said the next big move will be an industrial one, and the result will be the decision of whether this earth belongs to the few or the many. Abolition of child labor, supplanting of grafting politicians by good Christian citizens, who would work for the interest of the people and not their own, will come in teh future, according to the speaker's belief.

ALL OBSERVED THE DAY.

Hotels and Clubs Provide Special Service for Guests.

Few were forgotten in the celebration of Christmas in Salt Lake City. The day was cold but clear, and everyone seemed to be happy. Hundreds attended the special services held at the churches and the celebration of the day in private homes was more general than ever before.

Dinners were served at most of the clubs of the city and all day the spacious well appointed apartments of the Commercial club were thronged with members. Over 100 ate dinner there in the evening.

Special dinners were given at the Moxum, the Wilson, the Cullen, the Knutsford and the Kenyon hotels. A. Fred Wey of the Wilson made presents to each guest.

Views of the State Press on the Christmas News.

We received the Christmas number of The Deseret News last Sunday, and looking it over we find that it is fully up to the standard set by that paper in the past. The number should be sent broadcast over the United States as one of the very best advertisements of the state ever put out.—Salina Call.

The Deseret News has issued its usual mammoth Christmas edition. It consists of several sections of over 100 pages. It is full of interesting matter pertaining to Utah and the west, and is well worth the price asked for it. The News, as is usual, have made good and produced a special edition of the paper which will be hard for any other newspaper to beat.—Iron County Record.

The Christmas edition of The Deseret News is a splendid piece of work. It is profusely illustrated with good cuts, is well printed, and it deals extensively with the important industries of the state and the chief places of interest. It is very interesting reading all through, and a credit to Utah.—Washington County News.

The Christmas News is a sure winner. Its 104 pages are full of interesting and instructive matter pertaining to Utah. The artistic and typographic features are particularly fine and the various articles are —aphically arrayed and written. It is an excellent number to send to friends outside the state. No better advertising matter could be selected.—Springville Independent.

As is customary with The Deseret Evening News, a special issue came out just one week prior to Christmas. The issue this year seems to us better than ever before. There is an extensive write-up on the various communities and a review of the farming and mining situation that gives one a very accurate idea of the progress being made in this state.

In its annual edition The News does a real service to the people of the state in keeping them in touch with the actual conditions and the opportunities offered along various lines. The illustrations and halftones are up to their usual standard and, as is well known, this standard is much higher than that reached by any other paper in the intermountain region.

There are a number of special articles on the agricultural and live stock conditions in the state, all of which should be filed for future reference. We extend our congratulations to The News on the excellence of The Christmas News.—Deseret Farmer.

The Deseret Evening News has again presented a newspaper triumph in the way of its annual Christmas number, and this year the edition surpasses anything yet produced in the newspaper line in this state. In going over the many industrial sections it is hard to find a single industry, large or small, that is not represented therein, and the whole is so well finished from cover to cover that it should undoubtedly prove one of the greatest advertising mediums ever gotten out in the state.

The picturesque views showing so many rural scenes throughout the state are of so much interest that thousands of people will file these copies away to produce in coming years as remembrances of former times. The Post extends its congratulations to The News for its excellent work, and incidentally advises the patrons of this paper to secure a copy for reference on Utah's industries.—Provo Post.

REV. SIMPKIN'S TALK.

Pastor of Phillips Congregational Church Preaches on "Angels' Song."

Rev. P. A. Simpkin of Phillips Congregational church, preached on the "Angels' Song" Sunday morning. He said in part:

"As we carol this morning, 'While shepherds watched their flocks by night,' we are a very tiny part of a vast multitude that have sung it in gladness of heart. Under the cold skies of the far north and the soft and balmy arch of southern climes, on tossing steamers and in stately churches, folk of all climes and tongues, in almost every square of latitude and longitude of the habited globe have been singing of the angels' song. Love and song, joy and peace are in the earth, the common possession today because of the great and blessed fact that fills the song we remember.

"For all the world has come to sit about that fire and listen to the song the shepherds heard in the night-watch by the fold. It is a song that echoes ever in the world's sky, and in its sweetness one finds power to glimpse the angel-choir that glowed in the night sky so far away. The tired children of men are turning ever more eagerly, as they rest by life's road, to the Christmas song and story and hope.

"Verily the angels' song is still a living message, still calls God to us as he did the shepherds the greatest of truths, a Savior born. And he will be in us, through us, present Savior to men. For know well, that only as in peace and good will, in the drive of the unselfishness that forgets all narrow interest of our own hearts and lives we give ourselves as did God in the Christ-child, can we have part or power in the making of the world's christmas."

THINK THEY HAVE GOT THE BURGLARS

Gang of Six Men Arrested Saturday Night While Looting Store.

ONE MAN MAKES HIS ESCAPE

Meats and Groceries in Varied Assortment Found in Rooms—Officers Discover Cache.

Six men supposed to be the perpetrators of the numerous grocery store burglaries that have been committed during the last month, were arrested at midnight Sunday while in the act of looting the store of Lyon & Richardson, 357-9 south West Temple street. One member of the gang escaped by leaping from the porch of the second floor of the building. Additional members of the gang are supposed to be in the jail charged with vagrancy, as the men who are under arrest are recognized as the persons who had asked to see them earlier in the afternoon.

Residents in the neighborhood were attracted by the movements of the men and telephoned the police that the store was being burglarized and the plunder carried into an old adobe house at 317 south West Temple street. Patrolmen Duvander, Wise, Giles and Eckstead made a hurried run to the scene in the police auto. Patrolman Duvander knocked at the door while the others surrounded the house.

He found one man ascending the stairs with a box of groceries and ordered him to halt. The man leaped upstairs to warn his companions and Duvander closely pursued him. In an upstairs room he found the four other men whom he covered with a gun until the arrival of the other policemen.

CONTENTS OF CACHE.

A varied assortment of groceries consisting of canned meats, figs, condensed milk, crackers, and similar articles was found in the rooms. Small cans of condensed milk were also found on the persons of some of the men. Among the other articles in the room were two skilfully made pass keys and a new suit of clothes. The groceries were taken to the police station to be used as evidence.

The five men will be charged with burglary. They gave their names as Frank Coltman, 32 years, cement worker; Frank Egan, 30, plumber; William Barry, 30, miner; James Morris, 24, brickmason; Frank Stewart, 29, concrete worker. Ed Connoley, believed to be the sixth member of the gang, was arrested an hour later in an adjoining room in the same house.

POLICE CONFIDENT.

Lieut. R. L. Shannon said this morning, "We believe we have the men who are responsible for many of the grocery store robberies which have happened lately. The gang has operated extensively in the city and we hope to show that they are responsible for a number of serious crimes. We are still investigating and expect to have some strong evidence on which to convict them."

D. C. Richardson of the firm of Lyon and Richardson was at the police station this morning and identified some of the plunder which was found in the possession of the gang as articles that were missing from his store. This will assist materially in the prosecution.

LUMBER OFFICE LOOTED.

The office of Noall Bros and the Armstrong Lumber company at 157 west North Temple street was burglarized at an early hour Sunday morning which makes the second time this office has been entered in the last two weeks. Entrance was gained through a plate glass door which was smashed by the robbers. The loot consisted of $2 in cash and $40 in checks payable to the firm. The company will order payment stopped on the checks.

A private safe may be rented in the fire and burglar-proof vaults of the Salt Lake Security & Trust Co., 32-34 Main street, $2.00 per year.

USE AERIAL TRAMWAY.

An aerial tramway, 900 feet long, has been erected in the north yards of the Oregon Short Line by the Langton Lime and Cement company. It elevates the fuel for burning the lime a height of 200 feet from the cars to the kiln and in turn carries the lime down to the cars.

The tramway is a sort of trestle work operated by means of electricity with a wire cable and steel buckets to carry the fuel and lime. The capacity of the carrier is two railway cars of forty tons each daily. The lime from the kiln is shipped to Idaho, Wyoming and Utah points.

SLASHED BY A COUNTRYMAN.

Joe Harada, Japanese Laborer, Receives Slight Wounds.

Joe Harada, a Jap laborer, was slashed five times with a knife by a fellow countryman who made his escape, in a noodle house at 55 Plum alley about 9 o'clock Sunday night. Neither the victim nor the crowd of Japs who collected during the excitement, would give the police a description of the assailant or offer any information on the cause of the attack.

Harada was taken to the city emergency hospital where his wounds were dressed. He was later removed to St. Mark's hospital where it was reported this morning that the wounds were slight and not of a serious nature.

NOTED ARTIST HERE.

One of the most capable miniature artists in the world, Mrs. G. M. Devenport of Denver, is registered at the New Grand hotel, where she will remain the greater part of the week. Mrs. Davenport is on her way to California but will visit here some friends whom she met in Europe. Entering upon a thorough study of miniature art when she was a girl, Mrs. Davenport pursued her endeavors under many famous masters of Europe. Returning to the states, she engaged in the art actively, and for some of her prices in ivory and porcelain, which have not been larger than a quarter, has received upward of $1,000. Some of Mrs. Davenport's miniatures are at present in the art collection of J. Pierpont Morgan.

DEATH OF J. H. RIVES.

Leakage of the Heart Claims Him After Long Illness.

Joseph H. Rives, aged 61, died Sunday morning at the family residence, 414 Sixth East street of leakage of the heart, after an illness of more than a year. The deceased was the brother of Ben S. Rives, city recorder. A widow, but no children, survives him. No arrangements have been made for the funeral as some of the brothers have yet to be heard from.

Mr. Rives was born in Franklin county, Virginia, in 1849, coming to Utah in 1890, since which time he has been prominently connected with mining ventures in this and the surrounding states. The brothers of the deceased are Ben S. Rives of this city, R. T. Rives of Caliente, Nev., C. E. Rives of Los Angeles, and W. T. Rives of Montrose, Cal.

BRITISH SOCIETY TO MEET.

To Include Music and Drama in Its Work.

With the intention of forming a dramatic and musical club, the British Fraternal society of this city will meet Wednesday evening at 222 south West Temple street. A local musician of recognized ability has signified his willingness to act as director. All Britishers interested in this sort of work are invited to attend the meeting. The first meeting of the new year of the society will be held Thursday, Jan. 12, in room 230, old Commercial club building, and will be in the form of a "house warming" to inaugurate the new club rooms. The committee requests that all members be present on this date so that the new year may be started off with a boost.

DEATH OF MRS. STOBBART.

Mrs. Elizabeth Stobbart, a resident of this city for the last 23 years, died at the home of her daughter, Mrs. E. Stoker, 456 south State street yesterday from an attack of pneumonia contracted about a week ago. Mrs. Stobbart is a native of Scotland and was 79 years old at the time of her death. She is survived by three daughters, Mrs. Isabelle Mathews, Mrs. E. Stoker and Miss Mary Stobbart, all residents of this city. The funeral will be held Wednesday morning at 11 o'clock from the Eighth ward meetinghouse.

CHRISTMAS MUSIC.

Special Programs Presented in Various Churches Successful.

The special Christmas music was successfully given Sunday in the tabernacle, city churches and ward meetinghouses, as advertised in Saturday's News. Crowds of worshipers filled the auditoriums, inspiring the musicians and singers to do their best, and they did. The unusually impressive programs in the ritualistic churches were much enjoyed, and the presentation of the fine cantata in the First Presbyterian church occasioned much favorable comment. The First Methodist choir gave an especially excellent program backed by the artistic work of Mrs. Strohauer at the organ, and the Immanuel Baptist choir, with a special quartet composed of Mrs. E. B. Jones, Mrs. A. R. McNitt, J. T. Hand and A. R. McNitt, with Mrs. Chapman at the organ, presented some of the best work ever done in that church. There was a tableau of the "Nativity" at the Third Presbyterian church in the evening, that was very effective. The presentation of parts of the "Messiah" oratorio at the First Congregational church was deeply impressive and given with an artistic spirit and finish that was well worthy of the crowded audience that listened.

FOOD FOR THE NEEDY.

Volunteers of America and Salvation Army Still Busy.

The Christmas observance of the Volunteers of America and the Salvation Army was not confined to yesterday but it continued all last week and will be prolonged to New Year's day. Both organizations devoted their services yesterday to worship significant of the day.

The Volunteers have arranged a "watch party" for next Saturday night at the new quarters, 117 east First South street. The guests will be 200 poor children. Following an appropriate program, there will be a distribution of clothing and other suitable gifts from a Christmas tree. During the week, the Volunteers supplied 300 poor families with provisions for their Christmas dinners.

The principal feature of the Salvation army observance takes place late this afternoon at the First Methodist church. Nearly 300 poor children have been invited to a big Christmas tree, after which there will be a distribution of presents for the needy ones.

ENDURED TORTURE FOR TRUTH'S SAKE

Common Life of Savior Perpetuated His Teachings Throughout the Ages.

ADDRESS BY ELDER YOUNG

No Interpretation of Christianity So Broad and True as That of Mormon Church.

Despite the complaints of the people of Nazareth that Jesus Christ, by living as a common man, cheapened religion, it was this feature of his life which has perpetuated the teachings of the Redeemer throughout the ages, declared Levi Edgar Young in his address at the Thirty-third ward chapel Sunday evening.

Mr. Young's theme was taken from Stephen Phillips' "Marpissa." This is a story of a woman who went to death as a matter of choice, to gain the experience and the life on the other side of the veil. The self apparent simile with the life of Christ was more clearly illuminated by the speaker, who pointed to the misery and torture endured by the Master to convince his children that his word was truth. In part Mr. Young said:

"Jesus Christ lived as a common man to impress upon the minds of the people of the world the value and true place of the common man. He came into the world to bring about not only the redemption of man, but to show him how to conduct himself in his daily life. Herein is where Jesus was a teacher of the practical life. His own people at Nazareth said that he cheapened religion for this reason. It is the same criticism that people today make in passing judgment on the truth of Christ's message. But the one great thing that makes Christ the Redeemer of the world in very deed is the fact that he actually proclaimed a great religious and ethical ideal upon which he would have men organize all life. And here I might add we must thank the Jews for Christ. The Jew thought in concrete things and not in abstractions, and it took a Jewish mind to give us the real fundamentals of Christianity. The interpretation of Jesus by Paul is not always true. Paul was a metaphysician, who had been reared in the schools of the Hellenic people. He was not the utilitarian man; he was a dreamer and idealist. I have always doubted Paul's real understanding of the message of Jesus for this reason. The whole tone of the teachings of Jesus was to touch the heart of the man of common affairs, and to build him up. Some would have called him materialistic; some did designate him as an impostor because he would not become one with his times.

"As to Christianity today, it is about the same. There is a pseudo-Christianity, a sort of adaptation of Christ to the needs of the time, but Christ and his absolute teachings have little part in the ethical and religious teachings of today. In fact, we have lost the fundamentals of the original gospel, and each man becomes his own creator as a religion. There is sincerity, it is true, but there is a failure on the part of the world to grasp the real significance of what Jesus taught.

EDUCATION AND WORK.

"There is no interpretation of Christianity so broad and so true as the interpretation of it by the Mormon Church. It makes Christ a real character, and not a Docetic man. We take Christianity in theory at least and adapt it to the common man. We ask, 'What is it that is going to lift the masses?' and we answer by giving every man, woman and child of the masses two things, education in its highest sense, and work. Every one becomes a worker, every one becomes his own spiritual priest. As Jesus recognized the divinity in man, so Mormonism creates an ideal for the world which says that the soul of man is infinite in power and understanding, and the soul may rise and will rise to its greatest development and wisdom. Of course, not in this life, but it will go on to perfection throughout all the ages of eternity.

"We are in an age of great learning. All men are possessed of light and truth as they seek for them. The whole world is becoming better, and as in the past, so now, great intellects are leading us to greater heights, and giving us a finer and broader outlook on life. The world is full of prophets. We have just lost our Tolstoi. I say ours, because he belongs to the world of thought, and not to Russia alone. He has opened up a new line of thought. We still have our scientists and philosophers, all striving for truth. We will always have them.

"But there are practical questions for us as Latter-day Saints. What are we doing to really develop our intellects, our soul power? Are we striving each day for the higher life, the higher soul? Are we making our lives broad and true? Do we live up to our sacred word to our fellow man? We must be able to answer yes, because we pose to be Saints of the Most High. We really show that we believe Christ, if we live him, and think him, and develop within us through work and study the great intellects that God has blessed us with. We are Saints, if we are recognizing the fact that other people are living besides ourselves, and may be far more intelligent, far greater souls."

PRATT'S NEW HENNERY.

Warden at State Prison Shows His Admiring Friends a Novelty.

Warden Pratt is showing visiting friends a new hen coop at the prison, in which he takes a justifiable pride. It is specially arranged with a view to ventilation, to maintain as much as possible an even temperature. There is a feeding trough along one side, divided into bins for different varieties of grain and feed, oyster shells and gravel, with a water trough on the other. These troughs being of a suitable height from the floor to accommodate the fowl. Roosting sticks are inserted each evening, to be removed and cleaned each morning. The flooring is covered with clean straw. There is a series of nests arranged for the hens which shut themselves in automatically on entering, and are released when their cackling attracts the attention of the keeper. Warden Pratt considers this about as complete a hennery as he ever saw.

TO OPEN BIG RINK.

Alps Amusement Company to Put in Unique Resort.

The Alps Amusement company, which originally contemplated operating on the Eighteenth ward square, but abandoned that place out of deference to the property owners, will next Wednesday open up a rink at Eighth South and Main street. The new location contains five acres, and work has already commenced upon the preparation of the foundation surface for the ice.

The "Thriller" will be built as originally designed, and it is claimed that it will be possible to coast a block and a half without the least effort on the part of the skaters.

The final details of the organization were completed Saturday and the following officers elected: President, Alfred Best; vice president, C. F. Wilcox; secretary and treasurer, Albert S. Horne. These, with Albert McClellan and John D. Giles, form the board of directors. John D. Giles will be managing director, at least until the project is upon a smooth-running basis. The articles of incorporation will be filed this week. There will be 5,000 shares of stock at a par value of $1 per share. Of the total, 1,500 shares have been set aside as treasury stock.

JOY AT ORPHANS' HOME.

At the Orphans' Home and Day Nursery, a most enjoyable Christmas was spent by the numerous children. Still excited over their presents, which they received on Saturday, the youngsters gathered at dinner Sunday, with eyes sparkling with happiness. During the evening the children gathered in the big assembly room and listened to a phonograph concert.

POOR FAMILIES GIVEN CHEER.

Over 325 poor families in Salt Lake City were provided delicious fruits and groceries by the Volunteers of America on Saturday. A steady stream of mothers flowed into the dispensing headquarters at 51 east First South street Saturday in response to post cards. Many of the children brought along shouted for joy at the sight of the good things they were to share.

BRIGHAM CITY.

BOXELDER BEET GROWERS IN ORGANIZATION

(Special Correspondence.)

Brigham City, Dec. 25.—A mass meeting of the farmers of Boxelder county was held in this city yesterday to effect an organization, the main object of which will be the handling of the sugar beet question. The officers elected are as follows: President, John P. Holmgren of Bear River City; vice president, John F. Merrill of Brigham City; secretary, Joseph May, Calls Fort; treasurer, S. N. Cole.

The meeting decided to ask for a price of $5 per ton for sugar beets in future, and to also request better loading facilities and other improvements of a similar nature from the sugar and railway companies. The farmers voted to cut down the acreage of sugar beets one-quarter next year, if their demands are not complied with, to reduce further the next season, and to cease production after three years in case of non-compliance on the part of the companies.

At the sugar office in this city it was stated today that only the farmers on the west side of Bear river, and north of Brigham City, grew beets for the Garland factory owned by the Utah Idaho Sugar Co., and they had already been conceded $5 a ton for beets next year, provided the acreage were increased and the beets went 15 per cent sugar contents. It was said that the questions at issue there were now being disposed of between the farmers and the company. On the east side of Bear river and south of Brigham City the beets go to the plant of the Amalgamated Sugar company at Ogden and that company is now understood to be negotiating with the farmers regarding the 1911 contracts.

NARROW ESCAPE OF STEEL OPERATIVE

Brigham City, Dec. 25.—A steel worker at the Ogden Portland Cement company's plant northwest of this city had a narrow escape from sudden death when he was hurled from the top of a large smokestack, 65 feet in height yesterday. He had presence of mind to grab a guide wire when half way to the roof of the building and slid down the wire with such force that a bolt with which the wire had been spliced struck him on the side of the face, inflicting an ugly wound. He was not seriously injured.
