Says Important Rules of Sanitation Are Violated and Reforms Should Be Instituted.

Ogden, Dec. 30.—According to Milk Inspector W. J. Hoyt, the dairies of this county are in an extremely unsanitary condition. In speaking of the subject today Mr. Hoyt said: "The corrals and stalls where dairy cows are kept are not in a sanitary condition, and the men who are milking the cows and handling the milk are not models of cleanliness. The animals are not getting proper care. They are fat enough, but they are not kept clean. The udders should be more thoroughly cleaned before milking and the milkers should use more care to prevent dirt and foreign matter entering the milk while it is being handled about the dairies."

DEMOCRATS DECIDE TO CONTINUE PARTY

Question Fully Discussed and Conclusion Reached to Remain in Political Field.

Logan, Dec. 29.—Members of the Democratic party from all parts of the county assembled in Logan today, in response to a call issued by Chairman H. G. Hayball, to consider the welfare of their party organization. William Murray of Wellsville acted as chairman and Fred J. Marshall as secretary. A long and spirited discussion of the proposition to disband took place, and it was finally decided to continue in the field. A number of members of the party favored immediate disbandment, and charged that church influence is responsible for their party's loss in the last campaign. The question of prohibition and the institution of a daily paper in Salt Lake were also freely discussed. Nearly every one present joined in the discussion, and many radical remarks were made, but sober second sentiment finally came to the rescue, and it was unanimously agreed to go ahead in future and make a clean campaign on political lines. The idea seemed to prevail that if any church influence had been used it had been done by "underpaid" workers who were without authority to take such action. County Chairman Hayball submitted to the meeting a communication from State Chairman James H. Moyle, in which the latter asked for information on the following points: "What is the sentiment as to prohibition in Cache county?" "What contributed most to the defeat of prohibition?" "What support will a Democratic daily paper receive in the county?" "What are the facts as to the use of church influence there?" The meeting decided to inform the chairman that the people of Cache county are strongly in favor of prohibition and will put it in effect as soon as they are convinced of the best method to adopt to accomplish that end. The most spirited strong support for a Democratic daily.

The meeting finally decided to ignore the question of church influence entirely, and to make the party to straight political work. The prevailing sentiment of the meeting was that, if the Democrats of Maine had been fighting for fifty years before victory came, they are strongly in favor of organizing a Democratic society in each precinct in the county. A fund will be raised through these societies for use in the campaign of 1912, and the party members pledged themselves to work unceasingly for victory during that fight.

KANAB.

SOUTHERN UTAH CITIZENS PROMOTE PROHIBITION (Special Correspondence.) Kanab, Dec. 25.—Prohibition is making rapid strides in this locality under the able management of A. A. Ward, superintendent of the Moccasin Indian school, Fredonia, situated seven miles south, just over the Arizona line, has been at work for years with a traffic net by different individuals, unlicensed, who, not being satisfied to debauch their own town and community, have been extending their work to whites, but would furnish the Indians with liquor at times. It has been a difficult proposition to handle both for the people of Fredonia, until Uncle Sam took up the work within the border of the Indian reservation. Mr. Ward being wide awake and desirous of taking care of the government's interest decided that now the holidays are approaching Walter Haycock, proprietor of the "blind pig," would have a good supply of liquor on hand and sell it Saturday at 10 cents a quart, for cleaning the pen. He engaged W. W. Seigmiller and W. Crosby, both of Kanab, and started for the scene of action. They arrived at Fredonia and proceeded to business immediately. They went to Mr. Haycock's place of business, placed him under arrest and enquired what he had to say for himself. Mr. Haycock assured them that he just kept a little for his own use. Mr. Ward, however, after searching the premises and being about to give up the search, decided that the bed room being the only place he had not yet gone into, he had better take a look and see what he could find out in there. He then found over 35 gallons of liquor stored in a closet, which in judgment was a larger supply than any ordinary drinking man would need for private use. He soon had it running down a drain, and set out in the garden, and after a few preliminaries had adieu to Messrs. Seigmiller and Crosby, who started for Kanab while Haycock as his prisoner. The citizens of Kanab think that Mr. Ward is entitled to a pension for his able assistance in ridding the community of an evil.
