SENATORS WOLCOTT AND TELLER OPPOSE ELECTIONS BILL.

WHITE RACE BOUND TO RULE. Hale Tells Hoar to Get His Pet Measure Out of the Way.

Stewart Bitterly Attacks the Financial Bill, as in the Interest of Speculators and National Banks—The House Adjourns Until Friday.

WASHINGTON CITY, Dec. 30.—[Special.]—Today's proceedings in the Senate have come as near being the death of the election bill as any proceedings could and the bill still lives. There has never been so much or such extraordinary opposition to the measure as came out in the debate this afternoon. Senator Hoar, who has charge of it, is much alarmed lest it be defeated, however soon the vote be taken. The Republican majority is fourteen, counting the two senators from Idaho. Five Republicans are now counted as sure against it, namely: Wolcott, Teller, Stewart, Washburn and Peddock. The full bill Mr. Hoar will vote for it, though he has not declared himself. Plumb, Davis and possibly Mansfield would be willing to vote for it, but track it indefinitely, and some other Western Republicans are very lukewarm toward it.

With so many senators opposed at the start, and with the anxiety of the silver men to get consideration of the silver bill, the outlook is not very flattering for the election bill. If it is passed it will be by the vote of senators who are not so strongly committed to it that they believe would be lying down before a Democratic majority.

Young Senator Hoar's speech today was a remarkable effort of twenty minutes' duration, in which there was not one idle or unnecessary word. Something in the nature of a bomb was looked for on both sides of the house, but such a terrific explosion was unexpected, and the shock must have reached Senators Hoar and Edmunds, who took refuge in the Senate chamber, and the trend of Mr. Wolcott's words became apparent. It was a double-edged sword the senator wielded, for he slashed both sides unmercifully, cutting his own party as well as the opposition. Bitter things the Southern members had heard for many months.

If the speech could be interpreted to mean anything, it meant that the Republican party was pursuing the wrong policy in pressing the election bill to the detriment of financial and other measures, and it plainly served notice that the silver men were not of the opinion that had been going on so long, and would refer to legislation that would be of practical benefit to the country.

As the days go by without action the silver men grow more impatient, and now many of them are firmly convinced that what they term the duplicity of the Republican party is being permitted to go on any longer. They cannot see how they can accomplish anything this session, and they are beginning to grow kind from Sherman, Hoar and their friends. They see nothing for it but to fight, so that they will not be taken in an attempt to bring the election bill to a vote, or failing in that, to shove it and rush through a free coinage measure.

Senator Wolcott's attack on the Chinese is of peculiar interest to the Pacific coast. He spoke of Senator Endicott's question put to Senator Dolph in relation to what the white voters of Oregon would do in case the Chinese were numbered the whites in that state, and chairman Dolph's answer was very evasive. He could not speak for Oregon, he said, but he was willing to speak for the United States, and he said that the white voters of Oregon would do in case the Chinese were numbered the whites in that state, and chairman Dolph's answer was very evasive.

It was such outspoken remarks as those that stirred the Senators. Replying to the Democrats and their allies in the galleries, he said that the only way to get rid of the Chinese was to expel them from the country. He said that the only way to get rid of the Chinese was to expel them from the country.

Stewart declared that the bill of finance committee was designed only to aid speculators in New York, who held 12,000,000 ounces of silver bullion, and to give a bounty to National banks by the issue of $20,000,000 of national bonds as the basis of their circulation. The small banks not having more than $20,000 may be rendered insolvent by withdrawing all their bonds above $1,000. All National banks are issued under this bill circulating notes equal to the par value of the bonds deposited instead of 90 per cent, as in the case of the present currency. The bill, and these provisions are intended only for the benefit of gamblers in silver bullion and National bank corporations.

There is no free silver coinage in the bill. It is an open premium for the gold men. It gives all the bounty on national bank circulation, upon their precious permission, to the government for the privilege of issuing two hundred million of paper money. All the experience of the world since 1873 has been that its business is out of all proportion to the quantity of available money. It has proven the futility of the declaration that representatives of private credit, as bills of exchange, clearing-house certificates, etc., would come into reinforcement of the stock of gold. The effect is that even the gold users are finding that there is not enough of that metal to pay the debts, so called, due them.

The gold holders are hoarding in anticipation of a collapse. They are the wreckers of the world. They see in universal bankruptcy a means of enriching themselves, and they threaten this government with the declaration that if it renounces silver they will hoard all the gold in circulation and ruin the country. They are the only advocates of a currency that is a favor free coinage are the only true conservatives. The gold pirates are willing to inflate paper, if thereby they can make profit. The bill will prevent investment in practice, and make the expanding of the circulation secure.

The national bank system was but a temporary makeshift. No one thought of it as a permanent means of supplying the people with money. The retirement of the public debt must be their final aim. The banks were satisfied with their situation. The banks were satisfied with their situation. The banks were satisfied with their situation.

Under the bill of the finance committee a national bank can borrow for one day $100,000, purchase the same amount of the proposed bonds, deposit them in the treasury and receive back $100,000 in paper where it is to pay the loan. The paper would be put in circulation, the bank getting the benefit of the credit it retained, and in addition a steady income of $2,000, and without having invested a dollar of its own money.

There is no attempt to fix a limit to the amount of paper to be issued under the proposed bill. The silver men propose a sound currency, one that has been available for thousands of years. When the mines are productive, the volume of OMAHA, Dec. 30.—In the course of the story sent to the Bea from Pine Ridge tonight, the correspondent says: Besides those who fell in the gullies, 116 warriors and forty squaws were lying dead on the ground at Wounded Knee yesterday. The squaws were not killed with particular intent, but because they were mixed up with the warriors. The squaws also busied themselves running around with scalping knives, trying to stab wounded soldiers.

Referring to the attempt of Two Strikes to capture the wagon train this morning, the correspondent says: Several of the Indians were killed and many wounded. The correspondent has news from the trouble at the Catholic mission. When Two Strikes' men were running away last night from the agency they compelled old Red Cloud, under threats of death, to accompany them.

CANADIAN INDIANS QUIET.

They are Closely Watched, and Cannot Assist American Reds.

WINNEPEG, Manitoba, Dec. 30.—[Special.]—Agents of the Dominion government have been instructed by the Dominion government to keep a close watch on the Canadian Indians to prevent them from joining the reds in the American uprising, and they are being especially guarded. It is well known that runners from Sitting Bull and the American Indians have been endeavoring to induce the Canadian Indians to join them, but as far as the Canadian government agents can learn they have no intention of doing so.

The reds of this side of the border had quite enough of warfare in their rebellion under Louis Riel, a few years ago, and were then pretty well exterminated. They are now being afflicted with the measles, and they have had this for a quarter of a century, firmly believing that the measles was the American reds who came to exterminate the whites and restore the buffalo. There need be no fear that the Canadian Indians will join the uprising.

CHICAGO, Dec. 30.—[Special.]—The visit to this country of King Kalakaua of the Hawaiian Islands will terminate sooner than was expected. The king's health has been much improved since his arrival here in the United States, and he is expected to return to Honolulu in the Christmas during the first week in January. Arrived here from Honolulu, the Hawaiian king on the Charleson gave rise to considerable excitement. King Kalakaua is a member of the British royal family, and he is expected to visit England.

It is known that there has been considerable rivalry for some time past between American and British residents of Honolulu, and it is known that the British residents there are partial to the king. The Hawaiian king, on his return to Honolulu from England, has been accompanied by a number of British officials in Honolulu, who regarded with disapproval the incident of Kalakaua's departure from Honolulu. GRABBED BY THE VIGILANTES. Citizens of Dayton Exasperated by Numerous Burglaries.

DAYTON, Dec. 30.—[Special.]—About 7 o'clock tonight a party of vigilantes grabbed one Burris and rushed him into the darkness above town. What they intended to do with him is not known, but it is supposed that they intended to kill him. Burris was recently arrested on suspicion, but was discharged Saturday on account of insufficient evidence to convict. Several people rushed up to see what had happened at the residence of Burris, but they were told that the vigilantes ordered them back at the muzzle of a revolver.
