The Czar and Czarina Evidently Pleased With the Demonstrations of the Crowds—Amnesty Granted to Political Offenders and Debits Remitted.

St. Petersburg, Nov. 26.—At 1:30 p. m. the guns from the fortress announced that Czar Nicholas II. was married to Princess Alix of Hesse-Darmstadt. At present the newly married couple are receiving the congratulations of the wedding guests at the palace.

THE CZAR AND CZARINA.

Before 7 in the morning large crowds were assembling in Newsky prospect to secure places along the route of the royal wedding procession. From the Anichkoff palace to the winter palace the avenue was lined with troops. There was not an inch of space to spare along the grand Morskaja prospect or the square in front of the Winter palace.

At 11:15 a. m. in the distance were heard the strains of the national anthem, and the multitudes uncovered in anticipation of the approach of the bridal party. Soon after there appeared an open state carriage, drawn by four white horses. In this vehicle were the czar and his brother, Grand Duke Michael. They both wore the uniforms of hussars and were greeted with a vociferous burst of cheering, which was renewed again and again.

The wedding procession entered the Winter palace at 11:15 a. m., where, as soon as possible afterward, were assembled all those invited to the wedding. Along the prospects there was a magnificent scene, thousands of cavalry and infantry lining the roadway, while behind the troops were immovable multitudes of spectators, all waiting patiently for a view of the procession on its return. Reaching the Winter palace, the royal party entered the Maitschie hall, where the bridal procession was formed. At its head were the court functionaries. Then came the czar, escorted by the king of Denmark. Her father, the czar and Princess Alix came next, followed by the Prince and Princess of Wales and other members of the imperial and royal families, and a batch of court officials bringing up the rear.

The procession first slowly traversed the concert hall, the panels on the walls bearing silver plates on which the Russian people presented to the late czar bread and salt during his journey through the empire and on the occasion of his coronation. A large crystal candelabrum was suspended from the ceiling. The Nicholas hall was next entered by the wedding party. It was decorated with white and gold, and adorned by richly embellished chairs, the work of famous artists. In the center of the hall was a striking portrait of Nicholas I. The bridal procession then traversed the Emore hall, splendidly decorated in Empire style, the field marshals' saloon, where a variety of large war paintings adorned the walls, and then passed through the famous Petrowsky hall, in which stands the throne of Peter the Great, and which is decorated with ancient furniture of oxidized silver. From this magnificent apartment the wedding procession slowly passed through the hall of the court of arms, named after the enormous allegorical figures of Russians holding in their hands the escutcheons of all governments of the empire. The bridal procession then found itself in the Pokotny room, which adjoins the church. In this room remained the majority of the officers and members of the lesser nobility, only the imperial family and their social guests and indispensable functionaries passing into the small chapel, which is most gorgeous, glittering with gold and stucco work. On the right hand of the chapel, in glass cases, were all the sacred relics brought to Russia by the knights of Malta, including the hand of St. John the Baptist, the martyr saint Irene, and the miraculous image of the Virgin Mary. These are ornamented with enormous sapphires in the form of beads.

The costumes in the chapel were dazzling. Most of the ladies wore the Russian costumes, very low before and behind and with arms bare almost to the shoulders. The bride's dress was white, richly embroidered with gold, and on her head was the usual kokoshnik belonging to the costume ornamented with diamonds. At the top of the kokoshnik was a small crown of diamonds. The bride's mantle was of purple, lined with ermine. The head-dresses of the old court ladies were of ancient gold brocade, adorned with sapphires, emeralds and rubies.

When all the wedding guests were assembled, the marriage ceremony was carried out according to the rites of the Greek church. The wedding procession was reformed, and the guests re-entered their carriages. The dowager czarina was the first to arrive back at the Winter palace. The bride's train was borne by five offi-

ABERDEEN BANK SHUT.

Manager and a Stockholder Accused of Embezzlement.

THE COUNTY MONEY TIED UP.

Failure of an Attempt to Count Snohomish County Seat Vote.

The Tacoma Water Swindle Likely to Be Thoroughly Investigated—Suicide of a Girl at Latah—Woman Drowned at New Westminister—Wardner Struck.

ABERDEEN, Nov. 26.—[Special.]—Today Charles Wapenstein, a prominent stockholder in the Aberdeen bank, filed a complaint in the superior court of this county, at Montesano, charging W. P. Book, president and principal stockholder of the Aberdeen bank, and G. S. Thomas, manager of the same concern, with embezzlement and misappropriation of the bank's money. Mr. Wapenstein also asked that a receiver be appointed for the bank. When County Judge Crocker Lewis, at Montesano, heard of these proceedings, he had several thousand dollars of county funds deposited in the Aberdeen bank, and to protect them drew a check for $3,200 in favor of the Bank of Montesano, with instructions to collect at once. President Carr and Cashier Lamb, of that institution, started at once for this city by hand car to present their check ahead of the warrants, reaching here at 1 p. m. They presented the check, but dilatory tactics were pursued by Cashier Thomas, who stood them off until closing time, when payment was flatly refused, and they were told to wait until morning. At 5 o'clock this evening Sheriff Graham arrived with the warrants, and arrested Book and Thomas. It is generally understood that the bank will not open tomorrow. The Aberdeen bank is the oldest on Gray's harbor, and was organized in 1887 with a capital stock of $50,000. A. J. Kroemer is president and W. P. Book, C. F. White, A. J. Kroemer and G. S. Thomas are directors. There has been a lack of confidence in the concern for a long time, owing to rumors now shaping into facts. So this move does not occasion great surprise. The deposits are not known, but they are not heavy. It is generally considered that, if a receiver takes hold, a proper handling of the assets will satisfy all liabilities.

THE TACOMA WATER SWINDLE.

Bribery and Fraud in the Special Election to Be Exposed.

TACOMA, Nov. 26.—[Special.]—In an amended complaint to the $1,000,000 suit for damages, brought some time ago by the city against the Tacoma Light and Water company, it is now demanded, in addition to the charges of bribery and fraud referred to by the Post-Intelligencer at the time the water plant was shifted from the shoulders of the water company onto the city. This will, no doubt, bring upon the witness stand some of the persons who are charged with receiving bribes from the water company to assist in the sale. A. R. Titlow, who, with J. R. Whitehouse and Jack Shackelford, was retained by the city to defend it in enforcing its ownership of a large amount of pipe and other material, which the water company proposed to hold out and not deliver with the water plant, said this evening:

"The liveliest part of this deal is to come. We want to know what a lot of prominent people know about bribery, fraud and the like, in connection with the time of the water plant. I have seen some of them are very lively in skipping out of town. I have just been informed that D. C. Hansen has flown to St. Paul, riding on a pass, and with $500 in his jeans. Mr. Isaac W. Anderson, general manager of the land company and an officer in the water company, is also reported among the missing. I have seen that Mr. Anderson himself distributed some money to help along the sale of the water plant. However, we caught several of the men whom we want to testify. They demanded their fees in advance, $250, and were paid. Allen C. Mason is among the number."

It is understood Mike O'Brien will be put on the stand to tell how many votes he bought for the sale of the water plant. Mike had "sifters" for the money about the time of the water election, and he is the chap that said of Percy county grand jury, which failed to find anything wrong in connection with the water deal, had the "mango" and the "tick-dollar-rooms." He also said some of the members of the jury were blind, and later the members of that body were collectively dubbed the "blind grand jury."

The amended complaint will probably be filed Wednesday, on which day the "rape of the gas works" case is set for trial. The mayor and board of public works went to the gas works in the dead of night and carried off $50,000 worth of piping and other material, which was set on behalf of the city, as part of the water plant purchase. The battery of lawyers on either side in the case refer to the midnight raid as "the rape of the gas works."

Some of the men who were members of the city council at the time the sale was effected and who were active in having the city pay $1,750,000 for a property which it now claims is not worth over $750,000, and therefore asks $1,000,000 damages, are uneasy about the coming developments. The most eminent scientists, including United States government chemists, have united in indorsement of Dr. Price's Cream Baking Powder. COUNTY SEAT VOTE UNCANVASSED. The Count May Be Delayed Till the Supreme Court Makes a Decision. SNOHOMISH, Nov. 26.—[Special.]—The election returns of this county still remain uncanvassed. When the board of canvassers met this morning it was apparent that two of the members, Whitney and Friars, had determined to violate Judge McClintock's order issued last Friday, that the canvass of the county seat returns be stayed pending the appeal to the supreme court and who were active in trouble between the adherents of Snohomish and Everett, who were present in large numbers. Sheriff Hagan searched every one who entered the room, with the result that several formidable looking pistols were deposited in his office. Auditor Swendler endeavored to have the board respect the order of the court and omit the canvass of the county seat returns, but in this he was overruled by the other two members, who took forcible possession of the returns and proceeded to canvass the whole vote. While the canvass was proceeding, Judge Sapp, representing Snohomish, filed a restraining order, restraining the canvass

The Horrors of the Armenian Massacre Not Fully Told.

AN INDIGNANT WORLD PROTESTS

President Cleveland Urged to Intervene in Humanity's Name.

American Papers Excluded From Turkey Because of Their Position in Regard to Armenia—The Turkish Government Approves Killing Christians.

Boston, Nov. 26.—Further information as to the massacre of the Armenians near Bitlis has been received by Secretary Garrison from the United Friends of Armenia. One letter, dated Bitlis, September 23, gives the information that news has been received from the region back of Moosh that forty-eight villages are said to have been wholly blotted out. Another, dated Bitlis, October 3, states that on the day previous a letter from Moosh has been received, which told of the outbreak of a virulent form of cholera, which was killing from twenty-five to thirty-five persons daily. It is caused, it is said, by the stench of carnage, which has taken place not far back in the mountains.

The number of the massacred was between 8,000 and 10,000. The government tried to get the people here to sign a petition to the sovereign, expressing satisfaction with his rule and disclaiming sympathy with the Armenians who have "stirred up matters." The people have refused to sign the address. Another letter, dated Constantinople, October 31, states that from information received from Bitlis twenty-seven villages have been annihilated in Sasoun and 6,000 men, women and children have been massacred by the troops and Kurds. The massacre occurred in the early part of September. The massacre was the result of an fray between some Kurds and Armenian villagers, from whom the sultan ordered infantry and cavalry to this place to put down the Armenian rebellion.

An audience which crowded the "cradle of liberty" to the doors, made up mostly of Armenians, but with a large number of Americans, gathered at Faneuil hall tonight to hold an indignation meeting over the recent atrocious treatment of Armenians by representatives of the Turkish government. Among the speakers were many representative citizens, as well as a number of leading clergymen of Boston. Rev. J. Barrows presided. With him on the platform were Gov. Greenhall, Mrs. Julia Ward Howe, Hon. William Garrison, Rev. Francis Ecker, Rev. Thomas H. Van Ness, of Boston, and Dr. Samuel F. Gumbert, of Cambridge, all of whom made addresses. The resolutions adopted recite that:

"Whereas, it was the report of an American commission of inquiry the first convinced Mr. Gladstone of the truth of Bulgarian atrocities. Resolved, That we earnestly petition by all the nations of the world to instruct our minister at Constantinople to investigate this matter, either by sending to the spot such persons as he may see fit to join in a commission sent by the united European powers. The resolution proceeds with an appeal to the signatory powers, and especially Great Britain, for the enforcement of the sixty-first article of the treaty of Berlin. William Garrison was the chief speaker of the evening."

WASHINGTON CITY, Nov. 26.—The edict permanently excluding all American newspapers from Turkey, as announced by the Associated Press cable from Constantinople, has not yet been officially communicated to the Turkish legation here. Secretary Norrighian Effendi is in charge of the legation during the absence of Mr. Mavroyan Bey. Mr. Norrighian expressed surprise that the edict should have such scope as to be a permanent exclusion of the American press, and he thinks the report may prove overdrawn in this respect. There is a press censorship in Turkey, he said, similar to that conducted in most European countries. A press bureau in Constantinople is in general control for the purpose of reading all papers and seeing that the press laws are observed. There are daily papers in Constantinople and elsewhere throughout Turkey, conducted in accordance with the press laws, and are designed to give the government proper protection against internal assaults. Mr. Norrighian says such laws and censorship are common throughout Europe, and are in marked contrast with the lack of supervision and censorship in the United States.

Superintendent Brooks, of the foreign mail service, says there is an agreement by all the nations of the world to prohibit any nation that can exclude any mail which the government deems detrimental to its interests. At the state department no question is raised as to the authority of the Turkish government in taking the action indicated. Nearly every European power has asserted and exercised this authority in the past. France has freely availed herself of it, and it is a well-known fact that the Russian government exercises rigid censorship over the admission into Russia, not only of foreign newspapers, but of magazines and books. In the case of Turkey the reason for the order of exclusion is doubtless to be found in the fact that the American papers at present abound with long articles descriptive of the outrages alleged to have been perpetrated on the Armenians, and reports of mass meetings held by the active Armenian agents in the United States to protest against these atrocities. The Turkish government is properly apprehensive that the free circulation of such literature in the disaffected provinces may stir up open rebellion, the outcome of which, in the present temper of Europe, it would be difficult to forecast. So far as the Armenians themselves are concerned, our government can do nothing for them, no matter how much disposed it may be to alleviate the fortunes of these native Christians. The great European powers are bound by treaty to protect them, and they will unquestionably strongly resent any interference by the United States in the line of suggestion as to their duty in the matter. So the resolutions which are being directed to the president by sympathetic mass meetings held in various cities are likely to be of no avail, save, perhaps, to direct the attention of the civilized world to the miserable state of the Armenians, though it is just possible that congress as it did in the case of the Russian Jews, may pass a resolution requesting the president to appeal to the treaty powers to intervene in Armenia.

LONDON, Nov. 26.—The supreme Arme-

THE SUIT AGAINST SENATOR SQUIRE. Utica, N. Y., Nov. 26.—Before Judge Williams was begun the suit of Floyd Shepard vs. United States Senator Squire, of Washington. The action is for an accounting of property valued at $1,500,000, situated near Seattle. The plaintiffs are William C. King, of Minneapolis, and Phil Osgood and John N. Goodwin, of Dillon. Some twenty years ago Col. King, Remington, Osgood and Goodwin purchased the property, and in 1870 it was turned over in trust to Mr. Remington. Subsequently Mr. Remington died, and Senator Squire, as his administrator, was intrusted with the care of the property.

THE COUR D'ALENE STRIKE.

WARDNER, Idaho, Nov. 26.—The strike situation remains unchanged. Secretary Murphy says a wrong impression has gone out relative to the union's demands. "All we asked," he said, "was that non-union men be discharged. There is no controversy over wages." It is rumored tonight that a telegram was received this evening from officers of the company to shut down indefinitely. Manager Bradley refused to confirm or deny the rumor.

THE STEAMER WILLIS SUNK AT SHELTON.

SHELTON, Nov. 26.—[Special.]—The steamer Willis was sunk at her wharf early this morning before starting on her morning trip. She had been leaking since colliding with a bank last week. No lives were lost, but several persons narrowly escaped plunging into the bay with their underclothes on. This is probably the last of the old steamer, as Capt. Lew's new boat will be finished soon.

THE MONTE CRISTO SNOWSLIDE.

MONTE CRISTO, Nov. 26.—[Special.]—Beside Louis Erikson, who was killed, these persons were covered by the snow in the slide on the 23d: Wesley Smith, A. M. Cresswell, Charles Stone, William Kelly, J. C. Felix, T. Scott, Michael Rusk, William McArthur, Horace Chase. All are on their feet around town and doing well.

BRITISH COLUMBIA COAST PATROL.

VANCOUVER, B. At last the Dominion government has decided to fit out an armed cutter to patrol the coast.

A WOMAN DROWNED AT NEW WESTMINSTER.

VANCOUVER, B. C., Nov. 26.—Johanna Nelson, a Swedish woman, fell into the Fraser river at New Westminister last night and was drowned. In company with some friends she was going aboard the steamer Samson, but in the dark she stepped off the gang-plank and fell into the river.
