

W. P. BOYD & CO., Front Street, Foot of Cherry.

Watch Our Special Prices.

Our New Laces.

Special Embroidery Sale.

Sale Of Kid Gloves.

Prices Reduced in Broken Lines

POPULAR PRICES

In Every Department.

New York Cheese.

Fresh, Mild, Rich, Full Cream.

Advertisement for Egg Food and Roup Pills, featuring an illustration of a hen.

MORRISON & HANSEN, Union Brass Foundry

WASHINGTON IRON WORKS CO.

Foundry, Machine and Boiler Shops.

THE SEATTLE TRANSFER CO.

MORAN BROS. CO., Foundry, Machine and Boiler Works.

Advertisement for Pearl-line soap, featuring an illustration of a woman and a child.

A COVILTZ TRAGEDY.

Homer Strait Slain by His Wife and Her Son-in-Law.

BUTCHERED IN COLD BLOOD.

Tacoma Tide Land Appraisers to Push the Work to Completion.

A Demented Man Sentenced to Prison at Spokane—Fire at Portland—Port Angeles' Sunday Saloonkeeper Beats His Religious Prosecutors.

Kalama, April 5.—Special.—The coroner returned today from the northeastern part of the county, where he had been to investigate the killing of Homer Strait. The evidence before the coroner's jury showed the killing to be one of the most cold-blooded which has ever occurred in the county. It seems that Strait and his wife had been separated for some time, and she had been living with her son-in-law, Thomas Powell, in the same neighborhood. Powell and Strait had a law suit over a piece of land in Strait's name. On Monday morning about 9 o'clock Homer Strait and a neighbor named Piper were walking down the county road just east of town, when they were met by Thomas Powell and Strait's wife. The woman accosted Strait with the remark that she had a crow to pick with him and guessed it was a good time to do it.

Then Powell commenced cursing Strait, and pulled a six-shooter and fired, striking Strait just above the stomach. The bullet passing through his body, Strait had a small blow rod in his hand, and when Powell fired Strait closed in on him and tried to knock Powell out of Strait's hands, but the latter succeeded in firing four more shots, none of which took effect. At this time Mrs. Strait had an ox goad about five feet long, with a spike in the end, and was pounding Strait over the head, tearing the scalp at every stroke. After Powell emptied his pistol he clinched with Strait and both men fell, when Piper separated the men and Strait got up and started home in a dazed condition. After Strait had gone about thirty steps Powell picked up the ox goad, running up to Strait, knocked him down and beat him into insensibility, and then left him to go and get some cartridges for his pistol. While Powell was gone Strait got Strait's brother and they carried the wounded man into his house, where he died shortly after midnight. Just before he died he stated his name as Homer Strait, and made a statement in accordance with the foregoing. Powell is in hiding. No arrests have yet been made, but the sheriff is on his way out there.

TACOMA'S WATER FRONT.

The New Board of Appraisers Will Push the Work. Tacoma, April 5.—Special.—The new board of tide land appraisers met this morning at 10 o'clock in the morning in the city hall to consult regarding the work of platting the streets on the water front. The city was represented by Mayor Orr, City Attorney Wickersham, Councilmen Harris, Hartman, Gowdy, Theis, and Law, Lee, McGrath, Nash, Janet, Watson, Humphrey, Lister, Warner, and Messers, Demorest and Taylor, of the board of public works. The mayor urged that all parties interested work in harmony with the board and avoid litigation if possible, in order that the work may be completed as quickly as possible. This view of the matter was also taken by the mayor, city attorney and board of public works. Councilmen Harris and Watson also urged that the city officials be advised frequently by the board as to its work, and that harmony of interests be conserved. Harris said the administration would not antagonize the new board. Other speakers also stated that many it was urged that every effort should be extended to tide water wherever practicable. The need of a wide road on the west side of the bay to the smelter was discussed. The maps and profiles of the board were gone over, and the meeting adjourned without taking any definite action, except to agree that the board should submit a plan of its proposed work to the council. Northern Pacific Land Company and other interested property owners at an early date.

The State Bureau of Statistics.

Olympia, April 5.—Special.—Section 2 of an act to establish a bureau of statistics, labor, agriculture and immigration, approved March 29, 1894, provides that the board shall be the duty of all state officers and the assessors of the various counties of the state to furnish, upon the written request of the commissioner, all the information in their power necessary to assist in carrying out the objects of this act. As the act makes the secretary of state the commissioner, Secretary James H. Price has sent to every county assessor, the state a circular asking for statistics on 150 different subjects coming under the head of agriculture, labor and immigration. Mr. Price is also preparing a circular for the assessor in every city in the state asking their co-operation in the collection of these statistics. When returns have been received from all counties a book will be compiled containing the reports in full, and this book will be the most complete statistical record that it is possible to secure and will be invaluable to parties seeking homes in this state and to those who are interested in securing immigration.

The Sunday Law at Port Angeles.

Port Angeles, April 5.—Special.—The churches of this city are making an effort to enforce the Sunday law, their attention being particularly directed toward the saloons and cigar stores. A case will be tried this afternoon in Judge Brewster's court. Ray L. Haynes, a member of the church committee, having sworn out a complaint for the arrest of John Cunnea, who conducts the Ivy of John Front street. Haynes on Sunday last, visited the Ivy saloon and purchased a half pint bottle of whisky, which fact he draws attention to in his complaint. He says that he also bought a bottle of wine at the wine store of C. L. Cross, on the same day, but the absence of a witness from the city has caused a delay in bringing a charge against Cross.

Oregon Horse Thieves Arrested.

Pendleton, Or., April 5.—After a long, exciting chase a posse has captured the Parr boys and brought them to Pendleton. They were arraigned on a charge of horse stealing and assault with intent to kill. Sheriff Houser, with Indian Agent Harper, and Indian policemen on the track of the Parrs, and for two days they made search. Last night they traced them to the Borper place, on the reservation. As the posse approached, the Parrs hurried out, mounted horses and made for the mountains. The chase was kept up until the deep canyons of the Blue mountains were reached, when the fugitives were overtaken. The posse pressed on. When the distance apart was not more than 100 feet the Parr boys turned at bay, drew their revolvers and emptied them at the officers. In the excitement one was injured, and when the chambers were all emptied the arrest was easily made.

Burglar Louderback Arrested.

Spokane, April 5.—Special.—Archibald Louderback last night in a blacksmith shop near Willapa by a posse raised by Deputy Sheriff Pinder. Although armed with a heavy pistol, he made no resistance. He was brought down this morning and placed in jail, but later in the day was taken back to Willapa for examination, where he said he and his brother James were the two who entered the store on Sunday night. Considerable comment has been caused by these arrests, as it has developed that there had been an organized company here to steal property, and the plunder was shipped regularly to San Francisco to be disposed of by an accomplice there. Elmer Louderback has secured bonds in the sum of $1,000, but Archibald has been unable to do so. Archibald Louderback is a member of the company, and has only been receiving and shipping the goods for the past few months.

Convention of State Superintendents.

Olympia, April 5.—Special.—State Superintendent Bevan issued a call to the county superintendents throughout the state to meet at the biennial convention of county superintendents which will meet at Olympia on April 30, 1895. The convention will continue in session three days, commencing each day at 9 o'clock a. m. The convention will be held in the city hall, and the superintendents will be provided with meals and transportation. The convention will be held in the city hall, and the superintendents will be provided with meals and transportation. The convention will be held in the city hall, and the superintendents will be provided with meals and transportation.

State Treasurer's Quarterly Report.

Olympia, April 5.—Special.—State Treasurer Bowen has issued his quarterly report, which shows an amount of cash on hand in the various funds as follows: General fund, $2,349 85; Military fund, $1,231 81; Interest fund, $621 47; Current school fund, $4,880 14; Tide land fund, $438 35; Deposit for survey lands, $481 10; Reverting fund, $3,275 74; Fish hatchery, $20,713 19; Special school land deposits, $44 75; State library fund, $545 37; Total, $31,770 90.

Bellingham Bay News.

Whitcomb, April 5.—Special.—The steamer Rainier has been secured by Capt. Everett, and is to be used for the purpose of the Delta, for the island run between here and Friday Harbor. She will call at all points and will be a great convenience to the people of the islands. The tug Katy left today with a boom of logs for the Tacoma mill. She lay at Fairhaven during the night. The collection of taxes has been completed today in checking the statement of the county treasurer.

Everett News.

Everett, April 5.—Special.—Ground was broken today for the new sulphite mill of the paper company's plant at Lowell. General Manager Stewart reports plenty of orders booked, and the mill running night and day. Bell's work will begin running night and day this week on a large order for 2,000,000 ties for the Great Northern railroad. Frier's sawmill at Lowell is also running night and day.

A Crazy Man Sentenced to Prison.

Spokane, April 5.—Judge Buck today sentenced old man Siegel to fourteen years in the penitentiary. His crime was the shooting of man Siegel, but he was advised frequently by the board as to its work, and that harmony of interests be conserved. Harris said the administration would not antagonize the new board. Other speakers also stated that many it was urged that every effort should be extended to tide water wherever practicable.

The Everett Harbor Improvements.

Everett, April 5.—It is learned from Capt. Symons that the government will begin work in May or June upon the fresh water harbor improvements at Everett. A contract has been made for the construction of retaining dikes from the lower end of Smith's island at the mouth of the Snohomish river around to the bay. The work will be completed in three weeks invite proposals for the work.

Amputated His Toe.

Snohomish, April 5.—Special.—While Adolf Watson, ex-deputy county treasurer, was at work on his ranch east of town today, the ax he was using slipped and cut into his foot, completely amputating the toe. The men he had working with him brought him into the city and had the wounded foot dressed. A curious thing about it is that Mr. Watson had intended to have the toe amputated, the accident saving him that trouble.

A Tacoma Carpenter Badly Hurt.

Tacoma, April 5.—Special.—Chas. Johnson, a carpenter who resides at 1513 C street, fell from the roof of a building at Fifth and K streets at 9:30 this morning and was fractured his skull. His left arm was also broken and his head thought to be badly shaken. The man he had working with him brought him into the city and had the wounded foot dressed. A curious thing about it is that Mr. Watson had intended to have the toe amputated, the accident saving him that trouble.

The Port Angeles Saloonkeeper Wins.

Port Angeles, April 5.—Special.—John Keating was arrested Tuesday for keeping his saloon open on Sundays, was acquitted by the decision of a jury in Judge Brewster's court. It is thought that the saloonkeeper will attempt to close the saloons on Sundays.

The Alaska Boundary Dispute.

Victoria, April 5.—At a meeting of the Board of Trade this afternoon a committee was appointed to look after the interests of British Columbia in the dispute over the location of the Alaska boundary line, which traverses a valuable section of this province for many miles. The committee will assist the Ottawa government in gathering data.

TO SCORE NICARAGUA.

An English Warship Now on the Way to Greytown.

CENTRAL AMERICA MAY UNITE.

American War Vessels to Protect United States Citizens in Syria.

Plans of the Minnesota Syndicate That Has the Orinoco Concession From Venezuela—Consul Mulligan, of Samoa, Heaps Coarse Abuse on Chief Justice Ide.

Washington City, April 5.—Reports that the British war ship Royal Arthur has touched at Panama on her way to Nicaragua to enforce British demands have caused some apprehension among officials and diplomats here. The Royal Arthur is the flagship of the Pacific squadron, and carries Rear Admiral Stephens, K. C. B., commander of the fleet, although Capt. Frederick French is in immediate command. She is one of the new monitors of the British navy, and has a tonnage of 12,000. There is no official confirmation here of the Royal Arthur's movements, as the reports of naval changes do not come from the admiralty. The opinion is expressed by those familiar with the situation that if Great Britain were to force at all the Central American republics will tender their services to Nicaragua.

THE NEW MULLIGAN LETTERS.

Consul-General to Samoa Roasts Chief Justice Ide. Washington City, April 5.—In the State department today a series of letters from James H. Mulligan, United States consul-general to Samoa, which are interesting from their free and easy style and the communication concerning diplomatic affairs, which are written by Chief Justice Henry Ide, who presides over the court established for Samoa by the three powers, Great Britain, Germany and the United States, are being read. The chief justice is a very pleasant and agreeable man. Nature has not been lavish with him in her gifts, and he is not up to the gauge of Daniel Webster. He is violently impressed with his own importance, and the most melancholy feature about him is that he labors under the impression that he is very smart. He could wipe out eight-tenths of the pending litigation and prospective appeals by a prompt decision of the only real question of moment that he has ever had before him, which is under the eighth section of article 1. He persistently postpones deciding it, and all interested in such matters, such as lawyers, and all others, except the commissioners, are along with him in it, for the delay is a source of trouble to many a great falling off of contests and litigation. My notion is, unless he has a personal scheme or ambition behind it, that he knew his importance would be lessened by the collapse of the court, and that it is the only reasonable way it is susceptible of decision. If the land litigation was once cleared away the powers and public would wake up to the absurdity of the situation, and the chief justice would be left with the title of chief justice whose duties would be confined to the trial of an occasional native for hooking bread from the table.

The Orinoco Concession.

Plan of the Minnesota Syndicate to Which the Grant Was Made. Minneapolis, April 5.—A representative of the Journal who visited Mayor Grant, of Fairbank, Minn., today obtained interesting information from the treaty concessions about the mouth of the Orinoco river, in Venezuela, which Mr. Grant and his associates have secured. Mr. Grant, which is granted to the syndicate to be improved and colonized has always belonged to Venezuela, and has never been claimed by England. Mr. Grant admitted, however, that a small corner of the concession had been settled on by the English, but it was least valuable and no trouble would arise out of the fact. He adds that the concession is really divided into two parts. One part is owned by a man named J. A. Bowman in 1884, who has been interested in it with Austin Corbin. After some work had been done in improving the river, the concession was broken up into two parts. The first part was given to the syndicate, and the second part was given to the syndicate. The syndicate is a partnership of men who are interested in the improvement of the river, and who are willing to invest money in the project. The syndicate is a partnership of men who are interested in the improvement of the river, and who are willing to invest money in the project.

Wash. City News.

Vancouver, B. C., April 5.—Walter C. Howe and Charles W. Cooper, of San Francisco, reached here today, and start tomorrow for home, their intention being to cover the distance on bicycles. Considerable interest was taken this evening in the marriage of John Payne and Mrs. Ellen Burns. The groom is 49 years old and the bride is 65. They were acquainted in early days, but got separated, and both married. Payne's wife died some years ago, and hearing that Mrs. Burns' husband was dead, he sought her out in Ontario. She accepted this evening's ceremony is the result. Payne is a rancher on Howe sound.

Jersey City, N. J., April 5.—Gov. Werts, who is in this city tonight, says that he has received a request for troops to suppress the labor troubles at the Staten Island terminal factory at Spa Springs. He says he will not take action until he has received a request from the governor of New Jersey. This he will do tomorrow.

Pomeroy, Ohio, April 5.—An attempt was made at Minersville early this morning to blow up with dynamite the family boat of John Forbes, a miner imported to take the place of striking miners. The boat was badly shattered, but no lives were lost. Fourteen men have taken the places of the old miners in the Williams mine and serious trouble is feared. The situation is desperate in Minersville.

Fatal Train Wreck Near Zanesville.

Zanesville, Ohio, April 5.—Four persons were killed outright and a fifth fatally injured in a wreck on the Baltimore and Ohio narrow gauge road at Zanesville this morning. A coach jumped the track as the train was approaching the trestle, which was a curve. The coach ran into the ties half way across, and then the engine left the rails, carrying down five benches of the trestle to the ravine below. The engineer, the engineer's family reside in this city, was instantly killed. Mrs. E. Young and little daughter, of Summerville, and Henry Brown, a resident of Beaverville, suffered the same fate. Jessie Jones, a fireman, was fatally injured.

Walt Lake, N. Y., April 5.—The woman suffrage article, which was passed to a third reading by the convention several days ago, came up again today on a motion to recommit with instructions to present the question to the people in a separate article. The most of the day was spent in the discussion of the subject. Able speeches were made on both sides. The motion to recommit was lost—4 to 52. A vote to adopt the article was carried, 75 to 14, and it now goes to the committee on revision. Unless the opposition can muster votes enough to have today's action reconsidered, the woman suffrage article will be considered an accomplished fact.

Come to Dinner.

You are invited to take lunch and dinner at the extra table at the Hotel Hamilton, which was passed to a third reading by the convention several days ago, came up again today on a motion to recommit with instructions to present the question to the people in a separate article. The most of the day was spent in the discussion of the subject. Able speeches were made on both sides. The motion to recommit was lost—4 to 52. A vote to adopt the article was carried, 75 to 14, and it now goes to the committee on revision. Unless the opposition can muster votes enough to have today's action reconsidered, the woman suffrage article will be considered an accomplished fact.

TO PROTECT AMERICANS IN ASIA MINOR.

Washington City, April 5.—The United States steamship Maribhead, now at Gibraltar, was sailed yesterday by Secretary Herbert to proceed with dispatch to Beyroot, Syria. The commander-in-chief of the European station, who will sail immediately on the San Francisco, now at Palermo, for Syria, was ordered to hold the vessels of his command ready and to visit Alexandria and confer with the United States consul and report on the American citizens living peacefully in that part of the world, under its treaty guarantees.

Quacks From Canada.

Washington City, April 4.—The subject of the practice of medicine in the United States by Canadian medical students, who have failed to pass the examination required to admit them to practice in the province of Ontario, is brought to the attention of the state department by a report from Consul Twitchell, at Kingston, Canada. The consul says that during the year 1894 one hundred students were graduated from the Ontario Medical College. Of these, fifty-three passed the examination required by the medical council of the province before being allowed to practice in Canada. The other 47, he thinks, probably went to the United States, where the graduation from the college permits them to practice in most of the states without further examination.

The Spreckels Family Row.

San Francisco, April 5.—Rudolph Spreckels, the youngest son of Claus Spreckels, has sprung the latest sensation in the family altercation. In the course of the trial in his injunction suit against the Nevada bank, Rudolph Spreckels' attorney handed in an affidavit full of ugly charges against his father. Rudolph had signed the document and duly acknowledged it before a notary. His purpose is to charge Claus Spreckels with endeavoring to injure the credit of his two younger sons to prevent them from paying their debts. In the event A. Spreckels to deny the charges, the obligation not being met, certain securities in the Nevada bank, turned over to guarantee payment, would be forfeited. Rudolph in his affidavit denies the charge made by the bank that he aided or abetted the Hawaiian revolution. He also charges that the Nevada bank is not a bona fide purchaser of the stock, but is trying to assist Claus Spreckels in the performance of a threat publicly made that he would ruin and break up the bank and break him. The affidavit also alleges that Claus Spreckels is trying hard to injure the credit of Rudolph and to prevent the payment of the debt of C. A. Spreckels to the bank. The case will go on tomorrow.

The New Washington Log Raft.

San Francisco, April 5.—W. E. Balnes, who was interested in the great raft which was to be placed in a storm on the Pacific a few months ago while being towed here, is in the city. He says that in company with R. E. Jones, he is now constructing another raft, which he hopes to get safely to San Francisco. It is being built at Stella, Wash. forty miles up the Columbia river from its mouth, and will contain 60,000 lumber feet, the equivalent in board measure of 6,000,000 feet. The raft will be cigar shaped, will be 55 feet long, 32 feet wide, 20 feet deep, and will draw between 20 and 21 feet of water. Its logs, if placed end to end, would reach the distance of 76 miles. The weight will be 10,000 tons, and it will be 125 feet, and at the foot, tapered section, 45. The raft is so well toward completion now that it will be ready for sea by June 15. At that time the weather is always fair, with the prevailing winds, which are light from the northwest, favorable.

Dr. Holmes Found.

Dr. Holmes arrived at 9:45 o'clock, and on examining the remains pronounced that life was extinct. Coroner Askam was then called, and the official examination of the bathroom was in a condition to indicate that Mr. Heilbron was in company with the dead messenger came upon him so unexpectedly. Rudolph Spreckels was found upon Mr. Heilbron's nose and forehead, which indicated that he must have fallen when stricken. Dr. Holmes told the coroner that he was satisfied from what he knew of Mr. Heilbron's condition that death was due to apoplexy, but it was finally decided, in order to settle all questions, to hold a post-mortem examination. There was this official pronouncement: "The coroner, after examining the body of George H. Heilbron, a native of Surinam, Dutch Guiana, who came to Boston in his youth and entered the military service in 1870. In 1872 Mr. Heilbron had retired from active business and has been living in this city with his son at 1107 Cherry street. His mother, now dead, was Susan M. Heilbron, a Boston woman of many accomplishments. It was the good fortune of George H. Heilbron to have his earlier education perfected in the city of Boston, where he went through the Dwight Grammar school, where he took high rank in all of his classes. In the famous Roxbury Latin school he went still further and became known as one of the most brilliant scholars in his class. He took an active part in the military affairs of the school and arose from the ranks to when still a sergeant he won first honors in one of the competitive drills for which that school is noted. After being graduated, Mr. Heilbron took the entrance examination for Harvard university. His previous training, however, combined with his natural ability ever, combined with his natural ability, carried him through without difficulty. In the fall of 1879 he entered on his college career. From the beginning he took the lead in all his classes. As a freshman he was captain of his class baseball team and also holder of the featherweight boxing championship cup. In fact, during his entire course he was recognized as an athlete, and he won first honors in one of the competitive drills for which that school is noted. After being graduated, Mr. Heilbron took the entrance examination for Harvard university. His previous training, however, combined with his natural ability ever, combined with his natural ability, carried him through without difficulty. In the fall of 1879 he entered on his college career. From the beginning he took the lead in all his classes. As a freshman he was captain of his class baseball team and also holder of the featherweight boxing championship cup. In fact, during his entire course he was recognized as an athlete, and he won first honors in one of the competitive drills for which that school is noted. After being graduated, Mr. Heilbron took the entrance examination for Harvard university. His previous training, however, combined with his natural ability ever, combined with his natural ability, carried him through without difficulty. In the fall of 1879 he entered on his college career. From the beginning he took the lead in all his classes. As a freshman he was captain of his class baseball team and also holder of the featherweight boxing championship cup. In fact, during his entire course he was recognized as an athlete, and he won first honors in one of the competitive drills for which that school is noted. After being graduated, Mr. Heilbron took the entrance examination for Harvard university. His previous training, however, combined with his natural ability ever, combined with his natural ability, carried him through without difficulty. In the fall of 1879 he entered on his college career. From the beginning he took the lead in all his classes. As a freshman he was captain of his class baseball team and also holder of the featherweight boxing championship cup. In fact, during his entire course he was recognized as an athlete, and he won first honors in one of the competitive drills for which that school is noted. After being graduated, Mr. Heilbron took the entrance examination for Harvard university. His previous training, however, combined with his natural ability ever, combined with his natural ability, carried him through without difficulty. In the fall of 1879 he entered on his college career. From the beginning he took the lead in all his classes. As a freshman he was captain of his class baseball team and also holder of the featherweight boxing championship cup. In fact, during his entire course he was recognized as an athlete, and he won first honors in one of the competitive drills for which that school is noted. After being graduated, Mr. Heilbron took the entrance examination for Harvard university. His previous training, however, combined with his natural ability ever, combined with his natural ability, carried him through without difficulty. In the fall of 1879 he entered on his college career. From the beginning he took the lead in all his classes. As a freshman he was captain of his class baseball team and also holder of the featherweight boxing championship cup. In fact, during his entire course he was recognized as an athlete, and he won first honors in one of the competitive drills for which that school is noted. After being graduated, Mr. Heilbron took the entrance examination for Harvard university. His previous training, however, combined with his natural ability ever, combined with his natural ability, carried him through without difficulty. In the fall of 1879 he entered on his college career. From the beginning he took the lead in all his classes. As a freshman he was captain of his class baseball team and also holder of the featherweight boxing championship cup. In fact, during his entire course he was recognized as an athlete, and he won first honors in one of the competitive drills for which that school is noted. After being graduated, Mr. Heilbron took the entrance examination for Harvard university. His previous training, however, combined with his natural ability ever, combined with his natural ability, carried him through without difficulty. In the fall of 1879 he entered on his college career. From the beginning he took the lead in all his classes. As a freshman he was captain of his class baseball team and also holder of the featherweight boxing championship cup. In fact, during his entire course he was recognized as an athlete, and he won first honors in one of the competitive drills for which that school is noted. After being graduated, Mr. Heilbron took the entrance examination for Harvard university. His previous training, however, combined with his natural ability ever, combined with his natural ability, carried him through without difficulty. In the fall of 1879 he entered on his college career. From the beginning he took the lead in all his classes. As a freshman he was captain of his class baseball team and also holder of the featherweight boxing championship cup. In fact, during his entire course he was recognized as an athlete, and he won first honors in one of the competitive drills for which that school is noted. After being graduated, Mr. Heilbron took the entrance examination for Harvard university. His previous training, however, combined with his natural ability ever, combined with his natural ability, carried him through without difficulty. In the fall of 1879 he entered on his college career. From the beginning he took the lead in all his classes. As a freshman he was captain of his class baseball team and also holder of the featherweight boxing championship cup. In fact, during his entire course he was recognized as an athlete, and he won first honors in one of the competitive drills for which that school is noted. After being graduated, Mr. Heilbron took the entrance examination for Harvard university. His previous training, however, combined with his natural ability ever, combined with his natural ability, carried him through without difficulty. In the fall of 1879 he entered on his college career. From the beginning he took the lead in all his classes. As a freshman he was captain of his class baseball team and also holder of the featherweight boxing championship cup. In fact, during his entire course he was recognized as an athlete, and he won first honors in one of the competitive drills for which that school is noted. After being graduated, Mr. Heilbron took the entrance examination for Harvard university. His previous training, however, combined with his natural ability ever, combined with his natural ability, carried him through without difficulty. In the fall of 1879 he entered on his college career. From the beginning he took the lead in all his classes. As a freshman he was captain of his class baseball team and also holder of the featherweight boxing championship cup. In fact, during his entire course he was recognized as an athlete, and he won first honors in one of the competitive drills for which that school is noted. After being graduated, Mr. Heilbron took the entrance examination for Harvard university. His previous training, however, combined with his natural ability ever, combined with his natural ability, carried him through without difficulty. In the fall of 1879 he entered on his college career. From the beginning he took the lead in all his classes. As a freshman he was captain of his class baseball team and also holder of the featherweight boxing championship cup. In fact, during his entire course he was recognized as an athlete, and he won first honors in one of the competitive drills for which that school is noted. After being graduated, Mr. Heilbron took the entrance examination for Harvard university. His previous training, however, combined with his natural ability ever, combined with his natural ability, carried him through without difficulty. In the fall of 1879 he entered on his college career. From the beginning he took the lead in all his classes. As a freshman he was captain of his class baseball team and also holder of the featherweight boxing championship cup. In fact, during his entire course he was recognized as an athlete, and he won first honors in one of the competitive drills for which that school is noted. After being graduated, Mr. Heilbron took the entrance examination for Harvard university. His previous training, however, combined with his natural ability ever, combined with his natural ability, carried him through without difficulty. In the fall of 1879 he entered on his college career. From the beginning he took the lead in all his classes. As a freshman he was captain of his class baseball team and also holder of the featherweight boxing championship cup. In fact, during his entire course he was recognized as an athlete, and he won first honors in one of the competitive drills for which that school is noted. After being graduated, Mr. Heilbron took the entrance examination for Harvard university. His previous training, however, combined with his natural ability ever, combined with his natural ability, carried him through without difficulty. In the fall of 1879 he entered on his college career. From the beginning he took the lead in all his classes. As a freshman he was captain of his class baseball team and also holder of the featherweight boxing championship cup. In fact, during his entire course he was recognized as an athlete, and he won first honors in one of the competitive drills for which that school is noted. After being graduated, Mr. Heilbron took the entrance examination for Harvard university. His previous training, however, combined with his natural ability ever, combined with his natural ability, carried him through without difficulty. In the fall of 1879 he entered on his college career. From the beginning he took the lead in all his classes. As a freshman he was captain of his class baseball team and also holder of the featherweight boxing championship cup. In fact, during his entire course he was recognized as an athlete, and he won first honors in one of the competitive drills for which that school is noted. After being graduated, Mr. Heilbron took the entrance examination for Harvard university. His previous training, however, combined with his natural ability ever, combined with his natural ability, carried him through without difficulty. In the fall of 1879 he entered on his college career. From the beginning he took the lead in all his classes. As a freshman he was captain of his class baseball team and also holder of the featherweight boxing championship cup. In fact, during his entire course he was recognized as an athlete, and he won first honors in one of the competitive drills for which that school is noted. After being graduated, Mr. Heilbron took the entrance examination for Harvard university. His previous training, however, combined with his natural ability ever, combined with his natural ability, carried him through without difficulty. In the fall of 1879 he entered on his college career. From the beginning he took the lead in all his classes. As a freshman he was captain of his class baseball team and also holder of the featherweight boxing championship cup. In fact, during his entire course he was recognized as an athlete, and he won first honors in one of the competitive drills for which that school is noted. After being graduated, Mr. Heilbron took the entrance examination for Harvard university. His previous training, however, combined with his natural ability ever, combined with his natural ability, carried him through without difficulty. In the fall of 1879 he entered on his college career. From the beginning he took the lead in all his classes. As a freshman he was captain of his class baseball team and also holder of the featherweight boxing championship cup. In fact, during his entire course he was recognized as an athlete, and he won first honors in one of the competitive drills for which that school is noted. After being graduated, Mr. Heilbron took the entrance examination for Harvard university. His previous training, however, combined with his natural ability ever, combined with his natural ability, carried him through without difficulty. In the fall of 1879 he entered on his college career. From the beginning he took the lead in all his classes. As a freshman he was captain of his class baseball team and also holder of the featherweight boxing championship cup. In fact, during his entire course he was recognized as an athlete, and he won first honors in one of the competitive drills for which that school is noted. After being graduated, Mr. Heilbron took the entrance examination for Harvard university. His previous training, however, combined with his natural ability ever, combined with his natural ability, carried him through without difficulty. In the fall of 1879 he entered on his college career. From the beginning he took the lead in all his classes. As a freshman he was captain of his class baseball team and also holder of the featherweight boxing championship cup. In fact, during his entire course he was recognized as an athlete, and he won first honors in one of the competitive drills for which that school is noted. After being graduated, Mr. Heilbron took the entrance examination for Harvard university. His previous training, however, combined with his natural ability ever, combined with his natural ability, carried him through without difficulty. In the fall of 1879 he entered on his college career. From the beginning he took the lead in all his classes. As a freshman he was captain of his class baseball team and also holder of the featherweight boxing championship cup. In fact, during his entire course he was recognized as an athlete, and he won first honors in one of the competitive drills for which that school is noted. After being graduated, Mr. Heilbron took the entrance examination for Harvard university. His previous training, however, combined with his natural ability ever, combined with his natural ability, carried him through without difficulty. In the fall of 1879 he entered on his college career. From the beginning he took the lead in all his classes. As a freshman he was captain of his class baseball team and also holder of the featherweight boxing championship cup. In fact, during his entire course he was recognized as an athlete, and he won first honors in one of the competitive drills for which that school is noted. After being graduated, Mr. Heilbron took the entrance examination for Harvard university. His previous training, however, combined with his natural ability ever, combined with his natural ability, carried him through without difficulty. In the fall of 1879 he entered on his college career. From the beginning he took the lead in all his classes. As a freshman he was captain of his class baseball team and also holder of the featherweight boxing championship cup. In fact, during his entire course he was recognized as an athlete, and he won first honors in one of the competitive drills for which that school is noted. After being graduated, Mr. Heilbron took the entrance examination for Harvard university. His previous training, however, combined with his natural ability ever, combined with his natural ability, carried him through without difficulty. In the fall of 1879 he entered on his college career. From the beginning he took the lead in all his classes. As a freshman he was captain of his class baseball team and also holder of the featherweight boxing championship cup. In fact, during his entire course he was recognized as an athlete, and he won first honors in one of the competitive drills for which that school is noted. After being graduated, Mr. Heilbron took the entrance examination for Harvard university. His previous training, however, combined with his natural ability ever, combined with his natural ability, carried him through without difficulty. In the fall of 1879 he entered on his college career. From the beginning he took the lead in all his classes. As a freshman he was captain of his class baseball team and also holder of the featherweight boxing championship cup. In fact, during his entire course he was recognized as an athlete, and he won first honors in one of the competitive drills for which that school is noted. After being graduated, Mr. Heilbron took the entrance examination for Harvard university. His previous training, however, combined with his natural ability ever, combined with his natural ability, carried him through without difficulty. In the fall of 1879 he entered on his college career. From the beginning he took the lead in all his classes. As a freshman he was captain of his class baseball team and also holder of the featherweight boxing championship cup. In fact, during his entire course he was recognized as an athlete, and he won first honors in one of the competitive drills for which that school is noted. After being graduated, Mr. Heilbron took the entrance examination for Harvard university. His previous training, however, combined with his natural ability ever, combined with his natural ability, carried him through without difficulty. In the fall of 1879 he entered on his college career. From the beginning he took the lead in all his classes. As a freshman he was captain of his class baseball team and also holder of the featherweight boxing championship cup. In fact, during his entire course he was recognized as an athlete, and he won first honors in one of the competitive drills for which that school is noted. After being graduated, Mr. Heilbron took the entrance examination for Harvard university. His previous training, however, combined with his natural ability ever, combined with his natural ability, carried him through without difficulty. In the fall of 1879 he entered on his college career. From the beginning he took the lead in all his classes. As a freshman he was captain of his class baseball team and also holder of the featherweight boxing championship cup. In fact, during his entire course he was recognized as an athlete, and he won first honors in one of the competitive drills for which that school