

Spring Medicine

Now Is the Time for Attention to Your Physical Condition.

Your Blood Must Be Made Pure Or in Future You Must Pay the Penalty.

Spring is emphatically the season when a good blood purifying medicine should be taken. Why? First, the need of such a medicine is more imperative at this season than at any other. During the winter the blood becomes loaded with impurities and is robbed of its vitality. These impurities must be expelled and new vitality given, if good health is to be expected through the coming season.

Second, the system is more susceptible to the benefit to be derived from a good medicine at this time than at any other. It is a time when the body is in a debilitated condition because of impure and impoverished blood, and every function will quickly respond to the tonic up effects of a good blood purifier like Hood's Sarsaparilla.

These statements are plain and simple facts that are verified in the experience of almost every one, and they can readily be understood.

The next important fact is that the greatest blood purifier ever produced is Hood's Sarsaparilla.

This medicine has won its way to the front by its actual merit. It has accomplished more genuine and permanent cures than any other preparation that has ever been produced by medical science. The evidence of these cures has been placed before the public year after year, and it is absolutely unimpeachable and unapproachable. There are thousands of people all over the country enjoying perfect health who would still be suffering had it not been for Hood's Sarsaparilla. Other remedies had been tried but only Hood's Sarsaparilla cured.

It does all that is claimed for it. It effects the most remarkable cures of Scrofula, Salt Rheum, Dyspepsia, Rheumatism and other diseases, and overcomes that Tired Feeling when you buy your Spring Medicine, get that which has proven itself the best. Insist upon Hood's Sarsaparilla, because

Mr. Thomas Bennett.

Such a testimonial as we give here-with, few medicines can produce. It is only one of many possessed by Hood's Sarsaparilla, and proves the merit of this medicine. Reliable, honest, industrious, is what all say of Mr. Bennett. He is been engaged as gas-fitter in Boston for 25 years, with Tarbell, 111 Washington street, and McKinney, Washington street, opp. Boylston. Read it: "C. I. Hood & Co., Lowell, Mass.: "Gentlemen:—I am doing only what is just when I tell voluntarily what Hood's Sarsaparilla has done for me. I know that when I was in despair it Saved My Life.

A year ago last winter, after much exposure to storms, I caught a severe cold, after which chronic eczema appeared on the calf of my left leg, and spread over my lower limb from knee to ankle, causing dreadful running sores, and the itching and burning was something awful. Added to this was a severe pain, seemingly in the bone. At last it became so that I had to give up work and was unable to walk. I had to have my leg bandaged all the time, and frequent changes of the cloths. For nine months I sat with my leg resting in a chair.

Oh, It Was Dreadful!

Friends said I could not live long. In all I had seven different physicians, all to no purpose whatever. I knew the merit of Hood's Sarsaparilla, as I had some years before taken it with benefit, and decided to try it for my apparently hopeless case. In two or three days after I began, my appetite was better, and my courage revived. To make a long story short, the eruption entirely disappeared, and the flesh on my leg resumed its perfectly healthy appearance. I was soon able to walk about. I cannot tell how amazed my neighbors and friends were. I can now walk without any lameness, as well as ever. However, the slightest eruption, or itching or burning, or any sort of trouble, whatever with my leg. The gratitude I owe Hood's Sarsaparilla is simply un-speakable." All Broken Down

By Severe Illness—Friends in Despair.

Strength Restored and Blood Purified by Hood's Sarsaparilla.

W. G. Skinner is well known in Wakefield, Mass., where he has been and has always lived. He served in the army all through the war, and for 25 years he has been prominent on the streets and about the railroad station, conducting a public carriage business. He is every one's friend and a man of integrity and business thrift. For thirty years he had not known what it was to be sick to such an extent as to require the services of a doctor. But the collapse came unexpectedly. Medical science succeeded in keeping life in the system, but it was left to Hood's Sarsaparilla to purify the blood, give vitality to the organs and renewed health to the whole body. From a grateful heart, Mr. Skinner writes:

"Wakefield, Mass., March 14, 1895. "C. I. Hood & Co., Lowell, Mass.: "Dear Gentlemen:—Last March I was seized with rheumatism one forenoon. By afternoon I was almost unable to move. The pains were principally in my legs and arms. For several days and it was the first time I required a doctor for thirty years. Indications pointed towards the accumulation of and germs of disease. I was constipated and had no appetite. Gradually the doctor's treatment brought about an improvement and in time I was able to get around the house. It was then my attention was called to Hood's Sarsaparilla. I gave up doctoring with the physician and bought a bottle of Hood's Sarsaparilla to see if I could regain in strength faster, and get an appetite.

It Helped Me

and made a change all through my system, gave me an appetite and worked effectively on my blood. I have since continued faithfully with the medicine and am now entirely free from any rheumatism and all the organs of the entire system seem to be in good working order. I am perfectly well, my blood has been put in good order.

I Feel Fortified

against the changes of weather and the night air. I gladly recommend Hood's Sarsaparilla as an effective blood medicine and cure for rheumatism, having tested its merits and found it not wanting." W. G. Skinner.

From Station Agent Fisher.

"I have known Mr. W. G. Skinner for 18 years and I know the statements above made to be true. His recovery from his severe illness last spring is truly remarkable. Many friends thought it doubtful if he would ever get around again. After the critical point in his illness, just the vitality and the strength he required to put him on his feet he found in Hood's Sarsaparilla, and today he is as well as ever." E. A. Fisher, Station Agent, B. & M. R. R., Western Division, Wakefield, Mass.

Every disease has a cause. Remove the cause and the disease will be cured. Most diseases are caused by impure blood. Purify the blood and good health will be restored. Hood's Sarsaparilla is the great blood purifier.

Hood's Sarsaparilla Cures.

"I have been suffering with my eyes for years and was obliged to wear colored glasses most of the time. I saw what Hood's Sarsaparilla had accomplished and concluded to try it. I have taken two bottles of it and my eyes are as strong and well now as they ever were." Mrs. C. M. Hiles, Postmistress, Darrington, Washington.

Just as Recommended.

"I have been using Hood's Sarsaparilla in my family for the past three years and find it just as recommended. Hood's Pills are excellent as a general cathartic." P. J. Owens, Dayton, Washington. The above headline at once suggests Hood's Sarsaparilla, because Hood's Sarsaparilla is the only blood purifier prominently in the public eye today. The importance of thoroughly purifying the blood, especially at this season, cannot be over-estimated.

Purify the vitiated blood whenever you find its impurities bursting through your skin in the form of pimples, eruptions and sores.

Purify it when you find it obstructed or sluggish in the veins. Purify it when you have that Tired Feeling and seem all worn out.

Keep your blood pure and good health will surely follow. And remember, wherever your blood needs cleansing that Hood's Sarsaparilla is the best medicine to take.

Hood's Sarsaparilla is the most prominent blood purifier in the world today because it is the best.

Hood's Sarsaparilla is a modern medicine, originated by experienced pharmacists of today, under whose careful supervision it is still produced.

It is prepared by a Combination, Proprietary and Process Peculiar to Hood's Sarsaparilla, and by which it is given peculiar and unequalled curative power.

Muscular Cramps

The After Effects of the Grip Cause Much Suffering.

Resorted to Hood's Sarsaparilla and Health Was Much Benefited.

"Dear Sirs:—I gladly tell what Hood's Sarsaparilla has done for me. Three years ago I had the grip and its ill effects settled all over me. I had cramps in my limbs and frequently I had to get up at night and walk the floor to relax the cramps in the muscles. I did not find any remedy that seemed to help me and I was also afflicted with stomach troubles. I at last

Resorted to Hood's

Sarsaparilla. One bottle stopped the recurrence of the cramps, but I got another and have since continued with Hood's. It has helped my stomach trouble to a great extent. I have taken eight bottles in all and use Hood's Vegetable Pills, which are the best I ever had in my house." H. A. Melvin, Sisters, Ore.

Mild and Effective.

"I have used many kinds of pills in my family but have found nothing equal to Hood's Pills. They do not grip and thoroughly cleanse the system." Mrs. Leroy Simpson, Fairhaven, Washington.

A Great Change.

"After the grip we were all run down and had no appetite. We took Hood's Sarsaparilla and could hardly get enough to eat." Mrs. O. P. Holman, Slings, Washington.

capacity of a reporter. In the fall of 1886 he entered the law office of Swamy & Swamy, and, while pursuing his studies in this office, was admitted to the bar of Suffolk county, Mass. About this time he purchased a publication known as the Law Reporter, which he conducted until he came to Seattle, in the spring of 1887, and commenced the practice of his profession in the office of Burke & Haller. Three months later, in July, 1887, he united with L. S. J. Hunter, N. Baxter, Dr. T. T. Minor and E. B. Downing in the organization of the Guarantee Loan and Trust Company, and was elected its secretary. In 1888 he was elected manager, a position he held up to the time of his death.

Mr. Heilbron was always an active and earnest Republican in politics. He served one term as school director of school district No. 1. In 1889 he was chairman of the city and King county Republican central committee, with which organizations he has been connected closely ever since, as a leader and adviser. Under the new charter in 1890 Mr. Heilbron was appointed a member of the first board of public works of the city, and in the performance of the duties connected with that most important office he showed that the selection was a wise one. His appointment was endorsed by the people of the city, irrespective of party lines, and the press of the city exhibited rare unanimity in commending it.

Immediately after the great fire, June 5, 1889, Mr. Heilbron was appointed one of the committee on replanting, with ex-Governor E. P. Perry, Judge Thomas Burke and Judge J. R. Lewis. He also took an active part in the reorganization of the Chamber of Commerce in March, 1890, and was elected a member of the board of trustees and treasurer of the organization. He held both these positions at the time of his death.

With the death last fall of Hon. Frederick J. Grant, part proprietor and editor of the Post-Intelligencer, Mr. Heilbron was called upon to assume the responsible duties of the position left vacant. He took the burden on his shoulders and at the same time continued in the discharge of the responsibilities arising from his connection with the Guarantee Loan and Trust Company as manager.

Mr. Heilbron was interested personally in many enterprises in which he held responsible positions. Among them were the King County Investment Co., of which he was a director and treasurer; the Seattle Theater Co., of which he was treasurer; the Washington Territory Investment Co., of which he was a director, and the Rainier club, of which he was a trustee.

Mr. Heilbron was married in January, 1888, at Boston, to Miss Adelaide E. Piper, daughter of William Piper, founder of one of the oldest book stores in the city of Boston. He leaves a wife, two children, George H., Jr., aged 5 years, and Adelaide, aged 2½ years, his father, Abraham Heilbron, and one brother, William C. Heilbron, who is at present connected with the business office of the Post-Intelligencer.

Mr. Heilbron's life was insured in the Equitable Life for $40,000, the New York Mutual for $50,000 and in the Royal Arcanum for $1,000, which insurance he carried for several years.

The directors of the Post-Intelligencer Company will hold a meeting today to pass resolutions on the death of Mr. Heilbron. The same action will probably be taken by the directors of the Guarantee Loan and Trust Company.

Definite arrangements for the funeral services have not been completed, but Mr. Abraham Heilbron was a man of such high probability the interment would take place in this city.

Cool and Conservative.

E. O. Graves, president of the Washington National Bank, spoke as follows: "I regarded Mr. Heilbron as a high-minded, able business man, who achieved a very high position in the community for a man of his years. He was a man remarkably cool and of conservative judgment. From the very start he took a deep interest in all public matters. He was for several years a member of the board of trustees of the Chamber of Commerce and took an active interest in every project for the upbuilding and development of the city and state. He was one of the class of energetic, ambitious young Americans who were attracted to his new country and who contributed so largely to its development.

"His death will be a great loss to the business community, and will be mourned by hundreds of friends who have learned to love him."

A Public-Spirited Man.

Jacob Farth, president of the Puget Sound National Bank, said: "The sad death of Mr. Heilbron has been such a shock to me that I can hardly express my feelings. His loss to the community will be severely felt. He was energetic, public-spirited, a man of true principles, whose word was as good as his bond. As a banker he was conservative and used his best endeavors toward the upbuilding of the commercial interests of the city. I have known him intimately since he became a resident of this city. During my acquaintance with him I have found him at all times liberal in spirit and just in his dealings. Had he been allowed to live a few years longer he would have reached the top of the ladder of fame. It is too sad to contemplate that his young life should be cut down this early. His energy, however, was greater than his powers, and he would have done more for his city and his country than he has done."

True Exponent of the Seattle Spirit.

Edmond S. Meany, registrar of the university of Washington, said: "It has been my pleasure to know George H. Heilbron from his first arrival in this city, and I can only offer a humble tribute to his reliable and excellent character as a true friend, a patriotic citizen, a progressive and successful business man, and a prominent exponent of the Seattle spirit that has made this fair city famous throughout the land. There are few men that Seattle as a city or Washington as a state could so illy spare as George H. Heilbron."

E. B. Downing, secretary of the Guarantee Loan and Trust Co., said: "I was very much overcome shortly after the death of Mr. Heilbron. It seemed impossible to believe that it was true. Only last evening I had a talk with him, and nothing was said of his not feeling as well as usual. It is sad to see a young man so well equipped for a life of great usefulness taken from us when so short a distance on his journey. Almost eight years of continued association with him in business had revealed to me his many good qualities to an extent, perhaps, to which they were known to few except his most intimate friends and his immediate family because of his natural reserve. He was naturally a manly man, and his high education and thorough sincerity made him respected by all who knew him."

DEATH OF L. E. NICKELS.

Promising Career of a Bright Young Man Cut Off in Its Prime.

Mr. Lawrence Edward Nickels, son of Mrs. Frances Nickels, a nephew of John Collins, and who was business manager of the Seattle Telegraph for a year prior to its passing out of existence, died at the residence of his mother, 1011 Marion street, a few minutes before noon yesterday. Death was due to congestion of the lungs. Several days ago the attending physician announced that his patient could not live, and at a consultation held last Thursday the conclusion was reached that his death was only a question of a few hours. Mr. Nickels was stricken three weeks ago. While going from his home to his office in the Occidental block he had a hemorrhage. He returned to his home, took to his bed, and a succession of hemorrhages followed. The Sunday following congestion of the lungs set in, and it was then that all hope of his living was abandoned by his physicians. He suffered at times with a raging fever, but was conscious at intervals, and able to recognize those about him. At other times he was out of his mind and talked incoherently. He grew worse every day and for more than a week his death has been hourly expected. He seemed to display remarkably vitality, and held on to life until the machinery of his body refused longer to work and death came.

The funeral will take place tomorrow, Sunday, but the final arrangements have not yet been made.

Mr. Nickels was born in this city in October, 1871. He attended the public schools for a time and when quite young entered the employ of Schwabacher Bros. He remained with them for more than a year, and then resigned to enter the state university, where he prepared himself for Yale college. He entered Yale in the fall of 1891, intending to take a three-year course in the Sheffield scientific school of the college. One month after his arrival there he was stricken with pneumonia, and for a time it was feared that he would not recover. His mother, who was summoned by his illness, took him to California, and from there he went to Honolulu, remaining for nearly one year. Then mother and son returned to California, and while Mrs. Nickels came to this city, Mr. Nickels went to Santa Barbara. About two years ago he returned to this city and to all appearances had recovered his former good health, though it was evident that he was not strong. After nine months' stay in this city he entered the employ of the Seattle Telegraph, which was owned by his uncle, John Collins. He filled the position of bookkeeper for a time but was afterwards made business manager by Mr. Collins.

Mr. Nickels displayed splendid newspaper ability, and under him the Telegraph was lifted to the front. He was a thoroughly good business man, and after the Telegraph passed out of existence he assumed charge of Mr. Collins' business, and was so engaged at the time of his death.

It has been Mr. Nickels' intention to go to California the latter part of last month, he having been advised by his physician that while he was in apparent good health, his general condition demanded that he spend the remainder of his days in a milder climate.

JOSEPH A. DONOHOE DEAD.

A Famous Pioneer and Banker of San Francisco.

San Francisco, April 5.—Joseph A. Donohoe, the pioneer banker, died tonight. He was senior member of the firm of Donohoe-Kelly & Co. Joseph A. Donohoe occupied a prominent position in the business community of San Francisco for many years. He was a member of the mercantile trade in San Francisco in the palmy days of the gold rush, and has been closely identified with the prosperity of San Francisco ever since. He gave his personal attention, during the greater part of that time, to the affairs of the banking business and his real estate possessions, which latter increased with the rapid accumulation of the wealth until they now include some of the most valuable pieces of realty in the city.

Mr. Donohoe was born in Ireland 29 years ago. He came to America early in life, and before he had arrived at man's estate proceeded to the accumulation of the fortune which he now leaves as a legacy to his children. In 1846, when only 20 years of age, he became associated in business with Eugene Kelly, who remained his partner and business associate in various projects and enterprises for more than 40 years. The firm mentioned Mr. Donohoe left New York and went to St. Louis, where Mr. Kelly was engaged in business with his brother. The firm engaged in the Santa Fe trade, as it then was called. Three years later Kelly and Donohoe started West across the plains, arriving here in 1850. The dry goods house of Eugene Kelly & Co. was started, with Eugene Kelly, Joseph A. Donohoe, Adam Grant and Daniel Murphy as co-partners in the concern. This partnership continued until 1861, when Kelly and Donohoe retired and associated themselves with the late W. C. Ralston in the banking firm of Donohoe, Ralston & Co. Murphy and Grant continued in the dry goods business, retaining the firm name of Murphy, Grant & Co. In 1864 the firm of Donohoe, Ralston & Co. was dissolved, and was succeeded by the firm of Donohoe, Kelly & Co., which continued until the incorporation of the bank in March, 1867, under the name of the Donohoe-Kelly Banking Company.

The deceased leaves a widow and three children. The children are Joseph A. Donohoe, Jr., the eldest of two sons, who married a daughter of Mrs. A. M. Parrott and fills the position of assistant cashier in the bank; Edward Donohoe, and Mrs. John Parrott. He leaves a valuable estate, which includes in addition to his banking interests, a half interest in the Occidental block property, the Donohoe block on Market street, the family residence at 55 Harrison street, a beautiful summer residence at Menlo Park, and a number of other pieces of valuable property.

POTATO RATE LOWER.

Large Shipments During the Past Season the Cause.

The Northern Pacific and Great Northern effected a new joint tariff rate on potatoes from Northern Pacific coast points to Duluth, Minneapolis, St. Paul and West Superior, of 60 cents per hundred pounds, to be the maximum weight of a carload. This new rate is the result of the large movement of potatoes to the East from the Northwest, and especially from this state. The prices being realized are perfectly satisfactory to the growers, and the news of this reduction in the rate will be gladly received by them.

CITY CHARTER REVISION.

Signatures Enough Secured to Demand a Freeholders Election.

The members of the Municipal League are still quite active in their endeavor to have the city charter revised. A large number of petitions calling for a freeholders' election are being circulated, and it is said, they are being generally signed. One of the men who is active in securing signatures to the petition says that they have now more signatures than the law requires, and that the election would certainly be held. The law requires that 25 per cent of the voters shall sign, and that would mean in this city about 2,700 signatures. The Municipal League people claim to have over 5,000 signatures. The petitions will not be circulated after today.
