

THE WOES OF A WIFE.

Mrs. Rogerson's Unhappy Venture in Matrimony.

THE FRANKLIN MINE DISASTER.

Defense Outlined in Suits For Damages.—Two Inmate Persons Committed to the Asylum—Court Notes.

For the second time in her life Olive Blanch Rogerson was granted a divorce yesterday from her husband, Thomas A. Rogerson, after a bitter contest in Judge Humes' court. The wife attempted to show that the husband was a brute, and the husband introduced testimony to show that Mrs. Rogerson was a vindictive woman.

Mr. Rogerson alleged that Mrs. Rogerson came back to him, not for love and affection and marital happiness, but to regain possession of the note and mortgage which she had executed to him. It was his intention, the husband alleged, to get rid of her the best way she could, once she got possession of the note and mortgage.

The husband and wife charged each other with all sorts of cruelties. Mrs. Rogerson told Judge Humes that on May 23 at Bremerton, where they then resided, Mr. Rogerson, who is employed at the Port Orchard dry dock, struck her in the eye with his fist, injuring her eye, and then knocked her down, and while she lay helpless on the floor kicked and beat her.

As an instance of his wife's alleged brutality the husband stated what he claimed were the facts of the encounter on May 22 at Bremerton. Mrs. Rogerson, he says, caught up a dish of hot fish from the table, where she had just placed it, and hurled the contents in his face. Then she attempted to strike him on the head with the dish. Mr. Rogerson said he had to resort to a little force in order to prevent his enraged wife from further assaulting him. She tried to get at him with a heavy iron fork, and throughout the altercation, according to the husband, the conduct of Mrs. Rogerson was "insulting and violent, and the plaintiff committed the assault with the greatest fury."

Mrs. Rogerson asked for a divorce and the custody of the only child, and Mr. Rogerson's prayer in his answer and cross-complaint contained practically the same requests. Judge Humes, after hearing the evidence, granted the wife a divorce, also the custody of the child, and remarked that he was disposed to grant her $200 a month for the support of her child. He also granted her the custody of the property and the support of the child.

Judge Humes granted Thomas Elias Westlake a legal separation from his wife, Emma M. Westlake, on the ground of cruelty. The testimony showed that the plaintiff and James T. Kelly conducted the fruit stand at the Denver market. Mrs. Westlake despised Kelly for some unexplained reason and told her husband that she would "make E. Westlake think his business relations with Kelly and Mrs. Westlake made good her treat. She subjected him to many indignities, stayed out at night and made false statements to her husband as to where she had been. Mr. Westlake made good her following morning would answer her husband's inquiries as to where she had been during the night by stating that she had been with her friend, Mrs. Dan Laughlin. This, Westlake says, he investigated and found to be untrue.

In December last Mrs. Westlake deserted her husband and went to Portland, where she is now residing. Judge Humes yesterday modified a decree made some time ago in which he ordered George A. Beaulieu, the divorced husband of Lilla Beaulieu, to pay $25 a month for the support of his child, Beaulieu, who is employed on the steamer Lydia H. Thompson, proved to the satisfaction of the court that he was unable to pay the sum of $25, and it was reduced to $15.

THE DEFENSE OUTLINED.

Oregon Improvement Company's Side of the Franklin Mine Disaster.

In their answer filed yesterday to the $100,000 suit for damages brought against them by Nettie J. Jones, who lost her only son, Jones, met death in the Franklin mines in August last, the Oregon Improvement Company and a number of its officers outlined the defense which will be made to the present suit, as well as of those which may hereafter be brought, growing out of the terrible mine horror on the sixth level of the mine in which five lives were lost. The defendants take the position that Miner Jones' death was caused and occasioned solely by his own want of care and skill and lack of thought to not immediately leaving the mine when notified and on discovering that the fire was raging on the sixth level. It was through no carelessness, negligence or want of skill, the defendants say, on their part, that Jones' death was further occasioned, the defendants set up, by a risk incident to his employment as a miner and was a risk entered and assumed by him when he entered the company's employ. Jones' fellow servants in the mine at the time of the horror, also, it is alleged, contributed to his death.

As it is well known, the thirty-five men who met their death in the mine were warned to leave the mine, but instead of doing so at once, stopped to fight the fire which they had to pass on the way out. In the meantime the fan had been stopped, the mine became suddenly filled with bad gas, and the miners were all stricken while trying to reach the mouth of the slope.

The maker of a New York baking powder, instructed a lady that it received highest honors at the Chicago Fair. The honor went to Dr. Price's Ammonia powders were excluded from competition.

STANDARD MILL COMPANY.

Receiver Curtis Tells of Its Financial Condition.

According to the report of Frank I. Curtis, receiver of the Standard Mill Company, filed in the superior court yesterday, the full amount of the same was $150,000; the full amount of the same was $150,000, but only $20,000 was paid in, leaving a balance due of $130,000. The books of the company, the receiver states, show as follows:

Table with columns: Name, Amt., Subd. Paid, Unpd. George F. Evans, $30,000, $10,000, $20,000; Oran Kitley, $30,000, $10,000, $20,000; Geo. E. Wadley, $30,000, $10,000, $20,000; Charles Palmer, $30,000, $10,000, $20,000; James A. Loggie, $30,000, $10,000, $20,000.

The receiver says that he has fully investigated the nature of the outstanding accounts and the notes held by the Seattle National bank as collateral security for the payment of $130,000, and from the investigation it would appear that the amount to be realized out of these notes will only about pay the bank the amount for which they are held as collateral. The outstanding accounts due the company are mostly of long standing, and it will be difficult to realize very much on them.

The receiver says he can operate the mill the coming summer at a small profit by making a contract with the timber men, loggers and mechanics whereby they will look exclusively to the product of their labor for the payment of the amount due them. The court is advised to hold the mill property together for the present and until such time as the market for such property shall have improved. If the property is sold at present the sum realized would, in all probability, only be sufficient to pay off the first mortgage.

Judge Langley signed an order instructing Receiver Curtis to pay 35 per cent. of the claims for labor which have been filed against the company. The court ordered that the claims of J. A. Loggie, Charles Palmer and Oran Kitley for $100 each shall not be allowed as preferred claims for the reason that they are stockholders of the company and are indebted to it on their unpaid capital stock. The receiver was allowed $100 for two months' services.

Taken Under Adversity.

Judge Langley yesterday heard the testimony of several witnesses and then took under advisement the claim of W. Hight for $100 against the old law firm of Turner & McCutcheon. An affidavit was submitted to the court subscribed to by Mrs. Turner, in which she stated that Hight's claim was a valid one and had been allowed by the old firm. Lawyer McCutcheon gave oral testimony to the contrary, denying that the claim was a valid one or that the firm had ever allowed it.

The following new suits were filed yesterday: Mary J. Shaffer vs. Thomas King et ux, goods sold and delivered, $75.00. Jay C. Allen vs. Charles Paff, note and claim for goods sold, $50.00. M. J. LOYAL FRIENDSHIP.

As has always been the case in the past and as it will continue in the future.

Experience in Potato Raising.

Now that the snow drifts are disappearing rapidly under the welcome influence of the sun, farmers in this locality will be thinking of getting the first and one of the most important as well as best paying field crops into the ground. Nearly every farmer has his particular way and time of planting potatoes. So it would be well for every one who has been a successful grower to give his method of growing this important crop. It is an old saying that there is no one so wise that he cannot still learn something.

I have never raised potatoes on a large scale, but usually raise about three acres each year, never paying any attention to the price; but in the long run find the potato crop the best-paying one we raise. However, when potatoes are extremely low and a drug on the market we, as a rule, plant largely, as the majority of farmers cry, "Potatoes don't pay!" and therefore just what they need for family use. Generally by the time the crop is harvested the price has advanced to a paying one, and finds such farmers with none to sell.

We always plant our potatoes on the ground that was in corn the year previous, selecting low, but thoroughly drained, ground; then give it a heavy coat of barn-yard or hog manure in the late fall or early winter. The ground is then left until planting time, and that whenever the ground is sufficiently warm to insure a speedy growth, which mostly happens about the 20th of April. We always endeavor to plant as early as we can to avoid the bugs, as every one knows that they are more destructive to late crops or weak hills in the row. We now select a pure variety of a kind of potatoes that are heavy producers and have a reputation on the market, and cut them to a single eye, if the pieces are fairly more than the eye. Then we start to the field with plow, potatoes and some good commercial phosphate containing a large per cent. of potash.

We now start the plow down a corn-stalk row, and the droppers then follow, dropping the pieces at the land side of the furrow at a distance of about 15 inches apart. The second man follows with the fertilizer, sowing it as near as he can on the next furrow to be plowed, or the one that is to cover the potato.

We then plant in every third furrow until done. If the ground is mellow (which it should be), a healthy roller is run over the patch, and it is left for about ten days and then thoroughly harrowed with a good spike harrow—at least three times. After we see them peeping through the ground, we repeat the harrowing, thus destroying all weeds that will in any way interfere with the growth of the plant until it is large enough for the single cultivator, which we use often and as long as we can, or until after blossoming appears. It is no shovel plow in my patch, as level culture in nine cases out of ten give the best crop. We have tried raising potatoes about every other way in planting, but the above gives us the best satisfaction. Of course, attention must be paid to the bugs, or a day or two of neglect may let them ruin the most promising crop.

Dr. Terry Discharged. Dr. M. F. Terry was tried in the municipal court yesterday on a charge of violating a city ordinance by failing to report a case of scarlatina. The New Telephone Company. Chicago, April 5.—The Times-Herald today relates that the big new telephone enterprise in opposition to the Bell company is backed by the sugar trust, the Standard Oil Company, the rockers in the trusts, and the Pullman company interests. It is stated that this combination is behind the Cosmopolitan electric ordinance, which played such an important part in the recent Chicago municipal election. The new company is the Standard Telephone Company, of New York. The electrical devices to be used are those of Allen T. Nye, who has a prolonged fight on the original patent covering transmission of speech by means of wire. The company proposes to put in telephones all over the country at the uniform price of $100. The Nye devices are already in use in New York and New England; it is said, and it is promised that 5,000 will be in use in Chicago within a few months. The Chicago wires have already been formed east of the Mississippi river, and ten others are in process of organization, to cover the remainder of the territory in which the British provinces and Mexico. New York, April 5.—Thurloe W. Barnes, the active spirit in the new Standard Telephone company, confirms the statement that the capital of the company is $100,000, and that there are fifty different companies chartered and organized. He further says: "We have over 200 prominent capitalists in the city who are interested in the company. We propose to commence our service this summer in this city, with a rate of $3 a month for telephones. It is true that Mr. Scaries, the sugar magnate, is not director of the company. He sold out. He was originally interested in the Standard Telephone company, but was bought out by the syndicate. Mr. Scaries had a right in Arizona, to be gone a month or more, but among those associated with the New York association are his nephew, Ennis M. Scaries, and his son-in-law, William Tuttle."

Business Failures. Fort Worth, Texas, April 5.—The City National bank failed to open this morning. The bank is also the depository of the city treasurer and the Knights of Pythias.

PHYSICIANS NOW ORDER IT.

Paine's Celery Compound the One Spring Remedy That Makes People Well.

Physicians Prescribe It, Use It, and Advise People to Take It in Preference to Anything Else in April and May, Because It Purifies the Blood, Feeds the Brain, and Strengthens the Nerves.

No class of professional men are more conservative, more careful in giving advice or more painstaking in finding out the real facts of a case than physicians. Their recommendation in matters with which they are conversant is trustworthy. When physicians of known repute not only prescribe and use, but also bring home Paine's celery compound for their own families, there can be no doubt of its high standing in the eyes of medical men in general. This is what busy, successful practitioners are doing these spring days all over the country. Paine's celery compound is prepared, as they all know, from the formula of the foremost physician of this century, Prof. Edward E. Phelps, M. D., LL. D., of Dartmouth medical school. Among medical men there is an absolute certainty as to just what Paine's celery compound is capable of doing. The careful record of the vast number of cases where it has made people well has been published in the medical journals of the country. Paine's celery compound stands today as the one thoroughly authenticated remedy for weakness and debility due to malnutrition of the nervous system and impure blood. This hard-working, earnest class of professional men have never been slow in accepting Paine's celery compound. They declare that it gives the tired body every possible chance to get back to a healthy condition. It cures nervous weakness, heart palpitation, general lack of strength and all the faded, fatigued, old, four and a half furlongs, Beau field, 56 1/2, four furlongs, Upman, 1:16 1/4; six furlongs, 1:32 1/4.

Every man and woman plagued with frequent headaches and a weary business man made anxious by pain at the base of the brain and neuralgia twinges, would take Paine's celery compound the world would be lightened of a vast deal of misery that ought never to be borne. The most advanced medical thought of the latter quarter of the 19th century has prepared Paine's celery compound to meet and overcome these troubles that are due to ill-fed, ill-regulated nerves, and poor, thin blood. "I have used Paine's celery compound personally with much benefit. I prescribe it with excellent results." J. H. Thomas, M. D., 23 Liberty street, Pittsburg, Penn., says: "For several months I had been suffering from rheumatism. I had taken all the usual remedies with no real benefit. I took one bottle of Paine's celery compound and found myself much improved. The second bottle is nearly gone and I consider myself cured." W. W. Hubbard, M. D., of Poulney, Vt., writes: "I was run down from repeated attacks of the grip, after taking the first bottle of Paine's celery compound I felt better. The third bottle restored me to my usual health and strength, and I felt ten years younger than before." Dr. William Brown, of Fredonia, Kan., writes: "It has wonderfully improved my general health." W. Allen Hubbard, M. D., Boston, Mass., writes: "I have prescribed the remedy in a number of cases where the blood was impoverished and the nerves weakened. The results have been so satisfactory that I do not hesitate to endorse Paine's celery compound." Similar testimonials literally by hundreds might be quoted. The high scientific attainments of A. Livezey, A. M., D. of Yardley, Penn., have made his statements authority on matters pertaining to health. He gives his personal experience, how he was cured of sleeplessness. J. W. Ferguson, M. D., of Thayer, Kan., tells how it has cured him of dyspepsia, etc. The sum total of the testimony for such men as these, as well as of the more celebrated physicians whose letters have been previously published in these columns, is that Paine's celery compound makes people well.
