

THE JURY IS CHOSEN.

Men Who Hold the Fate of Wilcox in Their Hands.

TRIAL OPENS THIS MORNING.

Page Demurs to Information—An Administrator Suspended—The Clapsdale Case.

A full jury was secured in the case of the state vs. William A. Wilcox at 12 o'clock yesterday afternoon, and the statement of the case for the prosecution was completed by Mr. Wilcox at 1:30, when Judge Humes ordered an adjournment until 9 o'clock this morning.

From the outset Messrs. Winstock and Jagerell, for the defense, manifested a disposition to fight up and down the line as hard as they knew how. They made three distinct motions for continuance, on the grounds respectively of the absence of material testimony and of surprise in the court allowing the state to introduce additional names on the information.

The jury finally selected, after numerous challenges, is made up as follows: E. A. Shipley, J. F. Miller, E. C. King, W. W. Rosen, C. H. Knapp, H. M. Wright, A. S. Miller, T. J. Hartley, Charles Pike, Charles E. Love, D. M. Simonson.

Mr. Wilcox in his opening address to the jury rapidly reviewed the circumstances of the killings as they lived in their little cabin on the South Seattle hillside prior to September 4, 1894, when the murder took place at the visit of James King and Wilcox to this city the fateful fall day.

Wilcox was quite at ease all day long, and looked extremely happy and contented in his consultations. Behind him was his sister, Emma Wilcox, who arrived night before last from Vancouver, B. C., a tall, pleasant young woman, who watches every move with most intense interest.

At the close of the day's proceedings, the defense required that the jury be kept together. The relation of the case there is a small army, then fled out.

GRADE MEN AT OUTF.

Hardin says that Miller defrauded him in Lewis Street Improvement.

In the superior court yesterday L. D. Hardin sued H. F. Miller, the first National Building and Loan Association, a corporation organized under the laws of the state of Washington.

Hardin says that Miller defrauded him in Lewis Street Improvement. He says that Miller received $750 from him for an account, and that he had secured an order restraining the bank from paying any money over to Miller, except such as may be on deposit in excess of $200.

COLT IS SUSPENDED.

Alleged to be unfit to serve as Administrator.

N. B. Colt was yesterday suspended by Judge Langley as administrator of the estate of M. M. Buckman, deceased, and ordered to appear in court May 21 and show cause why his letters should not be revoked.

WEARY OF A CRUEL HUSBAND.

Mrs. McCormick anxious to be freed from galling matrimony.

Dora McCormick yesterday brought suit in the superior court for divorce from John H. McCormick, to whom she was married January 11, 1884.

UNION DEPOT CONNECTIONS.

All trains from the West run into the St. Paul union depot, making close connections with "The North-Western" trains for the East and South.

PUGET SOUND AGENT.

Remember that passengers going to Victoria on the City of Kingston May 23 and 24 can take the Victoria to Seattle and return on the City of Seattle.

THEY MISS IT.

Lectures on the Battle of the Wilderness, given by Prof. Hamilton, Commander Scott of Fort Townsend will be presented by the members of the G. A. R. B. C. 50 cents.

THEY MISS IT.

Lectures on the Battle of the Wilderness, given by Prof. Hamilton, Commander Scott of Fort Townsend will be presented by the members of the G. A. R. B. C. 50 cents.

THEY MISS IT.

Lectures on the Battle of the Wilderness, given by Prof. Hamilton, Commander Scott of Fort Townsend will be presented by the members of the G. A. R. B. C. 50 cents.

and the total interest as $4,955.78.

The city penalty for the new limits is $129.87; old limits, $129.87. The city interest for the new limits is $292.85; old limits, $1,828.27. The county's proportion is $1,119.72, of which $1,570.66 is penalty and $548.86 is interest.

PAUL PAGE DEMURS.

He contends that the information against him is defective.

Paul Page, through his attorneys, S. H. Piles and James Hamilton Lewis, yesterday filed a demurrer to the information against him, assigning four reasons, as follows:

That the information is not warranted by law, and that the prosecution thereunder for the offense named is not justified by any law of the state.

That the information is contrary to the Federal constitution guaranteeing a trial by indictment of the grand jury.

That the information is not direct or certain as to the offense charged or the acts constituting the alleged offense.

Information states no facts sufficient to the offense of murder or any offense under the laws of the state.

The demurrer is accompanied with a motion to quash the information.

Page, when brought before Judge Humes, entered his plea of not guilty.

ANCIENT WOODS OF WOODVILLE.

The $10,000 breach of promise case of In E. Hardin from interfering with her father's will, is set for trial on Judge Ostrom's calendar for today.

SESSION LAWS FOR THE JUSTICES.

County Clerk Gordon has received from the secretary of state thirty-six copies of the session laws of 1895 for distribution among the justices of the peace of King county.

NEW SUITS FILED.

In the superior court yesterday actions were begun as follows:

Charles F. Hazard vs. Frank Kennedy and city of Seattle, garnishment—Appeal from justice court, $200.

Charles F. Hazard vs. Frank Kennedy and city of Seattle, garnishment—Appeal from justice court, $200.

COURTS AND PUBLIC OFFICES.

John F. Bernard yesterday applied to Judge Humes for admission to the bar.

Martha Anderson, of Norway, was yesterday admitted to citizenship by Judge Langley.

A. Ellinger yesterday recovered $8,387.20 from A. E. Williamson in an action on a promissory note.

In Judge Humes' court yesterday Anthony B. Githell was given until May 25 to enter his plea as to murder.

The final report of W. C. Sutton, assignee of Allan & Staenpfl, has been approved and the assignee discharged.

The United States court should have opened yesterday, but owing to the delay in the arrival of Judge Hanford from Walla Walla court will not open in this city until this afternoon.

Marriage licenses were issued yesterday for Carl H. Phelps, of Seattle, and Ida A. McBride, of Gold Hill, Or.; Lawrence P. Byrne, of Fairhaven, and Daisy D. Bowman, of Seattle.

C. Louis Guthell yesterday petitioned for a writ of habeas corpus of the estate of Christian R. Guthell, who died in this city from an overdose of morphine taken suddenly, May 15. The estate consists of the property in the restaurant at 1029 Second street, and is valued at $180.

J. B. Howe finished his argument before Judge Battle in the Griffin case yesterday morning, and was followed by Solon T. Williams, Mr. McCutcheon and E. C. Hughes, the last named concluding late in the afternoon. Some of the attorneys for the honora waived argument. The court will listen today to Mr. Preston.

RELEGATED TO THE COURTS.

Principals Dismissed—Health and Education Boards to Fight Legally.

Developments in the relations of the boards of health and education yesterday show plainly that the existing differences between the two boards are not likely to be adjusted by the courts.

After the proceedings at the court the board of health met in special session and adopted as the general rules and regulations of the department in scarlet fever and diphtheria cases the rules set forth in the circular printed in the Post-Intelligencer of January 9, 1895.

A resolution was adopted asking the city council to pass an ordinance giving the board of health power when in its opinion, any contagious or infectious disease is prevalent to such an extent that the public health is or may be endangered, to close any building, public or private, school or school, during the period of time as it shall deem proper.

Five new cases of scarlet fever were reported yesterday. One was in a child in the First ward and another in a child in the Second ward. The cause was that of a Mercer school teacher.

Mark the difference between Dr. Price's Baking Powder and other baking powders. It does not only better work but does it at half the cost.

Small Fire at Avondale.

News was received in this city yesterday of the burning of John Ware's house, located at Avondale, north of Redmond, last Friday about noon. The house was a wooden structure and had four rooms. The cause is given as a defective fire.

Don't Miss It.

Lectures on the Battle of the Wilderness, given by Prof. Hamilton, Commander Scott of Fort Townsend will be presented by the members of the G. A. R. B. C. 50 cents.

THEY MISS IT.

Lectures on the Battle of the Wilderness, given by Prof. Hamilton, Commander Scott of Fort Townsend will be presented by the members of the G. A. R. B. C. 50 cents.

Clapsdale Case.

Z. C. MILES CO.,

WEARY OF MORTUITY.

A Bereaved Husband Seeks Death by Morphine.

HIS DOG GUARDS HIS BODY.

Found Dead in a Lodging House, Where He Had Fled From Poverty and Despondency.

A man giving his name as Thomas, but who has been positively identified as Daniel Bauman, committed suicide at the Concord house, 1429 Front street, Sunday night by the use of morphine. His body was discovered yesterday morning at 11 o'clock, and at his side on the bed lay a little black dog that fought furiously when strange hands touched his master's body.

Thomas, and that he had been working three months ago, and since then he has been very despondent.

About 8 o'clock Sunday night Bauman went to his room and engaged a room for the night. He paid 25 cents, and after obtaining permission to take his little dog along with him retired to his room.

Further than saying that his name was Thomas, and that he had been working near Snohomish, he gave no information about himself to the people at the lodging house.

The lodger did not get up yesterday morning Mrs. Anna Rober, who with her husband runs the house, sent one of the roomers up to see what was the trouble. After she learned that the lodger was dead, she immediately sent a word across the alley to Butterworth's undertaking rooms.

Bert Butterworth went over to the house, and on entering the room found the body of the man on his left side, trousers, stockings and vest on. At his side was curled the little dog, which growled furiously and attempted to bite when Butterworth's large gunnysack was obtained and the faithful little friend of the dead man was begged.

Coroner Askam was summoned, and on investigating the case found that the dead man had a silver watch, 5 cents in money, a pair of eyeglasses, a bunch of keys, a O. U. W. pin, pocket knife, but no letters or documents that would reveal his name.

The scene and effects were a goodly one. The special mention, the specialties, the great bear dance and the novel seagull dance.

Yesterday the sale of seats opened also in Tacoma, and there were hundreds in line before the sale opened, and it was not until 10 o'clock that the seats had been sold.

Coroner Askam was in doubt as to whether it was a case of suicide, and he decided to hold a post-mortem examination in the afternoon. County Physician Whiting came up to assist, and on seeing the corpse said:

"Why, I know that man; his wife died at his county farm about three months ago of heart disease. She was suffering terribly with dropsy when she came to the hospital, and her death was only a question of time. She and her husband used to live out on Yester avenue, near Lake Washington, as I recall it, and they tried to make a living by running a chicken ranch. Mr. Bauman died her husband, Daniel, was very despondent. I have no doubt that that will explain why he killed himself."

The post-mortem examination confirmed the supposition that he had taken morphine.

Bauman was a good-sized man, and his hands shined conclusively that he had been a laborer.

L. Lawson, a nurse at the county farm, called at the morgue last night and identified Bauman. He said that the man had been in the city for some time, and that he intended to commit suicide.

STOLEN CHAINS RECLAIMED.

Search of Second Hand Store Reveals Plunder From Railroads.

Some boom and log-chains that belong to the Lake Shore railroad, Oregon Improvement Company and Stetson & Post were found yesterday at Cohn & Cahn's second-hand store, at the foot of Yester avenue, near the city hall.

The chains were found in a room that he discovered the goods about a week ago, but did not make any arrests, because he wanted to find out who sold the goods to the second-hand store.

The Lake Shore road, and Master Mechanic Daniel O'Leary, of the Oregon Improvement Company, about them, and the other owner, George Cohn, who was in the city at the time, and Constable Fitzgerald investigated. He found one logging chain eighteen feet long, the property of the Lake Shore road, and one chain of ten feet long, the property of the Oregon Improvement Company, and three boom chains claimed by the Oregon Improvement Company.

The constable was then an agent from Stetson & Post, and he claimed some chains. He was putting them in a wagon when George Cohn took them out, saying he wanted his rights settled in court. George Cohn appeared by the agent and arrested Cohn, who was told at headquarters that he had no charge against him. If they did they would let him know. Cohn & Cahn claim they bought the chains from the Mechanics' mill.

Chief of Police Rogers says the present case is a point in support of his claim that an ordinance should be passed making second-hand men report a list of their purchases every day.

PERSONAL.

Mrs. J. P. Eshelman had yesterday for St. Paul to meet her husband, who is returning from the East.

Capt. and Mrs. Samuel Willey registered at the Hotel Victoria, while passing through the city to Victoria on their bridal tour. They will spend a few days in Victoria attending the festivities of the Queen's birthday.

William George Potts, clerk of the Hotel Victoria, is returning from a visit to the home of his brother in Walla Walla, and will return in a few weeks accompanied by his sister, Miss Anna Potts, who has also been visiting there.

Mr. and Mrs. W. G. Matthews, of King, returned home from Southern California, where they have been in a vain attempt to establish a new business. Mr. Matthews is a wealthy manufacturer.

Deputy City Comptroller Harry W. Carey has received a copy of Prof. William Carey Jones' "Illustrated History of the World," which is the most complete and up-to-date history of the world ever published.

Patrols for Office Only. Dallas Times-Mountaineer. Those chronic politicians who are always feeling the popular pulse to ascertain in what direction their political success will be, are all too busy to be suspicious of any course they may adopt. They are Democrats or Republicans only for office or revenue, and will join the favorites for the same reason.

The grand excursion of the season will be that of the City of Kingston to Victoria May 23 and 24. The First Regiment band of twenty pieces will accompany the excursion and take part in the parade at Victoria. Fare for the round trip only $1.50. Tickets good until the 25th.

THE CADETS IN LINE.

James Sheafe and Fred Morong Win the Leary Medals.

THE DRILL UNUSUALLY LONG.

Herbert Ostrom and John Jackel Hold Out for an Hour—C. K. Jenner's Address on "Success."

The third day of the commencement exercises of the state university was given up to the drill by the cadets for the Leary and silver medals, and the address of C. K. Jenner, of the Haystack chapel concerning "Success." Great interest was manifested in both events and large audiences were present.

Sergeant James Sheafe won the gold medal and Lieut. Fred Morong the silver medal, yet in justice to Herbert Ostrom and John Jackel, especially Ostrom, it must be said that they were equally deserving of the medals. The drill was unusually long, but yesterday the lieutenant found himself compelled to keep the examination up for one hour before naming the victors.

The conditions were favorable for a good exhibition of drilling. The campus presented a lively sight, anxious mothers, pretty sisters and admiring fathers were there in full force. The full complement of Companies A, B and C were in full dress parade uniform and were drawn up across the north end of the ground opposite the spectators, and were in line when the first United States artillery, who has charge of the drilling at the university, was on the ground and took a keen interest in what was going on.

When all the preliminaries had been gone through with, the candidates for special honors were called forth before the assembled crowd. They were chosen some time ago by preliminary drill, and were as follows:

Company B—Clayton Crawford, James Sheafe, Mr. Davis.

Company A—Charles Keene, John Jackel, Ginto Ymaguchi.

Lieut. Wholly put the nine young men through a course of sprouts that, while not on them, was called out to show their knowledge of Uncle Sam's tactics in the military line. If a man made a slight mistake he did not stop the line and correct him at all, but another mother differed. He drills men until he finds out from their actions what they know of the subject and how well they can do.

The exercises of the literary societies in the evening were presided over by Earl R. Jenner, president of the Philomathean, and the grand marshal, president of the Normals. Preliminary to the address Miss Clara Talmadge gave a piano solo, and Miss Alice Howell recited "The Roman Legion." Both young ladies responded to hearty encores. Mr. C. K. Jenner was felicitously introduced by the president of the Philomathean in a brief sentence, as follows:

"The best thing I can do is to say that my name is Jenner and that the speaker of the evening is my father."

Mr. Jenner then took the subject "Success," as applied to life as a finished whole, considering the term in its broadest sense. In looking over history, he said, one selects instinctively the great characters. There were Alexander the Great, whose military exploits led him to conquer the world; Julius Caesar, who carried the Roman empire to its greatest height; Napoleon Bonaparte, who had been crushed down by those he trusted and led behind him a dynasty destined in a few generations to be crushed; Napoleon Bonaparte, whom the star of his destiny guided to the distinction of being the greatest general of his day, yet who died an exile; Cromwell, who had a fall because he had been concentrated on self, and when they expired they left no legacy of love to humanity. True, the Code Napoleon was the rich legacy of the reign of the emperor, but he himself was only an instrument in the hand of fate to bring order out of chaos. His life, predominant by ambition and the desire for power, failed. Ned Forrest, Harry Courtaise, Adeline Patti, James Gordon Bennett, the Rothschilds, Jay Gould, Mrs. Pevan Stevens, all lived for self and died.

In contrast with the above stood Washington, Lincoln, Peter Cooper, George Peabody and Florence Zerkine, whose motives in life had been the good of humanity, of God, and whom thousands had called blessed. When Cardinal Woolsey realized what his life had been, he cried out in the agonies of his heart, "Cromwell, I charge thee, fling away ambition. By that sin fell the angels. How have I made myself a mockery of heaven, to look upon a creature that never fell from heaven, and yet has dared to aspire to its level?"

There is one life that stands out in history as the most successful life. It is that of Jesus Christ. Whether you believe Him divine or human, there is no doubting here. There is an entire absence of self. The old dispensation gave an eye for an eye, a tooth for a tooth, and Solomon, in the last of Ecclesiastes announced the law of retaliation. "Fear God and keep His commandments, was the framework of a gospel of fear. Christ not only gave to man the eleven commandments, "Love one another," but He lived it, and His life is the one that stands out successfully in all history.

"We can gather from what has been said that not one of the lives that sought for self and self alone, that were not actuated by love of country and humanity, has been successful. Therefore, as you strive for success, try to do what God would have you do, and you will find the path of morality, righteousness and truth. That life is most successful which has been devoted to love for the following: to love your country, to love your neighbor, to do good to all men, to keep with a life of truth and love."

Patrols for Office Only. Dallas Times-Mountaineer. Those chronic politicians who are always feeling the popular pulse to ascertain in what direction their political success will be, are all too busy to be suspicious of any course they may adopt. They are Democrats or Republicans only for office or revenue, and will join the favorites for the same reason.

The grand excursion of the season will be that of the City of Kingston to Victoria May 23 and 24. The First Regiment band of twenty pieces will accompany the excursion and take part in the parade at Victoria. Fare for the round trip only $1.50. Tickets good until the 25th.

Yakima as a Beef Country. Yakima Republic. The recent advance in the price of beef cattle is a pertinent reminder to the farmers of Yakima county that they should give more attention than they do to the raising and fattening of cattle for the market.

Washington's Indian Names. New York Sun. Washington is a city with any state of the Union in its Indian names. Several counties bear such names, and many streams, lakes and villages. They are fine, and such a list of names is a goodly one. It is a list of names that are of Indian name, and some of the most picturesque significance lost to our ignorance.

Mix the flour with the baking powder in a dry state and always before sifting. Dr. Price's Baking Powder is best.

PERSONAL. Mrs. J. P. Eshelman had yesterday for St. Paul to meet her husband, who is returning from the East.

Capt. and Mrs. Samuel Willey registered at the Hotel Victoria, while passing through the city to Victoria on their bridal tour. They will spend a few days in Victoria attending the festivities of the Queen's birthday.

William George Potts, clerk of the Hotel Victoria, is returning from a visit to the home of his brother in Walla Walla, and will return in a few weeks accompanied by his sister, Miss Anna Potts, who has also been visiting there.

Mr. and Mrs. W. G. Matthews, of King, returned home from Southern California, where they have been in a vain attempt to establish a new business. Mr. Matthews is a wealthy manufacturer.

Deputy City Comptroller Harry W. Carey has received a copy of Prof. William Carey Jones' "Illustrated History of the World," which is the most complete and up-to-date history of the world ever published.

Patrols for Office Only. Dallas Times-Mountaineer. Those chronic politicians who are always feeling the popular pulse to ascertain in what direction their political success will be, are all too busy to be suspicious of any course they may adopt. They are Democrats or Republicans only for office or revenue, and will join the favorites for the same reason.

The grand excursion of the season will be that of the City of Kingston to Victoria May 23 and 24. The First Regiment band of twenty pieces will accompany the excursion and take part in the parade at Victoria. Fare for the round trip only $1.50. Tickets good until the 25th.

Yakima as a Beef Country. Yakima Republic. The recent advance in the price of beef cattle is a pertinent reminder to the farmers of Yakima county that they should give more attention than they do to the raising and fattening of cattle for the market.

Washington's Indian Names. New York Sun. Washington is a city with any state of the Union in its Indian names. Several counties bear such names, and many streams, lakes and villages. They are fine, and such a list of names is a goodly one. It is a list of names that are of Indian name, and some of the most picturesque significance lost to our ignorance.

Mix the flour with the baking powder in a dry state and always before sifting. Dr. Price's Baking Powder is best.

PERSONAL. Mrs. J. P. Eshelman had yesterday for St. Paul to meet her husband, who is returning from the East.

Capt. and Mrs. Samuel Willey registered at the Hotel Victoria, while passing through the city to Victoria on their bridal tour. They will spend a few days in Victoria attending the festivities of the Queen's birthday.

William George Potts, clerk of the Hotel Victoria, is returning from a visit to the home of his brother in Walla Walla, and will return in a few weeks accompanied by his sister, Miss Anna Potts, who has also been visiting there.

Mr. and Mrs. W. G. Matthews, of King, returned home from Southern California, where they have been in a vain attempt to establish a new business. Mr. Matthews is a wealthy manufacturer.

Deputy City Comptroller Harry W. Carey has received a copy of Prof. William Carey Jones' "Illustrated History of the World," which is the most complete and up-to-date history of the world ever published.

THE CADETS IN LINE.

James Sheafe and Fred Morong Win the Leary Medals.

THE DRILL UNUSUALLY LONG.

Herbert Ostrom and John Jackel Hold Out for an Hour—C. K. Jenner's Address on "Success."

The third day of the commencement exercises of the state university was given up to the drill by the cadets for the Leary and silver medals, and the address of C. K. Jenner, of the Haystack chapel concerning "Success." Great interest was manifested in both events and large audiences were present.

Sergeant James Sheafe won the gold medal and Lieut. Fred Morong the silver medal, yet in justice to Herbert Ostrom and John Jackel, especially Ostrom, it must be said that they were equally deserving of the medals.

The drill was unusually long, but yesterday the lieutenant found himself compelled to keep the examination up for one hour before naming the victors.

The conditions were favorable for a good exhibition of drilling. The campus presented a lively sight, anxious mothers, pretty sisters and admiring fathers were there in full force.

The full complement of Companies A, B and C were in full dress parade uniform and were drawn up across the north end of the ground opposite the spectators, and were in line when the first United States artillery, who has charge of the drilling at the university, was on the ground and took a keen interest in what was going on.

When all the preliminaries had been gone through with, the candidates for special honors were called forth before the assembled crowd. They were chosen some time ago by preliminary drill, and were as follows:

Company B—Clayton Crawford, James Sheafe, Mr. Davis.

Company A—Charles Keene, John Jackel, Ginto Ymaguchi.

Lieut. Wholly put the nine young men through a course of sprouts that, while not on them, was called out to show their knowledge of Uncle Sam's tactics in the military line.

If a man made a slight mistake he did not stop the line and correct him at all, but another mother differed. He drills men until he finds out from their actions what they know of the subject and how well they can do.

The exercises of the literary societies in the evening were presided over by Earl R. Jenner, president of the Philomathean, and the grand marshal, president of the Normals.

Preliminary to the address Miss Clara Talmadge gave a piano solo, and Miss Alice Howell recited "The Roman Legion." Both young ladies responded to hearty encores.

Mr. C. K. Jenner was felicitously introduced by the president of the Philomathean in a brief sentence, as follows:

"The best thing I can do is to say that my name is Jenner and that the speaker of the evening is my father."

Mr. Jenner then took the subject "Success," as applied to life as a finished whole, considering the term in its broadest sense.

In looking over history, he said, one selects instinctively the great characters. There were Alexander the Great, whose military exploits led him to conquer the world; Julius Caesar, who carried the Roman empire to its greatest height; Napoleon Bonaparte, who had been crushed down by those he trusted and led behind him a dynasty destined in a few generations to be crushed.

Napoleon Bonaparte, whom the star of his destiny guided to the distinction of being the greatest general of his day, yet who died an exile; Cromwell, who had a fall because he had been concentrated on self, and when they expired they left no legacy of love to humanity.

True, the Code Napoleon was the rich legacy of the reign of the emperor, but he himself was only an instrument in the hand of fate to bring order out of chaos. His life, predominant by ambition and the desire for power, failed. Ned Forrest, Harry Courtaise, Adeline Patti, James Gordon Bennett, the Rothschilds, Jay Gould, Mrs. Pevan Stevens, all lived for self and died.

In contrast with the above stood Washington, Lincoln, Peter Cooper, George Peabody and Florence Zerkine, whose motives in life had been the good of humanity, of God, and whom thousands had called blessed.

When Cardinal Woolsey realized what his life had been, he cried out in the agonies of his heart, "Cromwell, I charge thee, fling away ambition. By that sin fell the angels. How have I made myself a mockery of heaven, to look upon a creature that never fell from heaven, and yet has dared to aspire to its level?"

There is one life that stands out in history as the most successful life. It is that of Jesus Christ. Whether you believe Him divine or human, there is no doubting here.