

Explore

THE STORE

Right in the height of the season. Dry Goods were never so easily bought as now. New things are being opened and added to the already large stock. May trading goes merrily on.

New Veilings. New Collarettes. New Gloves.

Bits of new things here and there to brighten up a lady's toilet.

Veilings, Gloves, Navy and Brown Silk Net Veilings with Chemise dots. This quality should bring 25c; they are going for 35c a yard. New shipment of Castor Gloves, in white and colored 4-button and Mosquitara lengths, $1 pair. Extra quality Undressed Kid Gloves, black and colors, $1 pair.

W. P. BOYD & CO.

Commenting MAY 4 the N. P. R. R. will sell on SATURDAY and SUNDAY of each week during the summer in the excursion tickets good for 100 days to the Washington Hot Springs (formerly known as the Green River Hot Springs), the greatest and most beautiful resort in the Northwest, situated 83 miles from Seattle, on main line of N. P. R. R., near summit of Cascade range.

$1.40 TO HOT SPRINGS AND RETURN.

Commenting MAY 4 the N. P. R. R. will sell on SATURDAY and SUNDAY of each week during the summer in the excursion tickets good for 100 days to the Washington Hot Springs (formerly known as the Green River Hot Springs), the greatest and most beautiful resort in the Northwest, situated 83 miles from Seattle, on main line of N. P. R. R., near summit of Cascade range.

L. G. McCAIN, Hot Springs, Wash.

Wholesale Orders Are a Specialty With Us.

LOUGH, AUGUSTINE & Co., Nos. 813 and 817 Front St.

NELLE & ENGELBRECHT N. E. Cor. West and Marlowe IMPORTERS AND DEALERS IN ALL KINDS OF GLASS Glazed Sash, Doors, Etc., PLATE GLASS, MIRROR PLATES, BUILDING PAPER.

WASHINGTON IRON WORKS CO. J. M. FRINK, Superintendent. WORKS—Grant St. Bridge, between Norman and B Streets.

Foundry, Machine and Boiler Shops.

M. LEVY & CO. Successors to Lavy Bros. 111 Commercial St., Terry-Downy Building. Importers and Jobbers of CIGARS AND TOBACCO, SMOKERS' ARTICLES, ETC.

MORAN BROS. CO. Foundry, Machine and Boiler Works. Irrigating and Drainage PUMPS In Stock or to Order.

It's the Standard Fashion, in washing and cleaning, to use Pearline. Certainly the enormous amount of it used every year proves it. Millions of women use nothing else. And when you see a fashion so universal, so sensible, and so unchangeable, why not adopt it?

There are many things that try to imitate Pearline. Some of them may be more or less successful for a while—but the public is learning. "You can't fool all the people all the time"—and the women who want the best thing to wash with, one that is absolutely safe, will continue to use Pearline—made only by James Pyle, New York.

GEN. SCHOFIELD TALKS.

He Is Not Seeking the Nomination for President.

CAN'T UNDERSTAND HIS BOOM. Thinks His Views on the Silver Question Not of Public Interest.

Was Greatly Pleased With the Loyalty Shown by Confederate Veterans—Miss Winnie Davis Hugs an Old Confederate Who Once Held Her in His Arms.

St. Louis, May 24.—In a leading editorial today, under the title "Gen. Schofield," the Post-Dispatch advocates Lieut. Gen. Schofield for president, and says: "Lieut. Gen. Schofield, who will retire from the army next fall, exactly meets the requirements for the presidency, other qualifications. Illinois will name the next president. Gen. Schofield is, perhaps, the most celebrated living citizen of Illinois. He is the son of a Baptist preacher, and was born and reared on a farm. The next president must be acceptable to Missouri, as the meeting ground of the West and South. Gen. Schofield has more friends in Missouri on both sides than any other Union officer."

San Antonio, Tex., May 24.—Gen. John M. Schofield, to whom have been attributed presidential aspirations, denied emphatically to a correspondent of the Associated Press that he had ever entertained the subject for an instant. He was seen this afternoon at Fort Sam Houston, just after he had witnessed a cavalry drill. When asked if it were true, as reported, that he would be a candidate for the Democratic presidential nomination on a free coinage platform, he at first laughed, and then, with a suspicion of indignation in his voice, said: "I have never had that matter under consideration," and Gen. Schofield looked as if he were really angry.

"Would you, if you should be a candidate at all, run on a free coinage platform?" was asked.

"That is an issue," he replied, "on which I have very firm convictions, having studied the question for many years, but I am sure the American people care absolutely nothing for my opinion on the silver question, so that any expression of my views would be entirely gratuitous. As to the rumors that I would be a candidate for the presidency, I have heard them, but I do not know when, where or where they originated. Those who have been using my name in such connection have done so without authority."

Gen. Schofield was asked if he would consent to become a candidate if he should be urged, but he would give no committal answer, reiterating: "I have never given any consideration to that question."

He was asked if Speaker Crisp's interview, in which he announced himself in favor of a Western mint with a military record, aided in giving birth to the rumor. He said it might possibly be, but he did not know. He expressed himself as delighted with his visit to Houston during the Confederate reunion.

"I was profoundly impressed with the loyalty evinced by the old Confederates," he added, "and I have heard of the visit as one of the happiest incidents in my life." Gen. Schofield will leave in the morning for El Paso.

WINNIE DAVIS HUGS A VETERAN.

Affecting Scene at Houston—Parade of the Ex-Confederates.

Houston, Tex., May 24.—A touching scene in the Confederate veterans left for home last night and today, there are still thousands here. There was a grand parade this afternoon by the veterans and all the militia companies at Camp Claiborne. The parade was formed by states, the companies being in order in which their respective states seceded from the Union. Miss Winnie Davis and Miss Gordon viewed the veterans and militia which participated, after which there was a grand sham battle and exhibition drill by light battery of the 27th regiment, U. S. A. An elaborate display of fireworks concluded the day's celebration.

A touching incident occurred in the course of the parade. Miss Davis, daughter of Jefferson Davis, "It was I who carried you, child, into prison, to see your father." He got on his knees and threw his arms about him, and they both mingled their tears, and younger spectators present were visibly affected by the scene.

At noon the convention of the United Confederate Veterans resumed its session and took up the work where it left off yesterday.

Not a failure is recorded for Dr. Price's Baking Powder. A standard for forty years.

THE DROWNING OF SETH CATTIN.

His Father and Friends Now Searching for the Body in the Willapa River.

Tacoma, May 24.—Special.—Further details were received today concerning the drowning of Seth Cattin, the well-known young son of Charles Cattin, of this city. In the Upper Cowlitz river last Sunday the young man left his camp in the mountains at 10:30 a. m. Sunday for a fifteen mile ride to the postoffice. Arriving at the postoffice, the young man tied his horse to a tree, entered a canoe, crossed the river, walked to the postoffice two miles away, mailed letters and received mail and started back. Nothing has been seen of him since.

Monday his horse was found tied to the tree, and on the opposite bank were found his tracks leading down to where the canoe had evidently been moored. Tuesday the canoe was found four miles below and full of water. This information comes in a special dispatch to the Ledger from Kelso.

Today Charles Cattin, father of the deceased, was at Napavine, and those called upon H. H. Holt, of this city, by telephone to tell him the results so far of the search. Mr. Cattin had just ridden down from the scene of the drowning and had used up three horses in the ride. He had come to the river at the place in the river, Lake Wolford, Mr. Cattin's son-in-law, who started from here Wednesday morning to join Mr. Cattin had ridden his horse to the place only today. It is believed, reached the scene of the tragedy. Mr. Cattin said the drowning probably took place at a point about two miles below the mouth of the Aspur river, as it is there the tracks of the deceased were found leading down to the bank. About 100 yards below the place where the horse got to the bank two rocky points jut out into the river. Mr. Cattin believes that when Seth got into the canoe and pushed out into the stream the stiff current of the rising river swept the canoe against one of these points before the boy could get his head up stream and capsize the frail craft.

In his conversation with Mr. Holt Mr. Cattin expressed the deepest gratitude to the people of the neighborhood, who have gathered from miles around to assist in the search. For a distance of five miles below the scene of the tragedy the river has been patrolled, and nets have been placed at intervals to keep the body from getting into the drift. Mr. Cattin left Napavine shortly after noon today for the river to resume the search.

GEN. SCHOFIELD TALKS.

He Is Not Seeking the Nomination for President.

CAN'T UNDERSTAND HIS BOOM. Thinks His Views on the Silver Question Not of Public Interest.

Was Greatly Pleased With the Loyalty Shown by Confederate Veterans—Miss Winnie Davis Hugs an Old Confederate Who Once Held Her in His Arms.

St. Louis, May 24.—In a leading editorial today, under the title "Gen. Schofield," the Post-Dispatch advocates Lieut. Gen. Schofield for president, and says: "Lieut. Gen. Schofield, who will retire from the army next fall, exactly meets the requirements for the presidency, other qualifications. Illinois will name the next president. Gen. Schofield is, perhaps, the most celebrated living citizen of Illinois. He is the son of a Baptist preacher, and was born and reared on a farm. The next president must be acceptable to Missouri, as the meeting ground of the West and South. Gen. Schofield has more friends in Missouri on both sides than any other Union officer."

San Antonio, Tex., May 24.—Gen. John M. Schofield, to whom have been attributed presidential aspirations, denied emphatically to a correspondent of the Associated Press that he had ever entertained the subject for an instant. He was seen this afternoon at Fort Sam Houston, just after he had witnessed a cavalry drill. When asked if it were true, as reported, that he would be a candidate for the Democratic presidential nomination on a free coinage platform, he at first laughed, and then, with a suspicion of indignation in his voice, said: "I have never had that matter under consideration," and Gen. Schofield looked as if he were really angry.

"Would you, if you should be a candidate at all, run on a free coinage platform?" was asked.

"That is an issue," he replied, "on which I have very firm convictions, having studied the question for many years, but I am sure the American people care absolutely nothing for my opinion on the silver question, so that any expression of my views would be entirely gratuitous. As to the rumors that I would be a candidate for the presidency, I have heard them, but I do not know when, where or where they originated. Those who have been using my name in such connection have done so without authority."

Gen. Schofield was asked if he would consent to become a candidate if he should be urged, but he would give no committal answer, reiterating: "I have never given any consideration to that question."

He was asked if Speaker Crisp's interview, in which he announced himself in favor of a Western mint with a military record, aided in giving birth to the rumor. He said it might possibly be, but he did not know. He expressed himself as delighted with his visit to Houston during the Confederate reunion.

"I was profoundly impressed with the loyalty evinced by the old Confederates," he added, "and I have heard of the visit as one of the happiest incidents in my life." Gen. Schofield will leave in the morning for El Paso.

WINNIE DAVIS HUGS A VETERAN.

Affecting Scene at Houston—Parade of the Ex-Confederates.

Houston, Tex., May 24.—A touching scene in the Confederate veterans left for home last night and today, there are still thousands here. There was a grand parade this afternoon by the veterans and all the militia companies at Camp Claiborne. The parade was formed by states, the companies being in order in which their respective states seceded from the Union. Miss Winnie Davis and Miss Gordon viewed the veterans and militia which participated, after which there was a grand sham battle and exhibition drill by light battery of the 27th regiment, U. S. A. An elaborate display of fireworks concluded the day's celebration.

A touching incident occurred in the course of the parade. Miss Davis, daughter of Jefferson Davis, "It was I who carried you, child, into prison, to see your father." He got on his knees and threw his arms about him, and they both mingled their tears, and younger spectators present were visibly affected by the scene.

At noon the convention of the United Confederate Veterans resumed its session and took up the work where it left off yesterday.

Not a failure is recorded for Dr. Price's Baking Powder. A standard for forty years.

THE DROWNING OF SETH CATTIN.

His Father and Friends Now Searching for the Body in the Willapa River.

Tacoma, May 24.—Special.—Further details were received today concerning the drowning of Seth Cattin, the well-known young son of Charles Cattin, of this city. In the Upper Cowlitz river last Sunday the young man left his camp in the mountains at 10:30 a. m. Sunday for a fifteen mile ride to the postoffice. Arriving at the postoffice, the young man tied his horse to a tree, entered a canoe, crossed the river, walked to the postoffice two miles away, mailed letters and received mail and started back. Nothing has been seen of him since.

Monday his horse was found tied to the tree, and on the opposite bank were found his tracks leading down to where the canoe had evidently been moored. Tuesday the canoe was found four miles below and full of water. This information comes in a special dispatch to the Ledger from Kelso.

Today Charles Cattin, father of the deceased, was at Napavine, and those called upon H. H. Holt, of this city, by telephone to tell him the results so far of the search. Mr. Cattin had just ridden down from the scene of the drowning and had used up three horses in the ride. He had come to the river at the place in the river, Lake Wolford, Mr. Cattin's son-in-law, who started from here Wednesday morning to join Mr. Cattin had ridden his horse to the place only today. It is believed, reached the scene of the tragedy. Mr. Cattin said the drowning probably took place at a point about two miles below the mouth of the Aspur river, as it is there the tracks of the deceased were found leading down to the bank. About 100 yards below the place where the horse got to the bank two rocky points jut out into the river. Mr. Cattin believes that when Seth got into the canoe and pushed out into the stream the stiff current of the rising river swept the canoe against one of these points before the boy could get his head up stream and capsize the frail craft.

In his conversation with Mr. Holt Mr. Cattin expressed the deepest gratitude to the people of the neighborhood, who have gathered from miles around to assist in the search. For a distance of five miles below the scene of the tragedy the river has been patrolled, and nets have been placed at intervals to keep the body from getting into the drift. Mr. Cattin left Napavine shortly after noon today for the river to resume the search.

SILVERITE IN THE SOUTH.

Ex-Congressman Bryan Replies to Secretary Carlisle.

ANOTHER RALLY AT MEMPHIS.

Silverite Carlisle's Speeches Quoted to Confute Goldberg Carlisle.

In Congress Carlisle Used to Talk Like Coin's Financial School—Missouri Democrats to Hold a Silver Convention—New York Democratic Editors Against Silver.

Memphis, May 24.—Memphis is the storm center of the South just now in the agitation of the all-absorbing currency question. Close upon the events of yesterday's sound money convention at the Auditorium, at which the economic views of the secretary of the treasury were expounded to a large gathering of men from all parts of the South, comes a rousing meeting to-night of an equally numerous class of citizens, whose slogan is honest money, and whose guest of honor was the eloquent young Nebraska ex-congressman, William J. Bryan. Shortly after the sound money convention was called the silver people of this city, also, held a similar convention, with the result that Mr. Bryan consented to reply to the speech of Secretary Carlisle. The meeting was held at the Grand opera house to-night. The subject seats on the stage were occupied by many people as the Auditorium, in which yesterday's convention was held, and a large number of people who sought admittance could not be accommodated.

Mr. Bryan was introduced by Mr. Carmack, editor of the Commercial-Appeal, and received an enthusiastic reception. A considerable part of his speech was taken up by comparisons of Secretary Carlisle's last speech with utterances said to have been made by him in 1878. The telling points in Mr. Bryan's speech were those which exposed the inconsistency of Congressman J. M. Allen, of Mississippi, in a humorous and interesting speech.

Mr. Bryan said in part: "I have read the speech delivered by Mr. Carlisle in this city, and I have compared it with the speech delivered by him on February 21, 1878, in the house of representatives. I am reminded of the language used by David in lamenting the death of Saul: 'How are the mighty fallen!' In 1878 Mr. Carlisle was the brilliant, the brilliant, the brilliant of the Philistines, John Sherman; today, as a Goliath, he daily issues challenges to his former friends. Mr. Carlisle did not refer, while at Memphis, to his speech of 1878, but he referred to it at Covington, and said: 'Some of the opinions then expressed have been modified, and some of them have been changed.' He has not subjected his former statements to a more thorough investigation of the subjects to which they related, but on the question of free coinage my convictions have not been modified. I have not been changed by the hearing of his speech, and I have not been changed by the hearing of his speech, and I have not been changed by the hearing of his speech."

Mr. Carlisle, in his speech, said that he was not in favor of the unlimited coinage of both metals upon terms of exact equality. He said that he was in favor of the unlimited coinage of silver, but he contradicted by his former speech, in which he said that he was in favor of the unlimited coinage of silver.

The struggle now going on cannot cease and ought not to cease until all the industrial interests of the country are fully and finally emancipated from the domination of the syndicates, stock exchanges and other great combinations of money grabbers in this country and Europe."

Mr. Carlisle, in his speech, said that he was not in favor of the unlimited coinage of both metals upon terms of exact equality. He said that he was in favor of the unlimited coinage of silver, but he contradicted by his former speech, in which he said that he was in favor of the unlimited coinage of silver.

Mr. Carlisle, in his speech, said that he was not in favor of the unlimited coinage of both metals upon terms of exact equality. He said that he was in favor of the unlimited coinage of silver, but he contradicted by his former speech, in which he said that he was in favor of the unlimited coinage of silver.

Mr. Carlisle, in his speech, said that he was not in favor of the unlimited coinage of both metals upon terms of exact equality. He said that he was in favor of the unlimited coinage of silver, but he contradicted by his former speech, in which he said that he was in favor of the unlimited coinage of silver.

Mr. Carlisle, in his speech, said that he was not in favor of the unlimited coinage of both metals upon terms of exact equality. He said that he was in favor of the unlimited coinage of silver, but he contradicted by his former speech, in which he said that he was in favor of the unlimited coinage of silver.

Mr. Carlisle, in his speech, said that he was not in favor of the unlimited coinage of both metals upon terms of exact equality. He said that he was in favor of the unlimited coinage of silver, but he contradicted by his former speech, in which he said that he was in favor of the unlimited coinage of silver.

Mr. Carlisle, in his speech, said that he was not in favor of the unlimited coinage of both metals upon terms of exact equality. He said that he was in favor of the unlimited coinage of silver, but he contradicted by his former speech, in which he said that he was in favor of the unlimited coinage of silver.

Mr. Carlisle, in his speech, said that he was not in favor of the unlimited coinage of both metals upon terms of exact equality. He said that he was in favor of the unlimited coinage of silver, but he contradicted by his former speech, in which he said that he was in favor of the unlimited coinage of silver.

Mr. Carlisle, in his speech, said that he was not in favor of the unlimited coinage of both metals upon terms of exact equality. He said that he was in favor of the unlimited coinage of silver, but he contradicted by his former speech, in which he said that he was in favor of the unlimited coinage of silver.

Mr. Carlisle, in his speech, said that he was not in favor of the unlimited coinage of both metals upon terms of exact equality. He said that he was in favor of the unlimited coinage of silver, but he contradicted by his former speech, in which he said that he was in favor of the unlimited coinage of silver.

Mr. Carlisle, in his speech, said that he was not in favor of the unlimited coinage of both metals upon terms of exact equality. He said that he was in favor of the unlimited coinage of silver, but he contradicted by his former speech, in which he said that he was in favor of the unlimited coinage of silver.

Mr. Carlisle, in his speech, said that he was not in favor of the unlimited coinage of both metals upon terms of exact equality. He said that he was in favor of the unlimited coinage of silver, but he contradicted by his former speech, in which he said that he was in favor of the unlimited coinage of silver.

Mr. Carlisle, in his speech, said that he was not in favor of the unlimited coinage of both metals upon terms of exact equality. He said that he was in favor of the unlimited coinage of silver, but he contradicted by his former speech, in which he said that he was in favor of the unlimited coinage of silver.

Mr. Carlisle, in his speech, said that he was not in favor of the unlimited coinage of both metals upon terms of exact equality. He said that he was in favor of the unlimited coinage of silver, but he contradicted by his former speech, in which he said that he was in favor of the unlimited coinage of silver.

Mr. Carlisle, in his speech, said that he was not in favor of the unlimited coinage of both metals upon terms of exact equality. He said that he was in favor of the unlimited coinage of silver, but he contradicted by his former speech, in which he said that he was in favor of the unlimited coinage of silver.

Mr. Carlisle, in his speech, said that he was not in favor of the unlimited coinage of both metals upon terms of exact equality. He said that he was in favor of the unlimited coinage of silver, but he contradicted by his former speech, in which he said that he was in favor of the unlimited coinage of silver.

Mr. Carlisle, in his speech, said that he was not in favor of the unlimited coinage of both metals upon terms of exact equality. He said that he was in favor of the unlimited coinage of silver, but he contradicted by his former speech, in which he said that he was in favor of the unlimited coinage of silver.

Mr. Carlisle, in his speech, said that he was not in favor of the unlimited coinage of both metals upon terms of exact equality. He said that he was in favor of the unlimited coinage of silver, but he contradicted by his former speech, in which he said that he was in favor of the unlimited coinage of silver.

Mr. Carlisle, in his speech, said that he was not in favor of the unlimited coinage of both metals upon terms of exact equality. He said that he was in favor of the unlimited coinage of silver, but he contradicted by his former speech, in which he said that he was in favor of the unlimited coinage of silver.

Mr. Carlisle, in his speech, said that he was not in favor of the unlimited coinage of both metals upon terms of exact equality. He said that he was in favor of the unlimited coinage of silver, but he contradicted by his former speech, in which he said that he was in favor of the unlimited coinage of silver.

Mr. Carlisle, in his speech, said that he was not in favor of the unlimited coinage of both metals upon terms of exact equality. He said that he was in favor of the unlimited coinage of silver, but he contradicted by his former speech, in which he said that he was in favor of the unlimited coinage of silver.

Mr. Carlisle, in his speech, said that he was not in favor of the unlimited coinage of both metals upon terms of exact equality. He said that he was in favor of the unlimited coinage of silver, but he contradicted by his former speech, in which he said that he was in favor of the unlimited coinage of silver.

Mr. Carlisle, in his speech, said that he was not in favor of the unlimited coinage of both metals upon terms of exact equality. He said that he was in favor of the unlimited coinage of silver, but he contradicted by his former speech, in which he said that he was in favor of the unlimited coinage of silver.

Mr. Carlisle, in his speech, said that he was not in favor of the unlimited coinage of both metals upon terms of exact equality. He said that he was in favor of the unlimited coinage of silver, but he contradicted by his former speech, in which he said that he was in favor of the unlimited coinage of silver.

Mr. Carlisle, in his speech, said that he was not in favor of the unlimited coinage of both metals upon terms of exact equality. He said that he was in favor of the unlimited coinage of silver, but he contradicted by his former speech, in which he said that he was in favor of the unlimited coinage of silver.

Mr. Carlisle, in his speech, said that he was not in favor of the unlimited coinage of both metals upon terms of exact equality. He said that he was in favor of the unlimited coinage of silver, but he contradicted by his former speech, in which he said that he was in favor of the unlimited coinage of silver.

Mr. Carlisle, in his speech, said that he was not in favor of the unlimited coinage of both metals upon terms of exact equality. He said that he was in favor of the unlimited coinage of silver, but he contradicted by his former speech, in which he said that he was in favor of the unlimited coinage of silver.

Mr. Carlisle, in his speech, said that he was not in favor of the unlimited coinage of both metals upon terms of exact equality. He said that he was in favor of the unlimited coinage of silver, but he contradicted by his former speech, in which he said that he was in favor of the unlimited coinage of silver.

RESTORATION OF SILVER AFTER WHILE, IF OTHER NATIONS WILL HELP US, AND THEREFORE MAY BE CALLED A BY-AND-BY-METALLIST.

He Says Decency Has Nothing to Do With the Case.

Shanghai, May 23.—Formosa has declared itself a republic, the flag being a yellow dragon on a blue ground. The governor, Chang Ting Sung, is made president, and has notified the foreign representatives.

OSCAR WILDE'S SHAME. He Admits His Intimacy With Lord Young Men's Trial.

London, May 24.—There was the usual crowd at the Old Bailey court room today when Sir Edward Clarke addressed the jury in behalf of Oscar Wilde, charged with serious misdemeanors. Wilde was called to the witness box and given a chair, as he seemed to be broken down. In answer to questions he related how he had been on terms of intimacy with the Marquis of Queensberry's family for years, and entirely denied the charges made against him.

Sir Frank Lockwood, solicitor general, at the conclusion of the address of Sir Edward Clarke, asked a cross-examination of the defendant which lasted over an hour. The accused said Lord Alfred Douglas was in Paris, whether he went there or not, he did not know. He also admitted his intimacy with other young men, whose names were mentioned at the previous trial. Wilde also admitted his intimacy with other young men, whose names were mentioned at the previous trial. Wilde also admitted his intimacy with other young men, whose names were mentioned at the previous trial.

Wilde admitted he had made repeated visits to the room of Alfred Taylor, who met a number of young men. Wilde also admitted his intimacy with other young men, whose names were mentioned at the previous trial. Wilde also admitted his intimacy with other young men, whose names were mentioned at the previous trial.

Wilde admitted he had made repeated visits to the room of Alfred Taylor, who met a number of young men. Wilde also admitted his intimacy with other young men, whose names were mentioned at the previous trial. Wilde also admitted his intimacy with other young men, whose names were mentioned at the previous trial.

Wilde admitted he had made repeated visits to the room of Alfred Taylor, who met a number of young men. Wilde also admitted his intimacy with other young men, whose names were mentioned at the previous trial. Wilde also admitted his intimacy with other young men, whose names were mentioned at the previous trial.

Wilde admitted he had made repeated visits to the room of Alfred Taylor, who met a number of young men. Wilde also admitted his intimacy with other young men, whose names were mentioned at the previous trial. Wilde also admitted his intimacy with other young men, whose names were mentioned at the previous trial.

Wilde admitted he had made repeated visits to the room of Alfred Taylor, who met a number of young men. Wilde also admitted his intimacy with other young men, whose names were mentioned at the previous trial. Wilde also admitted his intimacy with other young men, whose names were mentioned at the previous trial.

Wilde admitted he had made repeated visits to the room of Alfred Taylor, who met a number of young men. Wilde also admitted his intimacy with other young men, whose names were mentioned at the previous trial. Wilde also admitted his intimacy with other young men, whose names were mentioned at the previous trial.

Wilde admitted he had made repeated visits to the room of Alfred Taylor, who met a number of young men. Wilde also admitted his intimacy with other young men, whose names were mentioned at the previous trial. Wilde also admitted his intimacy with other young men, whose names were mentioned at the previous trial.

Wilde admitted he had made repeated visits to the room of Alfred Taylor, who met a number of young men. Wilde also admitted his intimacy with other young men, whose names were mentioned at the previous trial. Wilde also admitted his intimacy with other young men, whose names were mentioned at the previous trial.

Wilde admitted he had made repeated visits to the room of Alfred Taylor, who met a number of young men. Wilde also admitted his intimacy with other young men, whose names were mentioned at the previous trial. Wilde also admitted his intimacy with other young men, whose names were mentioned at the previous trial.

Wilde admitted he had made repeated visits to the room of Alfred Taylor, who met a number of young men. Wilde also admitted his intimacy with other young men, whose names were mentioned at the previous trial. Wilde also admitted his intimacy with other young men, whose names were mentioned at the previous trial.

Wilde admitted he had made repeated visits to the room of Alfred Taylor, who met a number of young men. Wilde also admitted his intimacy with other young men, whose names were mentioned at the previous trial. Wilde also admitted his intimacy with other young men, whose names were mentioned at the previous trial.

Wilde admitted he had made repeated visits to the room of Alfred Taylor, who met a number of young men. Wilde also admitted his intimacy with other young men, whose names were mentioned at the previous trial. Wilde also admitted his intimacy with other young men, whose names were mentioned at the previous trial.

Wilde admitted he had made repeated visits to the room of Alfred Taylor, who met a number of young men. Wilde also admitted his intimacy with other young men, whose names were mentioned at the previous trial. Wilde also admitted his intimacy with other young men, whose names were mentioned at the previous trial.

Wilde admitted he had made repeated visits to the room of Alfred Taylor, who met a number of young men. Wilde also admitted his intimacy with other young men, whose names were mentioned at the previous trial. Wilde also admitted his intimacy with other young men, whose names were mentioned at the previous trial.

Wilde admitted he had made repeated visits to the room of Alfred Taylor, who met a number of young men. Wilde also admitted his intimacy with other young men, whose names were mentioned at the previous trial. Wilde also admitted his intimacy with other young men, whose names were mentioned at the previous trial.

Wilde admitted he had made repeated visits to the room of Alfred Taylor, who met a number of young men. Wilde also admitted his intimacy with other young men, whose names were mentioned at the previous trial. Wilde also admitted his intimacy with other young men, whose names were mentioned at the previous trial.

Wilde admitted he had made repeated visits to the room of Alfred Taylor, who met a number of young men. Wilde also admitted his intimacy with other young men, whose names were mentioned at the previous trial. Wilde also admitted his intimacy with other young men, whose names were mentioned at the previous trial.

Wilde admitted he had made repeated visits to the room of Alfred Taylor, who met a number of young men. Wilde also admitted his intimacy with other young men, whose names were mentioned at the previous trial. Wilde also admitted his intimacy with other young men, whose names were mentioned at the previous trial.

Wilde admitted he had made repeated visits to the room of Alfred Taylor, who met a number of young men. Wilde also admitted his intimacy with other young men, whose names were mentioned at the previous trial. Wilde also admitted his intimacy with other young men, whose names were mentioned at the previous trial.

Wilde admitted he had made repeated visits to the room of Alfred Taylor, who met a number of young men. Wilde also admitted his intimacy with other young men, whose names were mentioned at the previous trial. Wilde also admitted his intimacy with other young men, whose names were mentioned at the previous trial.

Wilde admitted he had made repeated visits to the room of Alfred Taylor, who met a number of young men. Wilde also admitted his intimacy with other young men, whose names were mentioned at the previous trial. Wilde also admitted his intimacy with other young men, whose names were mentioned at the previous trial.