CHARGES AGAINST JUDGE.

Yacht Race Today—English Comment on Saturday's Defeat—Attorneys to Play Ball.

New York, Sept. 22.—Bob Fitzsimmons left this afternoon for Dallas, Texas, on the Pennsylvania road. He was accompanied by Mrs. Fitzsimmons, Martin Julian, his manager; Mrs. Julian, Charles White, the pugilist's trainer; and Emil Roemer, the German wrestler. Fitz will go to Corpus Christi, Tex., where he will remain until he goes to Dallas to fight. The first stop will be made at Lynchburg, Va., where Fitz will give an exhibition. From there the party will go to Corpus Christi, making a short stay at San Antonio. Fitz has rented a cottage at Corpus Christi, near the race track, where daily exhibitions will be given during the season, and where he will train.

CHARGES AGAINST JUDGE.

Tacoma Club Alleges Unfairness in Saturday's Games.

Tacoma, Sept. 22.—Special.—The "Rah! Rah! Rah!" of the Multnomah Club, which echoed and re-echoed through the town last night and reverberated among the hills back of the reservation until a late hour this morning has died away, and all day today the defeated but still confident athletes of the Tacoma Athletic Club have conspired themselves for their lost laurels and are prophesying great things for themselves next spring. Almost the sole topic among the haunts of the amateurs is the "hook-it-all" policy adopted by the winning club. This is not due to any soreness or disappointment consequent upon defeat, but rather to the desire of Tacoma athletes to keep the sport clear of such tactics as were followed by the Multnomah men. Referee Judge comes in for most of the roasting, and the club of which he is president is presumed to endorse his actions.

Four strong charges of unfairness, to use a mild term, are laid against Mr. Judge and the Multnomah club. The referee protested against the phenomenon, first as being a non-resident member of the club, and secondly, on the grounds of professionalism. The second charge was substituted for the first when Multnomah realized that "Tallant," an Astoria man, was liable to protest on the same grounds. There was no evidence whatever to justify the charge of professionalism, and when the committee composed of three men from Tacoma and three from Portland, took it up the charge was dismissed and Sweeney's medals are returned to him.

In the semi-final in the 220-yard run, Eddie Dickson had second place "up his sleeve." But at the finish Mr. Judge stopped upon the track, directed by in front of Dickson, who had to run around him. Coyne, of Multnomah, took second, and Dickson was disqualified from the finals. The three-mile bicycle race would have been won by Jones but for the jockeying of his three competitors from the Multnomah Club. They got him in a pocket and it was only by a splendid spurt that the T. A. C. rider extricated himself and took second.

Several errors as to Pacific Northwest Association records were made in the new card, which was prepared in Portland. The most flagrant one was in the 100-yard dash, which was credited to Fuller and Bennett, of M. A. A. C. 10.45 being the figure given. This record was sent out by the Associated Press, and Fuller was credited in the dispatches with lowering it to 10.35. MacGregor, of T. A. C., made the record, 10.25, at Portland, June 28, beating Fuller two and a half years, and the latter simply equaled the former's time.

There was no happier man in Tacoma last night than C. L. Sweeney, whose performance, considering that he had never trained a day in his life, was something wonderful. He made Kerrigan, the crack runner of Multnomah, exert all his powers to preserve his laurels in the running high jump.

The P. N. A. trophy was to have been presented to the winning club at the theater last night, eight boxes having been reserved for the victors, but owing to the illness of the leading lady of "The Burglar" company there was no performance. The following committee for the ensuing year were appointed by President Curtis of the P. N. A., at a meeting of the board of managers held last evening at the Tacoma hotel: Schedule—George T. Willett, First Secretary; A. A. J. S. Goldsmith, S. A. C.; W. C. Dawson, T. A. A. C.; E. E. Judge, M. A. A. C.; E. D. Steinhamp, La Grande A. C.; Sol Presidential, P. A. A. C.

THE NEW CHALLENGER.

Mr. Rose Will Make No Conditions as to the Race.

London, Sept. 22.—A representative of the Associated Press saw Mr. Rose, who has challenged the New York Yacht Club for a race for the America's Cup tonight. Mr. Rose is a tall, athletic-looking man about 40 years of age, with a bronzed face. He was asked regarding his challenge for the cup, "I have sent a preliminary message to the secretary of the New York Yacht Club, and I have also talked with Mr. Francis M. Van Alen, an American on the subject. The formal challenge will go to the Royal Victoria Yacht Club next week, as soon as the designer and I shall have agreed on the dimensions of the yacht which is to be built and other particulars which it is necessary to incorporate in the challenge. The yacht will be designed by Super. It will be built at Fay's yard in Southampton, and will go to the Royal Victoria Yacht Club next week, as soon as the designer and I shall have agreed on the dimensions of the yacht which is to be built and other particulars which it is necessary to incorporate in the challenge. THE BRITISH DEFEAT.

London Papers on the Result of Saturday's Games.

London, Sept. 22.—In commenting upon the contest in New York on Saturday between the teams of the London and New York Athletic Clubs, the Standard says: It is impossible to conceive of anything more disastrous than the experience of the English athletes. It would be preposterous to attempt to explain away such a defeat. Even if all of our best men had been present and in the finest condition they would have stood little chance against opponents who showed such unquestionable superiority. The Americans probably have the finest team of athletes the world has ever seen. Any true sportsman will not begrudge them the unqualified praise to which they are justly entitled.

BLACKSTONIAN TO THE BAT.

Port Townsend Challenges the Seattle Champions—A Game for Glory.

The fame of Seattle's Blackstonian baseball nine has gone forth, and it is not improbable that several teams from adjacent cities will make efforts to wrest the championship laurels from the home aggregation. The first to throw down the gauntlet is Port Townsend, who claims to have a team of players not only versed in law but versed in the usages of the sphere and wagon tongue.

Last Friday a complaint, verified by E. N. Livermore, attorney for the Port Townsend team, was served on John Wiley, legal adviser and star fielder of the champions. It was issued from the sporting court of the state of Washington, King county, baseball department, and is directed to Hon. Chance Luck, Judge. Plaintiffs state that they have been repeatedly admitted to the various bars of Jefferson county, and that defendants have corporations existing as best they can under and by virtue of misconstruction of the laws of the state. The Port Townsend men insist that they are the true baseball nine of Jefferson county, and have been informed by their victims that they are the best lawyers' nine on the Sound, notwithstanding which the Seattle men have wrongfully proclaimed themselves champions. It is alleged that the defendants have no right, title or interest in the championship, and that the claim "is worse than a Mount Tacoma cloud upon plaintiff's title as aforesaid."

Plaintiffs ask the court to require defendants to cross bats with them in order to determine the claim to the championship, and further, that a decree be entered establishing plaintiff's title; that every delivery of the plaintiff's pitcher be called a strike, and every delivery of the defendant's pitcher be called a ball; and for such other relief as to the court may seem meet and equitable.

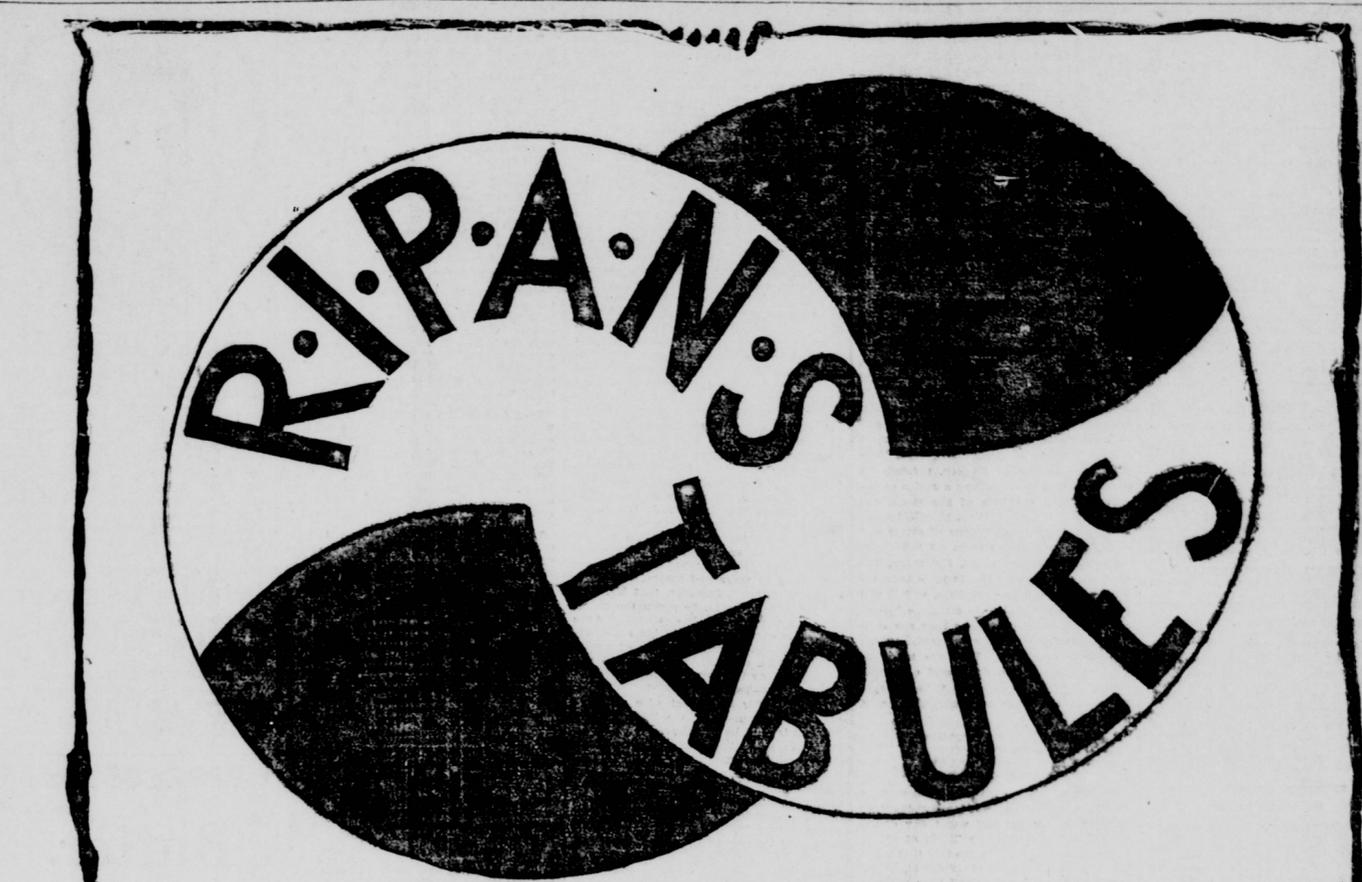

The answer states that if by the allegation that plaintiffs have been repeatedly admitted to bars it is meant bars ornamented with glasses containing liquors, then the defendants admit the same; but if it is meant that plaintiffs have been admitted to practice law, then the defendants have no information or knowledge sufficient to form a belief, and therefore deny the allegation. The Seattle men claim to be rightfully in possession of the title to the championship, and aver their ability to defend it, stating that their strength rests not in the weakness of their adversaries, but in their own superiority. Answering paragraph five, wherein plaintiffs allege that the defendants' claims are "worse than a Mount Tacoma cloud upon plaintiff's title," the defendants waive the offensiveness of the term Mount Tacoma, aver that the plaintiffs never had a title upon which a sked could rest. Defendants pray that their title be adjudged superior to any claim of the plaintiffs, and of the defendants.

The verifications bear the legends of "Waiting for a Boom, County of Jefferson," and "State of Washington, County of Chinook." The complaint is sworn to before R. W. Graver, and the answer before John P. Hornard. The pleadings are concluded with notice of trial of issue of fact before Hon. Chance Luck, at the Y. M. C. A. grounds, September 28, at 2 o'clock p. m.

the bad condition of the grounds. The S. S. A. C. won the game by a score of 21 to 17 in eight innings through hard hitting. Sid Williams, of Reston, as umpire, was, in the opinion of the S. S. A. C., anything but impartial. From the opening play to the beginning of the eighth his decisions caused much comment, and at that point they reached the height of the unsatisfactory. He clipped all previous rulings by giving the game to the Newcastle, although the score stood against them. Following is the score by innings:

A copy of the design of the 500 cup that the Seawanhaka-Corinthian Club has offered for the match between the little contestants was placed on exhibition in the reception room of the clubhouse this afternoon. It is a beautiful work of art, showing on one side the scene of an Indian crossing the rapids of a stream, standing in the canoe, with eyes shaded by the hand. On the reverse side is the inscription: "Seawanhaka international challenge cup for small yachts, offered by the Seawanhaka-Corinthian Yacht Club of New York, A.
