

Full Cream Cheese, . . . 10 Cents a Pound
Home Smoked Hams, 11 Cents a Pound
Anderson's Mincemeat, 15 Cents a Can
Cleaned Currants, . . . 9 Cents a Pound
Schep's Cocoanut, . . . 20 Cents a Pound

NO GETTING AROUND THESE PRICES.
THEY'RE THE LOWEST IN TOWN.

Cooper & Levy,
GROCERS.

J. W. Kahle, Grocer,
Third and Pike Sts.

The New Canned Goods Are in.
San Jose Tomatoes and Fruits, Oregon Peas and String Beans, Maine Corn, Island Asparagus.

LOUGH, AUGUSTINE & Co.,
815 and 817 Front St.

DO YOU WANT A WATCH
For yourself, wife or boy, or anybody else? If so, we have some worth seeing, and being in mind money is always saved by buying from

FRISCH BROS., The Jewelers, 720 Front Street

CHINA DECORATORS.
See Our Line of White China for Decorating.

RIALTO CROCKERY DEPARTMENT.

TAYLOR & WILLIAMS YELLOWSTONE
Distillers SOUR MASH WHISKY.
Louisville, - - Ky. F. A. BUCK & CO., Seattle Agents

Hams, Bacon, Lard,
ASK FOR F. B. Co. BRAND
Made in Seattle.

There Will Soon Be a Demand
For Nuts, Popcorn, Dried Fruits, Candied Citron, Lemon and Orange Peel.
We have them and at prices that correspond to their value.

CONNOR BROS., Grocers, 720 Second Street, Boston Block

"IF AT FIRST YOU DONT SUCCEED," TRY SAFOLIO

EXACT SIZE AND SHAPE OF "LA FLORIDA"

"LA FLORIDA"

A GENTLEMANS FLORIDA HAVANA CIGAR 5 CENTS

$1.45.

A fine Table Lamp, with brass ornamented foot, with shades, colors, with fine painting, outside filter with brass tripod, large burner. Ornamented with a fine blue shade to match bowl, making in all the cheapest table lamp ever offered in the Northwest, and only $1.45. Look in our window. For two days only.

GOLDEN RULE BAZAAR
906 to 912 Front St.

It Hurts
nothing that can be washed or cleaned—Pearline. The purest soap is no safer—the poorest is more effective than the strongest—it is more convenient than the best. Pearline saves labor and wear in washing clothes or cleaning house. A few cents will let you buy it; common sense will make you use it.

Beware
Holders and some unscrupulous grocers will tell you "this is as good as" or "the same as Pearline." IT'S NOT! Pearline is never peddled. If your grocer sends you a substitute, beware! JAMES PYLE, New York

THE CAPITAL BILLS NEW.

Only Two Fit to Be Considered by the Commissioners.

TACOMA RAISING THE INTEREST.

Business Men Will Not Permit the City to Default on Obligations.

New Step Taken in the Effort to Oust Commissioner Holmes—The Columbia River Steamer Harvest Queen Sunk—County Treasurer Hedges Held for Trial.

Olympia, Nov. 19.—Special.—Bids for the construction of the superstructure of the new capitol building were opened today, but owing to the fact that preliminary details must receive the attention of the commission and the advice of the attorney general regarding certain legal questions involved, no conclusion will be reached till tomorrow. The details of the bids were as follows: D. W. Starrett, Port Townsend, $67,158; first alternative, add $28,480; second, add $28,821; third, add $17,000; fourth, deduct $39,669. John Keenan, Spokane, $41,000; no alternative. The bid of Robert Wakefield, Portland, was informal, and was returned unopened. Oscar Hoyer, Spokane, $96,567; first alternative, add $38,849; second, add $12,725; third, add $11,349; fourth, deduct $11,239; deduct $19,750 if Tensio stone is used; fifth, deduct $19,750 if Tensio stone is used; profit without extra cost. F. D. Heustis and A. E. Barrett, Tacoma, $76,000; first alternative, add $21,500; second, add $1,500; third, add $4,500; fourth, deduct $8,750.

The alternative noted in the bids are conditions in the specifications for various kinds of masonry. The bid of Robert Wakefield was accompanied by a bond from non-residents of the state, which is against the provisions of the law, and therefore the bid could not be accepted. The bid of Mr. Starrett was unaccompanied by a bond, and will not be entitled to receive inspection. John Keenan's bid, however, was accompanied by a bond, and an alternative, and will be accepted. This would seem to confine the contest to Huber and Heustis. The bid of the latter stipulated that if at any time during construction of the building the warrants should fall in value below par, the time consumed in placing the same at their face value should be deducted from the time stipulated for completion of the work.

The members of the commission tonight were to meet to consider the bids. The matter, as many details to be first disposed of, will not be taken up until tomorrow. It will be remembered that the last legislative appropriation $300,000, which amount was supposed to be the amount of the $1,000,000 minus $700,000 already expended in preliminary work. Of the new appropriation there has been expended $95,161.44, leaving $204,838.56 for completion of the building, and it is for the commission to decide if any one of the bids or desirable alternatives come within the limit of the appropriation.

His Enemies Insist That the County Treasurer's Bond is Not Valid. Tacoma, Nov. 19.—Special.—Although Chairman C. H. Holmes today filed an additional bond in the sum of $4,000 with O. J. H. Swift, as surety for $5,000, and W. W. Jones, as surety for $5,000, it has not abated one jot of its energy, and now proposes to have the commissioner's office declared vacant. Attorneys G. L. McKay and A. H. Garrison, representing the county, are making war on the commissioner, late this afternoon served a notice on Clerk W. A. Fairweather and Commissioners Bartholomew and Rogers, in which they declare that the office of chairman of the board is now vacant, and that it is the duty of the other two members to elect Mr. Holmes successor.

The notice, signed by four of Mr. Holmes' bondsmen, viz.: Otto Sprague, J. M. Hays, Theodore Huggins and George W. Pife, has withdrawn from the bond, and is no longer a part of it, and that these constitute more than half the full amount of the bond; that two bondsmen, T. C. Van Eaton and O. V. Fawcett, remain, aside from the two named above, that neither of the first two has properly justified on the bond, and have not been accepted as such. The document continues: "You are further notified that more than ten days have elapsed since the said bond was impaired by the withdrawals of the sureties thereon, and no new additional bond has been filed, or approved as required by law. Therefore, under and by virtue of section 2314, volume 1, of Hill's code, C. H. Holmes is disqualified from acting as or in the capacity of a county commissioner, and you are notified to proceed and declare the vacancy in the said office of chairman of the board of the county of Pierce, and to proceed according to law to fill the said vacancy. You are further notified that if you permit the holding of the office of chairman of the board of county commissioners of Pierce county, or to take part in the deliberations of said body as such an officer, or to transact any business for or on behalf of said county, or to handle or expend or collect in any manner money of the said county, that you and each of you and your bondsmen will be held personally responsible." (Signed) "G. L. MCKAY, "A. H. GARRISON, Clark Fairweather at 4 o'clock filed the bond above mentioned with his approval. He declined to allow Messrs. McKay and Garrison to serve subpoenas for their appearance before him under oath, on the advice of the county attorney, there being no provision in the statute for such an examination, and no precedent in the history of the county. The attorney, however, was pleased at the clerk's action, and hurriedly prepared the notice, serving it just before the office in the courthouse closed for the day.

The other two members of the board do not indicate what action they will take in the matter. The county clerk professes his inability to do anything, having no authority to declare Mr. Holmes' office vacant.

The reference in the notice to the county attorney is somewhat curious, inasmuch as the advice of the board Treasurer Hedges took out $7,000 from the Columbia National bank a short time before it failed, and has since kept in the county courthouse, in a vault, amounting to $36,700, was committed yesterday in the presence of the commissioners, and the treasurer's accounts found to be correct.

TACOMA WILL NOT DEFAULT. Money to Pay Interest on City Debt Being Raised by Subscription.

Tacoma, Nov. 19.—Special.—At a meeting of citizens and taxpayers tonight in the city council chamber, called by Mayor Orr to devise ways and means for raising the $24,000 interest on water and bridge bonds, the matter was discussed at length. George H. Smith presided, and Hal Hoffman was secretary. To a committee of five, afterward enlarged to fifteen, was delegated the task of raising $24,000 by subscription. Business men responded, having no objection. Professional men and bankers contributed $7,000 on the spot, leaving the balance for the committee to raise. A question arose as to the legality of the council's proposed action of diverting funds coming in from tax rolls to payment of interest, and it was made plain that the council cannot do this without having the money voted to divert when the money comes in, and no default will be made.

THE HARVEST QUEEN SUNK.

Old Columbia River Steamer Tears a Hole in Her Bottom. Portland, Nov. 19.—The steamer Harvest Queen, belonging to the Oregon Railway & Navigation Company, was beached at Clifton Point this morning to save her from sinking. The vessel was on her way to this city from Astoria and ran against a pile which stove a large hole in her bottom, and she started on her journey. It was soon discovered that she was slowly sinking and she was beached.

Last night's trip of the Harvest Queen was the first in which the steamer was used by the Oregon Railway & Navigation Company as a passenger boat. Yesterday, however, the steamer was chartered by the Harvest Queen. T. J. Potter was held off to have the bottom of the Harvest Queen was placed on the Astoria-Portland route. The boat left Astoria at 7:45 p. m., and about 10 o'clock she was headed in shore on the wharf of the Cape Horn fishery at Nasas, sixty-nine miles below Portland, on the Washington side. In the heavy fog Capt. Bailey evidently miscalculated his distance from the pier and tearing wider and when the lookout in the bow of the boat gave the alarm it was too late to take headway off the steamer. The captain, however, brought the startled passengers on deck the Harvest Queen struck the first row of piling and then, rising on the point of the sunken piles, settled back. The vessel was then struck through the steamer's bottom. The engines, going full speed astern, had sufficient power to drag the boat backward, at the same time breaking up the piling and tearing wider and wider. The steamer immediately began to fill. Capt. Bailey, seeing she was certain to sink, rang for full speed ahead. Before the shore could be reached the vessel was struck by a second pile and put out the fire, the steamer sinking in ten feet of water. The slight panic that prevailed among the passengers was allayed by the officers, and when it was found that the steamer had reached bottom and there was no further danger, those aboard settled themselves to await relief, the sunken steamer afloat, rather than awaiting rescue. The steamer Lurline reached the scene of the wreck shortly after 2 o'clock this morning, and the passengers and cargo were transferred to her. The Harvest Queen was built in 1878. Her dimensions are: Length, 200 feet; breadth, 27 feet; depth, 7.5 feet; with 657 registered tonnage.

Horrible Triple Murder in Oregon.

Brownsville, Or., Nov. 19.—John Montgomery, murdered at 4 o'clock this afternoon on the farm of S. R. Templeton, three miles east of here. All three of the victims had been shot with a rifle, and the motive is at present known for the crime. Montgomery was found lying on his back in the front yard, near a picket fence, with a bullet through his head, with the top of his head blown off and his brains scattered over the fence. McKercher was found in the sitting room, lying on his face, with a bullet through his skull, and a part of his skull gone, and Montgomery's rifle was lying across his legs. Mrs. Montgomery was found in the dining room, lying on her back, with a bullet through her chest, and her position was evidently fleeing from the murderers. Excitement here is intense, and if the murderers are caught they will probably be lynched. No other details are known at present, but it is believed that the tragedy was committed. The coroner was notified and immediately started for the scene.

Trying to Oust Holmes.

Tacoma, Nov. 19.—Special.—County Treasurer John B. Hedges appeared before Justice McMurray today for his attorneys to waive further examination on the charge of receiving interest on county balances at the Columbia National bank. No new testimony was taken. A crowd of about 100 persons gathered outside the court house, with the top of his head blown off and his brains scattered over the fence. McKercher was found in the sitting room, lying on his face, with a bullet through his skull, and a part of his skull gone, and Montgomery's rifle was lying across his legs. Mrs. Montgomery was found in the dining room, lying on her back, with a bullet through her chest, and her position was evidently fleeing from the murderers. Excitement here is intense, and if the murderers are caught they will probably be lynched. No other details are known at present, but it is believed that the tragedy was committed. The coroner was notified and immediately started for the scene.

Brief Tacoma News.

Tacoma, Nov. 19.—Special.—Col. George H. Ellsberg, the Centralia railroad man, is in the city. The company, presenting "The Passing Show," will appear at the Tacoma theater Thursday night. The company, presenting "The Passing Show," will appear at the Tacoma theater Thursday night. The company, presenting "The Passing Show," will appear at the Tacoma theater Thursday night.

Tacoma Wants to Try Again.

Tacoma, Nov. 19.—Special.—Chief Bruemmer of the Tacoma fire department, on behalf of the original team has sent a challenge to Chief Ralph Cook of Seattle, for a match on New Year's evening between the teams that contested for the title of champion of the city. The Tacoma team is not satisfied with the result of the tournament, and is ever for another try. They want to meet the same team as at Seattle. If the challenge is accepted the match will be held on New Year's evening, under the same rules that governed on Wednesday night last.

Tacoma Marins News.

Tacoma, Nov. 19.—Special.—The bark Elkikinger is in port to load lumber. The steamer Umattilla is due here tomorrow from San Francisco at 7 o'clock. She will bring in cargo of 200 tons. The Umattilla will take out eight car loads of wheat and 300 tons of flour, fax, bullion, etc.

Mrs. Ward's Divorce Suit.

Tacoma, Nov. 19.—Special.—In the divorce proceedings brought by Fannie Ward against John E. Ward, the writ of habeas corpus granted the wife last week, to enable her to retain possession of her daughter, Frances Hildebrand Ward, was quashed on the plea of the wife. Mrs. Ward alleges that the husband took the child surreptitiously from her at Seattle.

George Staats, of Sedro, Dead.

Sedro, Nov. 19.—Special.—George Staats, a prominent millman of this place, who was badly broken two weeks ago, died this afternoon. It was found necessary to amputate the leg last Saturday. The funeral will take place Thursday at 2 p. m.

Mrs. Ward's Divorce Suit.

Tacoma, Nov. 19.—Special.—In the divorce proceedings brought by Fannie Ward against John E. Ward, the writ of habeas corpus granted the wife last week, to enable her to retain possession of her daughter, Frances Hildebrand Ward, was quashed on the plea of the wife. Mrs. Ward alleges that the husband took the child surreptitiously from her at Seattle.

George Staats, of Sedro, Dead.

Sedro, Nov. 19.—Special.—George Staats, a prominent millman of this place, who was badly broken two weeks ago, died this afternoon. It was found necessary to amputate the leg last Saturday. The funeral will take place Thursday at 2 p. m.

Mrs. Ward's Divorce Suit.

Tacoma, Nov. 19.—Special.—In the divorce proceedings brought by Fannie Ward against John E. Ward, the writ of habeas corpus granted the wife last week, to enable her to retain possession of her daughter, Frances Hildebrand Ward, was quashed on the plea of the wife. Mrs. Ward alleges that the husband took the child surreptitiously from her at Seattle.

George Staats, of Sedro, Dead.

Sedro, Nov. 19.—Special.—George Staats, a prominent millman of this place, who was badly broken two weeks ago, died this afternoon. It was found necessary to amputate the leg last Saturday. The funeral will take place Thursday at 2 p. m.

THE SULTAN'S SALES.

His Old Protector, Lord Salisbury, to the Rescue.

ABDULL HAMID WRITES A LETTER.

Promises the English Minister, on His Honor, to Effect Reforms.

After Apologizing for the Bloody Turk, Salisbury Attacks Gladstone and Calls the Irish Cut-Throats—Order Being Restored in Turkey Since the Sultan Himself Took Charge.

Brighton, Nov. 19.—Lord Salisbury, the prime minister, addressing the annual conference of the National Union of Conservative Associations here today, said, among other things: "Allow me to say a word in answer to a very distinguished, distant correspondent, if I may term him so, who requested me to make a statement in a speech to the country. This correspondent is no less a person than the sultan of Turkey. Nothing would have induced me to read this august message here except that British and desire that the sultan, in the speech at the Guild hall on the occasion of the lord mayor's dinner, I expressed the opinion that I had little confidence that the sultan's reforms promised for the Turkish empire would be carried into execution. The sultan sends me a message saying this statement has pained him very much, as the carrying out of these reforms is the wish of his people, and he begs me, and further, that he is desirous of executing them as soon as possible. He then proceeds: 'I have already told my ministers that I wish to see the reforms carried out, and I desire that the British, having confidence in these declarations, will make another speech, because of the friendly feeling and disposition he has for me and my country. He then says: "If you will with this with the great object of executing these reforms."

Lord Salisbury then continued: "These last words will acquit me of any impropriety in what I acknowledge to be a very unprecedented course, the reading of a message of this kind at a public meeting. I could not have done this without discarding the usual forms, and I give you my word of honor, I wish Lord Salisbury to know this, and I wish to say that I have no personal confidence in these declarations, which make another speech, because of the friendly feeling and disposition he has for me and my country. He then says: "If you will with this with the great object of executing these reforms."

Lord Salisbury then continued: "These last words will acquit me of any impropriety in what I acknowledge to be a very unprecedented course, the reading of a message of this kind at a public meeting. I could not have done this without discarding the usual forms, and I give you my word of honor, I wish Lord Salisbury to know this, and I wish to say that I have no personal confidence in these declarations, which make another speech, because of the friendly feeling and disposition he has for me and my country. He then says: "If you will with this with the great object of executing these reforms."

Lord Salisbury then continued: "These last words will acquit me of any impropriety in what I acknowledge to be a very unprecedented course, the reading of a message of this kind at a public meeting. I could not have done this without discarding the usual forms, and I give you my word of honor, I wish Lord Salisbury to know this, and I wish to say that I have no personal confidence in these declarations, which make another speech, because of the friendly feeling and disposition he has for me and my country. He then says: "If you will with this with the great object of executing these reforms."

Lord Salisbury then continued: "These last words will acquit me of any impropriety in what I acknowledge to be a very unprecedented course, the reading of a message of this kind at a public meeting. I could not have done this without discarding the usual forms, and I give you my word of honor, I wish Lord Salisbury to know this, and I wish to say that I have no personal confidence in these declarations, which make another speech, because of the friendly feeling and disposition he has for me and my country. He then says: "If you will with this with the great object of executing these reforms."

Lord Salisbury then continued: "These last words will acquit me of any impropriety in what I acknowledge to be a very unprecedented course, the reading of a message of this kind at a public meeting. I could not have done this without discarding the usual forms, and I give you my word of honor, I wish Lord Salisbury to know this, and I wish to say that I have no personal confidence in these declarations, which make another speech, because of the friendly feeling and disposition he has for me and my country. He then says: "If you will with this with the great object of executing these reforms."

Lord Salisbury then continued: "These last words will acquit me of any impropriety in what I acknowledge to be a very unprecedented course, the reading of a message of this kind at a public meeting. I could not have done this without discarding the usual forms, and I give you my word of honor, I wish Lord Salisbury to know this, and I wish to say that I have no personal confidence in these declarations, which make another speech, because of the friendly feeling and disposition he has for me and my country. He then says: "If you will with this with the great object of executing these reforms."

Lord Salisbury then continued: "These last words will acquit me of any impropriety in what I acknowledge to be a very unprecedented course, the reading of a message of this kind at a public meeting. I could not have done this without discarding the usual forms, and I give you my word of honor, I wish Lord Salisbury to know this, and I wish to say that I have no personal confidence in these declarations, which make another speech, because of the friendly feeling and disposition he has for me and my country. He then says: "If you will with this with the great object of executing these reforms."

Lord Salisbury then continued: "These last words will acquit me of any impropriety in what I acknowledge to be a very unprecedented course, the reading of a message of this kind at a public meeting. I could not have done this without discarding the usual forms, and I give you my word of honor, I wish Lord Salisbury to know this, and I wish to say that I have no personal confidence in these declarations, which make another speech, because of the friendly feeling and disposition he has for me and my country. He then says: "If you will with this with the great object of executing these reforms."

Lord Salisbury then continued: "These last words will acquit me of any impropriety in what I acknowledge to be a very unprecedented course, the reading of a message of this kind at a public meeting. I could not have done this without discarding the usual forms, and I give you my word of honor, I wish Lord Salisbury to know this, and I wish to say that I have no personal confidence in these declarations, which make another speech, because of the friendly feeling and disposition he has for me and my country. He then says: "If you will with this with the great object of executing these reforms."

Lord Salisbury then continued: "These last words will acquit me of any impropriety in what I acknowledge to be a very unprecedented course, the reading of a message of this kind at a public meeting. I could not have done this without discarding the usual forms, and I give you my word of honor, I wish Lord Salisbury to know this, and I wish to say that I have no personal confidence in these declarations, which make another speech, because of the friendly feeling and disposition he has for me and my country. He then says: "If you will with this with the great object of executing these reforms."

Lord Salisbury then continued: "These last words will acquit me of any impropriety in what I acknowledge to be a very unprecedented course, the reading of a message of this kind at a public meeting. I could not have done this without discarding the usual forms, and I give you my word of honor, I wish Lord Salisbury to know this, and I wish to say that I have no personal confidence in these declarations, which make another speech, because of the friendly feeling and disposition he has for me and my country. He then says: "If you will with this with the great object of executing these reforms."

Lord Salisbury then continued: "These last words will acquit me of any impropriety in what I acknowledge to be a very unprecedented course, the reading of a message of this kind at a public meeting. I could not have done this without discarding the usual forms, and I give you my word of honor, I wish Lord Salisbury to know this, and I wish to say that I have no personal confidence in these declarations, which make another speech, because of the friendly feeling and disposition he has for me and my country. He then says: "If you will with this with the great object of executing these reforms."

Lord Salisbury then continued: "These last words will acquit me of any impropriety in what I acknowledge to be a very unprecedented course, the reading of a message of this kind at a public meeting. I could not have done this without discarding the usual forms, and I give you my word of honor, I wish Lord Salisbury to know this, and I wish to say that I have no personal confidence in these declarations, which make another speech, because of the friendly feeling and disposition he has for me and my country. He then says: "If you will with this with the great object of executing these reforms."

Lord Salisbury then continued: "These last words will acquit me of any impropriety in what I acknowledge to be a very unprecedented course, the reading of a message of this kind at a public meeting. I could not have done this without discarding the usual forms, and I give you my word of honor, I wish Lord Salisbury to know this, and I wish to say that I have no personal confidence in these declarations, which make another speech, because of the friendly feeling and disposition he has for me and my country. He then says: "If you will with this with the great object of executing these reforms."

that through some rising on the part of what are called the liberals among the Armenians the sultan may be deposed. Several attempts in this direction have already been made, but without success. In such an event it is undecided what position the army would take, and it is possible that such a rising might be followed by an attempt to massacre Christians and foreigners, but it hardly seems probable in a city where the foreign population is so great that any attempt in that direction could proceed to any considerable length. I cannot persuade myself that any event calculated to put our lives in jeopardy will occur without proper provisions for safety being made by our own and other governments. The interior of the country, especially in Armenia and Syria, is in a state of complete insubordination and revolt. The official dispatches at the port indicate that the whole country is ablaze from Bitlis to Aleppo."

Constantinople, Nov. 19.—In order to be safe against an outbreak here, it is said the powers have determined to send two squadrons of British troops to the Bosphorus. The consent of the port, it is believed, can be obtained for this arrangement.

It is learned in diplomatic circles that the Turkish authorities of Moosh have been recently displaying great energy in quelling the fanatical outbreak there, which was recently announced. They prevented a much bloodshed, and in the latest of the disturbances there were only six persons killed and forty wounded. The Mussulman soldiers behaved well. This is regarded here as an auguring for a speedy suppression of the disturbances elsewhere in Asia Minor. The greatest anxiety certainly is now felt among the Turkish officials to stop the carnage.

In response to telegrams sent to Kharpout by United States Minister Terrell regarding the burning of the Armenian mission there, and additional facts were obtained from other sources. As Terrell will communicate with the state department at Washington City on the subject, the facts in his possession cannot be given out here, but enough is known of the American mission at Kharpout to give a general outline: The trouble between the Kurds and Mussulmans at Kharpout had been brewing for some time. On the one hand it was claimed that the Armenians, incited by their revolutionary committee, had been arming themselves, holding secret meetings and preparing for a revolt against the Turkish authorities. The Kurds were precipitated by an attack upon the Mussulman quarter. A second version is that the Kurds, acting under instructions from Yildiz kiosk officials, had planned to massacre the Armenians of Kharpout. The Kurds were provided with weapons similar to those used by the Turkish army, and ammunition was plentifully distributed. At a signal agreed upon, a quarrel was started between the Armenians and an attack upon their quarter was made. The Armenians, anticipating an outbreak, had armed themselves as well as possible, and barricaded their dwellings and made so determined a resistance that the Kurds, which has resolved, so far as it acts, to act with unanimity. Some persons seem to imagine that we, the people of Great Britain, are not doing our duty in not interfering in European powers. This is a crediting us with more influence than we possess. Whatever is done must be done with unanimity, and we should speak in behalf of the powers which will concern us, if the powers do concur, in any action which may be taken. I will not admit that the responsibility of the decisions taken rests entirely or mainly on the first attack. The responsibility is upon us, and upon all the powers in common. All those who have the responsibility must act together, so if there are others who cannot agree with us, we must act together, so if there are others who cannot agree with us, we must act together, so if there are others who cannot agree with us, we must act together.

Lord Salisbury then continued: "These last words will acquit me of any impropriety in what I acknowledge to be a very unprecedented course, the reading of a message of this kind at a public meeting. I could not have done this without discarding the usual forms, and I give you my word of honor, I wish Lord Salisbury to know this, and I wish to say that I have no personal confidence in these declarations, which make another speech, because of the friendly feeling and disposition he has for me and my country. He then says: "If you will with this with the great object of executing these reforms."

Lord Salisbury then continued: "These last words will acquit me of any impropriety in what I acknowledge to be a very unprecedented course, the reading of a message of this kind at a public meeting. I could not have done this without discarding the usual forms, and I give you my word of honor, I wish Lord Salisbury to know this, and I wish to say that I have no personal confidence in these declarations, which make another speech, because of the friendly feeling and disposition he has for me and my country. He then says: "If you will with this with the great object of executing these reforms."

Lord Salisbury then continued: "These last words will acquit me of any impropriety in what I acknowledge to be a very unprecedented course, the reading of a message of this kind at a public meeting. I could not have done this without discarding the usual forms, and I give you my word of honor, I wish Lord Salisbury to know this, and I wish to say that I have no personal confidence in these declarations, which make another speech, because of the friendly feeling and disposition he has for me and my country. He then says: "If you will with this with the great object of executing these reforms."

Lord Salisbury then continued: "These last words will acquit me of any impropriety in what I acknowledge to be a very unprecedented course, the reading of a message of this kind at a public meeting. I could not have done this without discarding the usual forms, and I give you my word of honor, I wish Lord Salisbury to know this, and I wish to say that I have no personal confidence in these declarations, which make another speech, because of the friendly feeling and disposition he has for me and my country. He then says: "If you will with this with the great object of executing these reforms."

Lord Salisbury then continued: "These last words will acquit me of any impropriety in what I acknowledge to be a very unprecedented course, the reading of a message of this kind at a public meeting. I could not have done this without discarding the usual forms, and I give you my word of honor, I wish Lord Salisbury to know this, and I wish to say that I have no personal confidence in these declarations, which make another speech, because of the friendly feeling and disposition he has for me and my country. He then says: "If you will with this with the great object of executing these reforms."

Lord Salisbury then continued: "These last words will acquit me of any impropriety in what I acknowledge to be a very unprecedented course, the reading of a message of this kind at a public meeting. I could not have done this without discarding the usual forms, and I give you my word of honor, I wish Lord Salisbury to know this, and I wish to say that I have no personal confidence in these declarations, which make another speech, because of the friendly feeling and disposition he has for me and my country. He then says: "If you will with this with the great object of executing these reforms."

Lord Salisbury then continued: "These last words will acquit me of any impropriety in what I acknowledge to be a very unprecedented course, the reading of a message of this kind at a public meeting. I could not have done this without discarding the usual forms, and I give you my word of honor, I wish Lord Salisbury to know this, and I wish to say that I have no personal confidence in these declarations, which make another speech, because of the friendly feeling and disposition he has for me and my country. He then says: "If you will with this with the great object of executing these reforms."

Lord Salisbury then continued: "These last words will acquit me of any impropriety in what I acknowledge to be a very unprecedented course, the reading of a message of this kind at a public meeting. I could not have done this without discarding the usual forms, and I give you my word of honor, I wish Lord Salisbury to know this, and I wish to say that I have no personal confidence in these declarations, which make another speech, because of the friendly feeling and disposition he has for me and my country. He then says: "If you will with this with the great object of executing these reforms."

Lord Salisbury then continued: "These last words will acquit me of any impropriety in what I acknowledge to be a very unprecedented course, the reading of a message of this kind at a public meeting. I could not have done this without discarding the usual forms, and I give you my word of honor, I wish Lord Salisbury to know this, and I wish to say that I have no personal confidence in these declarations, which make another speech, because of the friendly feeling and disposition he has for me and my country. He then says: "If you will with this with the great object of executing these reforms."

Lord Salisbury then continued: "These last words will acquit me of any impropriety in what I acknowledge to be a very unprecedented course, the reading of a message of this kind at a public meeting. I could not have done this without discarding the usual forms, and I give you my word of honor, I wish Lord Salisbury to know this, and I wish to say that I have no personal confidence in these declarations, which make another speech, because of the friendly feeling and disposition he has for me and my country. He then says: "If you will with this with the great object of executing these reforms."

Lord Salisbury then continued: "These last words will acquit me of any impropriety in what I acknowledge to be a very unprecedented course, the reading of a message of this kind at a public meeting. I could not have done this without discarding the usual forms, and I give you my word of honor, I wish Lord Salisbury to know this, and I wish to say that I have no personal confidence in these declarations, which make another speech, because of the friendly feeling and disposition he has for me and my country. He then says: "If you will with this with the great object of executing these reforms."

Lord Salisbury then continued: "These last words will acquit me of any impropriety in what I acknowledge to be a very unprecedented course, the reading of a message of this kind at a public meeting. I could not have done this without discarding the usual forms, and I give you my word of honor, I wish Lord Salisbury to know this, and I wish to say that I have no personal confidence in these declarations, which make another speech, because of the friendly feeling and disposition he has for me and my country. He then says: "If you will with this with the great object of executing these reforms."

Lord Salisbury then continued: "These last words will acquit me of any impropriety in what I acknowledge to be a very unprecedented course, the reading of a message of this kind at a public meeting. I could not have done this without discarding the usual forms, and I give you my word of honor, I wish Lord Salisbury to know this, and I wish to say that I have no personal confidence in these declarations, which make another speech, because of the friendly feeling and disposition he has for me and my country. He then says: "If you will with this with the great object of executing these reforms."

Lord Salisbury then continued: "These last words will acquit me of any impropriety in what I acknowledge to be a very unprecedented course, the reading of a message of this kind at a public meeting. I could not have done this without discarding the usual forms, and I give you my word of honor, I wish Lord Salisbury to know this, and I wish to say that I have no personal confidence in these declarations, which make another speech, because of the friendly feeling and disposition he has for me and my country. He then says: "If you will with this with the great object of executing these reforms."