

FORCED ON THE SLY Who Caught Krug Returns to Single Blessedness.

Wife Finds a Home—Collins' Disease to Suit by the City—Verdict Against Cable Line.

The man who caught Krug seems to have been mixed up in more than one unusual case. His name is... On September 27 of last year Frank Crawford, for that is his name, accompanied by his attorney, slipped into Judge Humes' department of the superior court and presented his complaint against his wife, Mrs. Crawford, as sister of the late Mrs. Radford, of insurance company, but of course the complaint did not say anything about that. It merely stated that the couple had been married on April 10, 1888, in Whatcom county, and had one child, a boy named Ira, 11 months old. For a long time, said Mr. Crawford, he and his wife had been wholly incompatible and uncongenial. In fact, there was nothing in such a complaint to mark it as a "ringer." Most any man would say such things of a woman if he did not care to let her know that he was not serious. If, however, he did not care to live with her, he would not care to let her know that he was not serious. If, however, he did not care to live with her, he would not care to let her know that he was not serious.

NOT A CONTRACT OF SALE. An Application of the Statute of Frauds—Superior Court Reversed.

The judgment of non-suit of the superior court in the case of the Puget Sound Machinery Co. vs. Rigby & Evans, has been ordered reversed by the supreme court, which has held that the question as to whether a contract for the manufacture and delivery of a mill, and pumping machinery, was a contract of sale, should be determined by the facts, and not by the terms of the contract. The court held that the contract was a contract of sale, and that the statute of frauds applied. The court also held that the contract was enforceable, and that the plaintiff was entitled to recover the price of the machinery.

BEATEN IN COURT ALSO. Smith Will Get Nothing for Having Been Shipped by Kahaley.

Instead of receiving a judgment of $1,000, as prayed for in his complaint, Joseph Smith was given nothing in Judge Osborn's court yesterday in his damage suit against L. Kahaley. The case dates back to October 1904, when Kahaley ordered that he should be put in the mill, which is held by the third time to collect a bill of 35 cents due him from Smith. He was met with some remarks that could hardly be called complimentary. The court found in favor of Kahaley, and Smith was ordered to pay the costs of the suit.

JANE DOE, WIFE. A Home and Foster Parents for a Deaf and Mute Little Girl.

In Judge Langley's court yesterday appeared Frank and Nettie Joslin, of Ballard, with a little girl about a year old, who, they said, had become greatly attached to them. They did not know the little one's name, nor her parents, nor anything about her save that she was about a year old. The court granted the petition, and the girl was committed to the care of the Joslins.

The cow-butcher man, otherwise known as W. J. Henderson, is now determined to obtain legal redress from Dr. F. S. Palmer, health officer, for the proceedings in the oleomargarine case in the municipal court. He claims the prosecution was malicious and asks for damages in $5,000. The complaint, which was filed in the superior court yesterday, charges that on November 7, 1904, the health officer went to the cow-butcher store and seized a tub of oleomargarine without authority of law. The complaint also charges that the health officer placed the tub on the sidewalk, and did there, willfully and with intent to do injury to the business and reputation of said plaintiff, cause to be put into said tub, willfully and with intent to do injury to the business and reputation of said plaintiff, cause to be put into said tub, willfully and with intent to do injury to the business and reputation of said plaintiff.

Lytle's action for the value of 5,000 cigars against the Seattle Transfer Company and Emmons & Emmons, the last-named yesterday filed an answer claiming that the property was taken under a writ of arrestment, in a suit where J. Beck recovered a judgment for $88.39 against Lytle, Emmons & Emmons, and that they are the real parties in interest and that the property levied on was worth $80, which sum should be credited on the judgment.

Butler, president of the State Savings bank of Seattle, and he says the executrix has failed to allow or reject the claim, although it has been properly presented. The executrix was cited to show cause February 25 why she should not proceed with the settlement of the estate, and why her letters as executrix and trustee should not be revoked. Since her appointment she has married Harry C. Donald, is now living at Sonoma, Cal., although she claims La Conner, Snohomish county, as her residence.

Gamble, who were opposing counsel, were satisfied with the result, and that both were willing to try conclusions again.

The Seattle Hardware Company filed a suit in the Federal court yesterday against the Seattle Consolidated Street Railway Company and others for $707.94, alleged to be due for materials and supplies furnished the railroad company. The investigation failed to connect him in any way with the case. Mr. Eder is a resident of Port Townsend, and is a peddler by trade. Where Boys Play Poker. Eddie Bertrand was up before Judge Glasgow yesterday afternoon as an inoffensive youth. The judge, after listening to the case, ordered him to report next Saturday and give an account of his doings. It appeared from the testimony that Bertrand is in the habit of staying away from home and puts in part of his time in a place kept by Japanese in the southern part of the city where young boys play pool and poker for money. He was understood to frequent such a place at the corner of Jackson street and Seventh avenue south. Detective Philbrick went out to investigate the existence of such a place. He found that there was a Japanese billiard hall on Main street, corner of Fourth avenue south, and from the looks of things came to the conclusion that that was the place referred to. The police will keep an eye on this institution in the future.
